MAY BE A DESERTER

CASE OF THOMAS KELLY, ALIAS MURPHY, IN COURT.

On Being Arrested on Charge of Drunkenness He Told Police He Was Deserter From Battery But Afterwards Changed His Mind — Gave His Wrong Name to Police.

When Thomas Murphy, about thirty-six years of age, was arrested on Wednesday on a charge of drunkenness, he claimed that he was a deserter from the local battery. When he sobered up and came before Mayor Shaw, who was on the bench on Thursday morning, he denied that he had been identified with the battery. As a result Mayor Shaw remanded him to jail for a week, and inquiries will be made concerning him. He was very drunk when gathered in.

Mayor Shaw cross-questioned the accused and as a result found that his name was not Murphy, but that Kelly was his right name. The acting magistrate was under the impression that he was not giving his right name, so had him sworn.

"Why did you give your wrong name when you were arrested?" the court asked.

"Because I did not know what I was doing," was the reply.

"I'm a hard-working man, sir; just give me a chance this time. You can see by looking at my hands that I have been working hard."

Mayor Shaw felt that a week in jail would do him no harm, and that in the meantime something more could be ascertained about him.

Matthew Hill said his home was in Sweden. He was drunk and admitted the charge. He has only been in the city five months. He was given a chance.

COULD NOT GET CARGO

VESSEL CAME LIGHT TO KINGSTON FROM CHARLOTTE.

The War Is a Serious Handicap — Some Vessels Taking Great Risk in Making Trips These Days.

A fact which goes to show just how slack business is in marine circles is that the coal schooner Julia B. Merrill was forced to make a trip from Charlotte to Kingston, light, as the captain, Capt. Henry Carvay, was unable to get a cargo out of Charlotte for any port. He may be able to get a cargo of feldspar here for Charlotte, but if he does not the schooner will have to be laid up until there is work to do. The Merrill is home, but just now everything has turned flat.

"It is some undertaking to send vessels out these days," remarked a leading marine man to the Whig on Thursday morning. "He had reference to the guarding of the waters in view of the war."

"A vessel going out is taking a great risk," he added. "One cannot tell what will happen. There is danger of vessels being blown up. We are making very little progress."

From Montreal comes word that the tie-up of the harbor is having a serious effect on the work of the vessels. "It is hard to say just what will happen next," said another marine man, who came up from Montreal on Thursday morning. "Conditions appear to be getting worse all the time."

PROPHECY OF DR. WILD

Made Thirty Years Ago Fits in With Crisis.

G. G. Publow, of this city, chief dairy instructor for eastern Ontario, relates a rather singular incident. About thirty years ago he was in Toronto and hearing that Rev. Dr. Wild an evangelist acting in the capacity of a prophet at Massey Hall he resolved to hear him. Mr. Publow went down one evening and what he heard had a striking reference to the present European trouble. Dr. Wild claimed that there would be a war in 1914 which would involve practically every European country. Great Britain would be reluctantly forced into it and as soon as she did the prominent battles would be between Britain and the Germans. Modern fighting and equipment would be given a tryout and would practically change the mode of fighting. The British would experience great difficulty in vanquishing the Germans but they would finally be successful although only after a great battle would be fought in the city of London, so fierce that the gutters would be flushed with human blood.

Mr. Publow, although he did not pay much attention to the prophecy at the time is forced to note how it compares with the present crisis. Up to the present point in the war Dr. Wild's words have come true. Dr. Wild has since passed away.

FRONTENAC KENNEL CLUB

Organized at Meeting Held Wednesday Evening.

Local dog owners met in the city council chamber Wednesday evening and organized the Kingston Kennel club.

In the absence of Mayor Shaw Ald. R. D. Suteland presided. Dr. Evans was elected secretary pro tem.

There was a good attendance of the owners of good dogs, and addresses were delivered by Ald. H. C. Nickle, H. Gay, E. J. Longden, W. H. Twigg and others. It was decided to amalgamate with the old Kingston Kennel club, providing Ald. Nickle would accept the presidency, and if G. B. McKay, manager of the Bank of Toronto would act as treasurer.

IN BASEBALL CIRCLES.

Mathis Will Likely Pitch For the Athletics on Saturday.

It is altogether likely that "Dicky" Mathis will pitch for the Athletics when they clash with the Victorias on Saturday afternoon at the cricket field. This game promises to be the closest of the season and a small score is expected. The result is hard to foretell as both of the teams are anxious to win and stand a better chance in the finals.

Lecture On Student Life.

J. K. Robertson gave an illustrated lecture at 5 p.m. on Wednesday evening to Queen's summer school students. The title of the lecture was "Student Life in Cambridge University," compared with the Canadian student life. He explained the discipline and other points that differed more or less with those of Canadian colleges and universities. The lecture was well attended.

A Lady's Success.

Mrs. Beck, wife of Edward Beck, of Beck's Weekly, Montreal, made a splendid catch, on Wednesday, while fishing off The Brothers. She hooked, with a pole and line, a splendid specimen of black bass, which she succeeded in landing after a long struggle. It was one of the finest seen this year and weighed between four and five pounds. Mrs. Beck will have it mounted as a trophy. Mrs. Beck is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. B. White, University avenue, and was out fishing with them at the time.

SPORTSMEN MEET AT ALEXANDRIA BAY.

Anglers Association Entertained by Colonel Staples — Attendance Smaller Than Usual.

At Alexandria Bay, N. Y., the thirty-first annual meeting of the Anglers association of the St. Lawrence river was held at the Thousand Island House on Wednesday. About twenty-five members were present, the attendance being cut because of the European war scare which has caused a number of summer visitors to return to their homes.

Charles R. Skinner, of Watertown president of the association, spoke of the violation of the fish and game laws by the licensed nets in the river. Albert E. Hoyt, secretary to the conservation commission, tried to defend the action of the commission and the legislature regarding the St. Lawrence reservation. B. H. Warner, of Washington, D. C., a friend of Colonel O. G. Staples, who acted as host to the association, spoke regarding the present state of affairs in Europe and was heartily received. He commended England's attitude and said he believed the nation would win out in present struggle.

An elaborate banquet was served and afterward the party was taken on a trip around the islands on Colonel Staples' yacht, Nereid.
