MUCH ALARM CAUSED

BY A REPORT THAT THE ESCAPED CONVICT

Had Held Up a Boy Going For Cows—The Prison Guards Were Called Out and Made a Thorough Search.

About four o'clock, on Monday afternoon, some one in the vicinity of the fair grounds telephoned to the penitentiary that the convict was in that district. The report said that he had, at the point of a revolver, held up a lad who was going for his cows and had taken his coat and hat from him. Not much credence was given to the report, but Warden Greigman decided to investigate. Automobiles were commandeered and sent for and nineteen guards, under Chief Keeper Atkins, were sent on the chase. They drove down Concession street and out Division street to the tracks. Here they left the cars and until dark searched the woods in that vicinity. No trace of the man was found, however, and after posting sentries for the night, the main body of guards returned home.

With the discovery of Scout Tatten's horse in Ferguson's bush, near Inverary, interest has again become intense as to the escaped convict's whereabouts. It is thought highly probable by those who know the country that he is safely away. The probable route was up McAdoo's lane to the end. Here he saw that he could not go along Division street in either direction and he turned back. He entered the woods, and striking an old lumber road, rode his mount for miles. He followed the forests to Inverary, where he abandoned the horse. He could walk easily in four days to the C.N.R. tracks and there catch a freight.

One of the automobiles used to convey the guards to Leick's farm was from Finkle's livery, and while going up the Prison road met with an accident. Another car was coming down and the car turned out to let it pass. One of the wheels went over the bank into the ditch, throwing the occupants out. Thomas Minnes, accountant at the penitentiary, was severely cut about the head and arms, L. Welch had his arms and hands badly skinned and George Sullivan got a shaking up. Dr. Phelan is attending the injured guards.

LAKE ONTARIO PARK

Coming Down To The Close Of The Season.

There was a very large crowd at Lake Ontario Park last evening. The pavilion was filled to capacity. The gala week programme is one of the best seen in this place of amusement. "Billy" Hart, the well known comedian sang "Bye and Bye" and "On the Boardwalk After Nine," and was applauded. He afterwards gave an exhibition of Buck dancing and the rope dance, all really fine. The Youngers, from Shea's theatre, Toronto, gave an exhibition of artistic posing and dancing. It was both startling and classic. The posing shown by this remarkable team is graceful and the balancing especially interesting. They reproduce the old Roman statue and the old Roman Sabine, a novelty of the kind. Mr. Younger's posing and balancing is splendid. Their act concludes with Master Jack, little tot doing some acrobatic work with his father. The pictures were good. "The Old Oaks Secret," "Bringing Up Hubby," and "Snakesville Fire Brigade." Wednesday will be the last one cent day with matinee at 3.30 p.m.

WILL BE GOOD THING.

Police and Firemen to Learn to Work the Pulmotor.

"I'm glad to see that the firemen and policemen are to be given lessons in the working of the pulmotor," remarked a citizen to the Whig last night. "It will certainly be a good thing. I think the firemen and the policemen should also be given instructions in rendering first aid to the injured. We have been very fortunate in Kingston this year as regards drowning accidents. Last year the pulmotor would have been in great demand."

Heavy battles have been fought at Lyck, Gumbinnen and Soldau. The German defeat at Soldau is described as a rout. The fate of the east side of Prussia, from the Vistula River is said to have been decided.

KAISER MAD, SAYS POET

"He Looked for Silence, but a Thunder-Came," Says Phillips.

The long-continued resistance of Liege has inspired the following poem by Stephen Phillips of London:—"Thou pretty people, let me pass. What canst thou do but bow to me and kneel?"

He looked for silence, but a thunder came
Upon him, from Liege a leaden hail,
All Belgium flew up at his throat in flame,
Till at her gates amazed his legions quail.
Take heed, for now on haunted ground they tread;
They showed a mightier war lord to their fall,
Lest that their very grass again grow red
With blood of German now as then with Gaul.
If him whom God destroys He maddens first
Then thy destruction slake thy madman's thirst.

ENGLISH GIRL HEROINE.

Mysterious Aeroplane Pilot No Spy But Aiding France.

Paris, Aug. 24.—The Petit Parisien says that alarm was caused at Dijon recently by the news that a mysterious aeroplane had been seen apparently pursuing a group of six other aeroplanes on the way to Dijon from the Southern coast. Soon after their arrival at Dijon the stranger landed near the military aerodrome. The mysterious pilot, on being interrogated, proved not to be a spy but a young English girl, who had donned a uniform in the hope that she might aid France. She is now being detained pending the arrival of her parents.

A paragraph in the Excelsior tells of the 150-mile raid along the frontier by Begoud in standard unarmored 80-horse power Blériot-Gnome monoplane, with M. Monierier as a fighting passenger. Starting at dawn last Tuesday they made many valuable observations and destroyed two important convoys with incendiary bombs and hundred-pound shells. They flew low, from 1,300 to 1,500 metres, owing to their heavy load of nearly 800 pounds of explosives, enough oil and gasoline for four hours war carbines and ammunition. They returned to Paris simply to obtain another machine, their having 37 bullet holes in the wings and having been struck twice by fragments of shells, once on the stabilizer and once on the steering wheel. The Excelsior also says the desired French dirigible Sielurus has succeeded in blowing up the Trezen railway station, despite a sharp fusillade.

ALL FIT AND QUALIFIED.

Friendship No Consideration in Selecting Officers.

Ottawa, Aug. 24.—The minister of militia stated, to remove a misapprehension that he only allowed officers to go to the front who are physically fit and who are qualified from a purely military standpoint. He had done this in spite of the unfortunate fact that he had incurred several enemies among his personal friends who were good officers, but who, through illness, physical weakness, or being fathers of large families depending upon them, had been refused permission to go. The minister states emphatically that he will not depart from this rule.

LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS

German Spies in France Under Many Disguises.

London, Aug. 24.—While the movements of the British soldiers on the continent are enveloped in secrecy, the newspapers publish extracts from letters written by some of them at the front which throw an interesting sidelight on the situation. For instance, a sergeant writes:

"The Germans seemed to have pushed their worst troops on the firing line in Belgium, under the impression that anything was good enough to beat the Belgians."
A private writes: "Our great trouble is to get away from the French villages, who offer us wine. After what Kitchener said, most of us are strict teetotalists, and will remain so until the war is over."
Another private says: "German prisoners were astonished to see our uniforms. They never imagined that we had crossed."
A corporal writes: "German spies are plentiful. They come in all disguises, from a travelling monk; another a commercial traveller; a third wanted to be attached to our force as a camp follower. They were quickly dealt with by the French."

FRANCE IS UNWILLING.

Opposes Washington's Proposal for Chartered Ships.

Washington, Aug. 24.—France has replied unfavorably to the proposal of the United States that ships owned by belligerent countries, but chartered by this government for the sole purpose of "repatriating" Americans be regarded as neutral.
Great Britain's response to the proposal was that if such ships were manned by American officers and flew the American flag she would have no objection. The plan was to charter some of the Hamburg-American liners tied up in American ports to go abroad, bring Americans home, and remain in American ports after their return. France disapproved on the ground that this would be an advantage to German shipping.

Seeing that her son was determined to wed, the mother went before the Alderman and swore out a warrant against her son, charging him with leaving an unpaid board bill at home. The warrant was served on the young man who paid up his board bill to the alderman, and then had the latter perform the marriage ceremony.

ACTING ON DEFENSIVE.

Japan's Declaration Not An Act of Aggression.
Ottawa, Aug. 24.—The consul-general of Japan, Mr. Yada, stated that no instructions had yet been received ordering Japanese reservists in Canada to return to the colors in view of the declaration of war against Germany. He did not expect that any such orders would be received for the present at least. Japan, in conjunction with the British forces now in the Pacific, is quite able to look after the comparatively small squadron of German warships Mr. Yada said that, in declaring war against Germany, Japan was simply acting on the defensive rather than on the aggressive in conserving joint British and Japanese interests on the Pacific. Japan realized the underlying issues of the struggle and the necessity of destroying the German menace. He also pointed out that the intervention of Japan would render doubly secure the protection of the British Columbia coast since the German war vessels on the Pacific would now either have to surrender, be bottled up in a harbor, or else be interned in United States ports until the war was over.

NO REVOLT IN CAUCASUS.

Russian Government Denies German Canard.
London, Aug. 24.—A despatch to Reuters' Telegram company from St. Petersburg contains the following official statement issued to-day by the Russian government:
"The Russian government denies the report circulated in Germany that a revolution has broken out in the Caucasus, and that the frontier population had asked Turkey to intervene and restore order. Perfect order prevails in the Caucasus, where volunteers for the war were so numerous that many of them had to be refused. Several entire tribes have requested permission to fight with the regular army."

Commercial War, Too, On Germany.

London, Aug. 25.—A bitter commercial war against Germany and Austria has been inaugurated in England. It has the loyal support of the press and the public. The English papers are making an especial attack on the German manufacturers of Christmas cards and toys. All parents are being urged to deny their children's playthings made by the enemies of the empire.

CATARRH LEADS TO CONSUMPTION

Catarrh is as much a blood disease as scrofula or rheumatism. It may be relieved, but it cannot be removed by simply local treatment. It breaks down the general health, weakens the lung tissues, and leads to consumption.
Hood's Sarsaparilla is so successful in the treatment of catarrh that it is known as the best remedy for this disease. It purifies the blood. Ask your druggist for it.

Wedded At Mount Forest.

On August 19th, at 12.30, at Mount Forest, the residence of the bride's parents, Annie May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Small, was united in marriage to James Risk Mercer, son of Mrs. A. E. Mercer of Kingston and the late William Mercer. The wedding ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. F. Johnstone of the First Presbyterian church, Hartford, Conn., brother-in-law of the bride, assisted by the Rev. E. A. Eddy, B.A., B.D., of the Methodist church, Mount Forest. The bride was crowned in Hamburg lace over ivory duchess satin. The Misses Helen Musgrove of Niagara Falls and Edith Ellis of Mount Forest, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. Master Arthur Small-Johnstone of Hartford, Conn., nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer. Mrs. Walter Ellis played the wedding march, and following the ceremony sang very impressively "Perfect Love." Following the congratulations a wedding dinner was served, after which the happy couple left for Chicago and other points. Mr. and Mrs. Mercer will live at 117 La Salle road, Montreal, the groom being secretary of the Y.M.C.A., at Point St. Charles.
