

SCHOOL SUITS

Nearly every mother of a healthy, active boy knows how she has bought him a school suit that looked very well, indeed—and then wondered a few weeks later how the suit could possibly have grown so wrinkly, so shabby and so shapeless.

We commend our school suits to mothers who have had just this sort of experience!

All of the boys' clothing we sell is tailored as it ought to be—and tailor work is the only thing that will make a suit hold its shape in active service.

We select only the most reliable fabrics. We have them made up with all the care and thoroughness they ought to have. And as a result our school suits will wear and hold their shapeliness to an unusual degree.

The Fall styles are smart and new. There is very broad variety from which to make a choice. Correct fit is assured. Prices are very moderate, indeed, considering the splendid value we give.

Small Boys' Suits $3.00 to $7.00.

Larger Boys' Suits $5.00 to $10.00

ARE NOT DISHEARTENED

NOT BEATEN, AND DO NOT INTEND TO BE BEATEN.

A Fight To a Finish—Russia is a Terrible Factor for Germany, But the Franco-British Allies Must Conquer in Belgium and On the French Frontier.

London, Aug. 26.—In the bright morning sunshine troops marched along Victoria street, to-day. The band was playing "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," which has become the marching song of the British army. "Are we downhearted?" shouted the people along the sidewalks, and cheered at the soldiers' laughing response. Cheers came from all sorts of people who hitherto have been content to watch the passage of the troops with interest but without any demonstration. In the words of the Tipperary slogan, "there's a long way to go," but all the newspapers to-day express confidence that despite initial reverse the British nation will stick to its work with bulldog tenacity.

The Evening News says: "Not only are we not beaten, but we do not intend to be beaten. We are going on till we win, but we need men, and we need them now."

The Pall Mall Gazette says: "This thing will be fought clean through to a finish, and the end will only come when victory has crowned the standards of right and freedom."

The Westminster Gazette says: "Germany on this occasion is engaging not only France, but also Britain and Russia, les deux intangibles, as they have been called, and as they have proved to be in the wars of history. With France steady and these two nations all the time exerting their pressure from the outer rims, the French government has ground for expressing its absolute confidence in ultimate victory. We have now our part to play, and if we are true to our reputed tenacity we shall play it with decisive effect whatever happens at the moment in the western field of war."

The Evening Standard says: "There should not be too much reliance on the Russian advance. Granting that it is a terrible factor for Germany to reckon with, it does not for one moment dispense us from the vital necessity of driving the Germans from Belgium and the French frontier. No Russian success, tremendous as might be its material bearing on the situation, could compensate France and Britain for failure in their own particular task. For us the theatre of the land war is Belgium and the French frontier. There we must conquer or die."

The London Chronicle says: "Britain and Russia must stubbornly resolve that come what may to France they will never surrender to Germany, but will stick to her as they stuck to Napoleon, until they pull her down. As long as we hold the sea we cannot ourselves be vitally struck."

SPIES FOR THE FORT

COMING RAPIDLY

Thirteen Have Been Received From Sarnia and Pembroke—More Expected.

The population at Fort Henry was increased to seventeen, on Tuesday evening, due to the arrival of thirteen men who are suspected of being German spies.

When the train arrived from the west, on Tuesday evening, a guard in charge of twelve Germans, who had been gathered in at Sarnia, were taken off and immediately taken over to Fort Henry, where they will remain until the war is over. The military authorities had arranged for a special car to bring the men to the city. It is stated that they gave no trouble while being brought to the city.

The other man came from Pembroke and was brought to the city, on Tuesday afternoon, over the Canadian Pacific railroad.

The carpenters are busy at the present time arranging for suitable quarters in case that a number of more suspects are brought to the city.

A rumor has been about twenty men, who were arrested at Montreal, will be brought to the fort. It has been intimated that the authorities have inquired as to the possibility of accommodating such a large number of men.

The officer commanding the division has been asked if he could accept about eighty Germans who are being held at Montreal. Whether or not they will be sent, it is not known.

TWO SPITS WRECKED BRESLAU.

A Graphic Account of British Encounter With Cruiser.

London, Aug. 27.—T. Maraden, the wireless operator on board H.M.S. Gloucester, writing to his mother at West Hartlepool, gives an interesting account of the chase of that vessel of the German warships Goeben and Breslau, now dismantled in the Dardanelles. The Gloucester, he says, opened fire upon the Breslau, but the first shot fell short. The Breslau replied with thirty shots, of which two only took effect, two of the Gloucester's boats being smashed on the davits. "After the first shot our lads were quite happy," adds Marsden, "and kept firing as quickly as possible. One chap nearly swallowed his chew of tobacco when the first shot fell short. The next one he spat on for luck, and it took half of the Breslau's funnel away. He repeated the operation on the next shot, which cleared the Breslau's quarter deck and put her aft gun out of action. Then he began to smile."

Could Not Get Any Trace.

On Tuesday evening, Robert Campbell, caretaker at the Sir Oliver Mowat Memorial hospital, was very much surprised to find three men prowling around the hospital grounds. When he looked closely at the men he thought that one of them was the prisoner who escaped from the penitentiary, as he appeared to be wearing a pair of striped trousers. He immediately notified the prison authorities. Constable Cross came over to the hospital, but he was unable to get any trace of the men.
