VOTED DOWN A MOTION

TO REDUCE THE MEMBERSHIP OF BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Trustee Farrell Feared That Such a Move Would Introduce Politics Into Board—Inspector Stuart Will Make Visit to Schools in United States.

A resolution of Trustee J. G. Elliott, of which he gave notice some time ago, "that application be made to the city council to reduce the number of trustees from 21 to 10 as per clause 4, of the act respecting Boards of Education, assented to April 13th, 1909," was voted down at a meeting of the Board of Education held on Thursday night on a division 19 to 2, the mover and the seconder, Trustee Birkett alone supporting it. The vote was as follows:

Yeas—Trustees Elliott and Birkett.
Nays—Trustees Anglin, Bell, Chown, Chapman, Craig, Farrell, Laird, Metcalfe, Mills, McLean, Renton, Sawyer and Henderson.

Trustee Elliott stated that he would have liked to have brought the matter to a vote when there was a larger attendance of the members, but that if action was to be taken this year, it must come before the City Council by October 1st. He believed that such a step would be in the best interests of the board, and a reduction of membership to ten members would be in accord with a great many other boards throughout the country. "It would be advantageous from standpoint that better service would be rendered if the board would be selected by the city at large, and it would be more desirable than the present system of election by wards."

Trustee Farrell did not consider it wise to make a change. He believed that the work was being carried on most satisfactory under the present system. There were no politics in the board at present and he feared that politics would be introduced if such a change as had been recommended, was brought about. This was the serious objection he had to the proposal. He asked that the mover allow the resolution to stand over until more data was secured regarding it, and to set the results of the system in other places.

Trustee Birkett said he could not see any danger of politics being introduced under such a system. He referred to the election of trustees in Sydenham ward at the last election, when it was necessary to hold three elections before a trustee was elected.

Trustee Elliott said he had no fear whatever of such a scheme introducing politics. It had not been moved such a resolution. He regarded it as a good move. He believed the city council would do better work with a membership of ten and he understood that such a move had been contemplated in other places.

Trustee Mills questioned whether such a change would be wise. He agreed with the remarks of Trustee Farrell. Under the new scheme he believed it would be hard to get a quorum for committees. For the present he would say, "let well enough alone."

Trustee Anglin said he did not consider that the argument in favor of a reduction had been made strong enough. He could see no reason why a change should be made. There might be some good reason, but it had not been presented. He did not think that ten good men could be secured by a general vote as had been proposed.

The chairman remarked that the question was a most vital one and he desired all the members to voice their opinion on it.

Trustee Elliott stated that he felt sure influential citizens would be the best possible men for the board. With a smaller board the other men could be utilized for other civic work. Better work was always secured with smaller boards. Under present conditions, six men were elected by the city council for three years and fourteen men from the wards for two years. The advantage was always with the nominations of the council. With ten men the work could be undertaken just like the Civic Utilities, and Board of Police Commissioners.

"There would be no need of committees," added Trustee Elliott, "and the board could meet more frequently than at present. I think we would get the best results by this move. I am not introducing the scheme because I have any feeling in the matter, but simply because I think we would get better service. Other men as a result of the reduction, could be elected for other spheres of civic work. I hope the City Council will find it possible to reduce the number."

The motion on being put was voted down on the division already stated.

Ratified Appointment.

In the absence of Trustee Meek, who is on the sick list, Trustee Mills presented the report of the management committee, which was adopted, and which reads as follows:

"That the resignation of G. S. Bala, moderns master at the Collegiate Institute, be accepted."
"That Miss Margaret Thompson be appointed to the vacant position, at an initial salary of $1,000, under the rules and regulations of the board, which provide for re-engagement at the end of June under the salary schedule governing members of the Collegiate teaching staff."

Inspector Stuart notified the board that he had been authorized by the minister of education to visit schools in the United States to comply with the conditions prescribed. He said that the visit must be made within the next six weeks, and would extend over two weeks. He asked that he be given leave of absence on Sept. 13th.

The inspector was one of a half-dozen inspectors selected to make this tour of the schools across the border.

On motion of Trustees Renton and Anglin, Inspector Stuart was granted leave of absence to take the trip.

Trustee Renton remarked that Inspector Stuart had been highly honored in having been selected for this work.

Acting on the report of the inspector it was decided, on motion of Trustees Mills and Elliott, to grant the use of ten class rooms for model school purposes.

J. Russell Stuart, school inspector, reported as follows:
"The public schools were re-opened after the mid-summer vacation with all the teaching staff on duty. The changes made in anticipation of the removal of certain classes to the enlarged Victoria school when this is ready for occupation, together with an apparently considerable shifting of population in the city, have made a great many transfers necessary."

"The model school was opened on August 15th in the Old Collegiate Institute by Mr. Inman, with an attendance of thirty-three. The department of education has authorized the use of ten class rooms for model school purposes."

"I would recommend that eight class rooms in the Central school be used and the Fourth Book classes in the Old Collegiate Institute."

Principal Slight presented a verbal report on the attendance at the Collegiate Institute at the re-opening. He said all the classes had been opened with all the members of the teaching staff on hand, including Miss Thompson, recently appointed head of the moderns department. The attendance of pupils was very large, particularly in the first form, which had upwards of 160. This was due to the fact that a larger number had passed the examination and in addition there were quite a large number from outside places. All the forms were filled with the exception of the fourth which was generally slow in filling.

Miss E. L. Chown, secretary of the Opphans' Home, made application for three new desks. Referred to the property committee.

Miss L. Ryder, of the teaching staff, asked for permission to write on an examination on Sept. 17th. Request granted, on motion of Trustees Renton and Birkett.

Chairman W. H. Macnee presided at the meeting, and the other members present were: Trustees F. R. Anglin, J. H. Birkett, Dr. G. W. Bell, P. B. Chown, W. J. Chapman, James Craig, J. G. Elliott, J. M. Farrell, Prof. A. Laird, H. F. Metcalfe, W. W. Mills, A. W. McLean, W. J. Renton, W. A. Sawyer, and J. R. Henderson.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Artists in "Disraeli" Delighted at Large Audience.

Kingstonians assembled at the Grand Opera House, on Thursday night, were pleasantly entertained by George Arliss and his talented company in "Disraeli," the play noted Jewish premier, and bringing into prominence particularly his securing of the Suez canal, the waterway to India, for Great Britain, in the play concerned.

Mr. Arliss is unexcelled in the difficult role, and Mrs. Arliss, as "Lady Beaconsfield," the great statesman's sweet wife and life-long helpmeet, captivated the audience.

The play is staged by the author, the scenery is elaborate, and the costumes of the period, of which it is written—that is, the early seventies—lend much to the general effect. It is a wholesome comedy, based upon this event of the time and life of Disraeli, the great Jew. The cast includes a number of artists of note.

"Kismet."
Klaw and Erlanger and Harrison Grey Fluke's production of "Kismet" with Charles Darrow in the role of Hajj, the beggar, comes to the Grand on Wednesday, Sept. 16th, matinee and night. The play, written by Edward Knoblauch has achieved the widest success of any work ever turned out by an American dramatist. Three years in London, one year in Australia, and now in its fourth year in America, besides productions in France, Germany, Austria and Italy, testify to its world-wide currency and appeal.

The company numbers seventy-five or more and the stage pictures completely renewed for this season and pulsing with the life and color of the Orient have set standards in beauty and animation, such that the American stage has never known before.

"The Beauty Shop."
Raymond Hitchcock, King of laughmakers and prince of quip and jest now in his seventh season, as the leading musical comedy star of the Cohen & Harris firmament is scheduled to appear at the Grand for an engagement of one night, Thursday, Sept. 17th.

GOOD-BYE TO STRAW HATS.

The Cool Weather Has Put a Ban on the Summer Creations.

Good-bye to straw hats. Stiff and felt models will now be the order of the day. There are a few straw hats on the rounds but fashion has decreed that they shall disappear by September 15th at least.

Kingston has had her first touch of fall weather, and as a result straw hats will be in the minority from now on.

In some parts of the world straw hats may be worn throughout the entire year, but not so in Kingston. When the first chill wind of autumn strikes the shivering shins of the male population, their thoughts turn toward the old felt hat, stored in the closet when "Old Sol" first brought beads of perspiration to their foreheads in the early part of summer. The faithful old straw which has been on duty for full three months, regardless of atmosphere conditions, is treated to a trip to the Greek's for a cleaning and is then carefully laid away for another summer's use.

ONE MORE CHANCE

To Say God Speed to Canada's Contingent.

Those who took advantage of the special opportunity afforded to visit Valcartier military camp, last week-end, at a purely nominal cost, have expressed such keen appreciation of the enterprise shown by the Canadian Northern railway in inaugurating the excursion, that it has been decided to repeat the service to Valcartier, Quebec and Hotel Lake St. Joseph once more.

WILL ARRANGE COMPETITION

In Writing and Drawing for School Children.

At the meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night the management committee was given power to arrange for a writing and drawing competition for the school children.

At a recent meeting the board granted the sum of $50 for prizes in a writing competition, the exhibits to be shown at the annual show of the Kingston Horticultural show. As the show of this society for this year has been cancelled, owing to the fact that the armoures cannot be secured on account of the war, other arrangements have to be made. There is a proposition to have the exhibits shown at "Kingston's Only Fair," and this will likely be carried out.

Change of Time.

After Sept. 12th, but one trip a day will be made between Kingston and Cape Vincent, SS, America leaving at 1:30 p.m. daily except Sunday.
