

DO YOU KNOW

We are pelt buyers from the trappers and importers of furs from original sources of supply.

We have had people ask us to sell them a McKAY label to be sewn in a coat of nameless origin. We appreciated the compliment, but declined the sale. Anybody can buy McKAY FURS,—but our labels are not pried.

We buy our Furs at the right prices, because we buy large quantities, and we know values and grades. The trick is in picking good pelts. Poor furs are not cheap even when the price is low. For 35 years we have been trading in FURS here in KINGSTON.

We are Fur Selectors by hereditary, by training, and by expert knowledge. We employ only skilled designers and workers. They are craftsmen, skilled in the handling of delicate skins, deft in the manipulation of the pelts, and careful in the cutting, sewing, and finishing.

We believe we are in a better position to serve you properly and satisfactorily than any other fur organization of our knowledge. Our new models are ready. We invite your inspection. If you live out of town, it will only take a few minutes to write us a letter,—and it may mean so much to you, so don't delay. Write to-day for information and style books.

DEAN STARR WRITES.

He is On Warship Indomitable For a Month.

Dean Starr writes to the Whig asking for a copy to be sent to him hereafter in care of the war office. He is on the warship Indomitable for a month, after which he returns to London for further instructions; he hopes to join the Canadians if they have arrived. He says, "Tell my friends I am much better and rejoice in representing Kingston as the first to join the colors here. Next to me was Capt. Sax Browne, R. C. I. H. A., and Capt. Batty, R. C. I. I have seen no others from home. I got very good news. He estimated that there were many wounded at the barracks at Brentwood, many of whom are Germans; good fellows who are opposed to the war and who blame the Kaiser and the official officers for it. Accompanying the letter is a photograph of the major in uniform."

To Light Newboro.

Messrs. J. M. Stone & Sons, Westport, have a staff of men excavating the channel between the roller mills and the buckle works plant. The channel is to be thirteen feet, thus placing the electric light water wheel on a level with the pond. A new modern water wheel will be installed which will increase the horse power at the electric light plant to 249. It is the intention to enlarge the electric light system and shortly furnish Newboro with lights and power.

Cadets Will Not Enter.

How Long Will The War Last?

The business man who can get a line upon the probable duration of this war can make something out of his information. Few care to hazard a guess but there are always straws which tell how things are going.

With the stock markets closed there is no taker to tell the tale, except in grain, and that market up to a few days ago reflected some duration. Richard Spillane is an authority at New York whose opinion carries great weight with the best financial papers. He says: "If this war lasts longer than Christmas there is one person in this town who will be surprised."

A Kingston lad taken to the Victoria industrial school in Toronto, last Sunday, has accepted, and the authorities are asked to look out for him.
