FOR PATRIOTIC FUND

WORK OF COLLECTION GOES MERRILY ALONG.

Most Generous Gift From Commandant, Staff and Non-Commissioned Officers of Royal Military College—Notes Of the Campaign.

The campaign for money for the Canadian Patriotic Fund goes merrily along in Kingston.

The workers put in a very busy day on Tuesday, and although the official report was not given at the end of the day, being held over until the noon-day luncheon, in the city hall, it was known that the result was most encouraging. Everyone worked with a will, and there was no lost time. Wednesday morning the men were at it again harder than ever, for on the first day the tricks of the game had to be mastered, and with all these tricks under their hat the men were able to get along with their work in fine style.

One outstanding feature of the collection is the amount of pleasure the men get out of the canvass. Every man you meet has a smile of the "Sunny Jim" character, and if you stop to enquire how everything is going, in spite of the fact that he is a very busy man, he will take time to say, "Everything is going along fine," and at the same time you will get a smile which verifies his statement.

"Kingston's honor is at stake; help the war fund. Give, give, give."

This is one of the mottoes placed at the corner of Princess and King streets, and it has certainly caught the eye of every citizen, for they are giving according to their means, and that is as it should be. But it is the man with the means who will have to bear the heavy burden, and that, too, is as it should be. While the money is coming in good, there is still a great deal to be gathered and as is well known the last half of the amount aimed at is far harder to get than the first and it means that all who can give another subscription should do so.

On Wednesday morning a representative of the Whig dropped into the Board of Trade rooms, which are used as the headquarters for the campaign workers, and it was certainly a busy scene which met his eyes. The main room was filled with men pouring over names. The captains of the teams were arranging lists for their team mates, and everything had a business-like air.

C. A. Warburton, the organizer, was supervising everything, and when the Whig man asked him how everything was going, he, too, had a smile. The Whig man was sure then that all was right and as it should be. But while the amount is going up Mr. Warburton still makes an appeal for continued effort, as he does not want the workers to fall short of the $50,000.

Most Generous Gift.

The commandant, staff and non-commissioned officers of the Royal Military College have most generously contributed to the Canadian Patriotic fund one day's pay per month, to continue for six months. This scheme of contribution should commend itself to other assemblages receiving monthly salaries on account of its easy payments and the integral amount realized. The above contribution will easily sum up to $500.

Realized Over $30.

The ladies of Wolfe Island are to be heartily congratulated. Realizing that the gathering of people at the annual island fair would provide a good opportunity of canvassing on behalf of the Canadian Patriotic Fund, they made their plans accordingly. The islanders and visitors were "tagged" on Tuesday and over $30 raised for the good cause.

Notes Of The Campaign.

Through an error in rearranging the names, the name of H. W. Snelling was omitted from the team of Frank Welch. Mr. Snelling has been on the job all the time, doing everything in his power to help things along.

Many of the workers were on the job on Tuesday night, and succeeded in gathering in more grit for the mill.

Organizer C. A. Warburton points out that Thursday will be observed as a free-for-all day in the campaign. Many people are likely to be missed by the collectors owing to the short campaign, and they are asked to send in their money to the head office at the Board of Trade rooms.

Ald. R. D. Sutherland met a former Kingstonian on Princess street, while out on his rounds collecting. "Of what service can I be to you?" said the ex-Kingstonian to Ald. Sutherland. "Can you use me as a worker or a giver?"

"I'll use you as a giver, if you don't mind," replied Ald. Sutherland, whereupon the ex-Kingstonian put his hand down in his pocket and donated a neat sum.

A Kingston lady, eighty years of age, sat in her home on Tuesday, anxiously awaiting the arrival of a collector for her gift to the fund. All morning long she listened for a knock at the door, for she felt sure that some person would call. But no person came, so in the afternoon, fearing that she would be overlooked, she hired a cab and drove to the Board of Trade rooms, where she left her contribution, amounting to $25.

"I wanted to make sure the money would get here," the old lady told one of the collectors. And then she went away feeling very happy.

Through the kindness of H. W. Snelling, local manager for the Bell Telephone company, who is a worker on Frank Welch's team, an extra telephone has been placed in the Board of Trade rooms for the use of the men making the collection and it has been helpful keeping tab on the work.

The automobiles are certainly working overtime these days.

The postmaster, deputy postmaster, clerks, caretaker and letter carriers of the Kingston post office donated $121 to the fund. The money was handed to George H. Smythe, working on Ald. R. D. Sutherland's team.

The workers have luncheon together each day in the city hall at their own expense, and afterwards the reports are announced.

Branch No. 8 (Kingston) of the Confederated Letter Carriers' association has given one day's pay to the fund.

Arthur Craig, W. Bankier and Harold Angrove will be among the vocalists at the great gathering in the city hall on Thursday night.

KINGSTON PATRIOTIC FUND.

... is one of the busiest of men these days. He is receiving and checking up the various amounts, and at the noon hour is kept on the jump.

The first list of subscribers will be published in the Whig on Thursday. The city treasurer is getting it ready.

The following kindly placed automobiles at the disposal of the workers on Wednesday, in addition to those already mentioned: Mrs. Bidwell, Mrs. Kalms, Miss Macnee, Isaac Allen, William Hart, Jr., Col. Giles, H. S. Folger, W. C. Kent and W. J. Fair.

A Boy's Donation.

On Wednesday a little boy gave one of the collectors a one-cent piece, and he was "tickled to death" to know that he was able to help. It was all the youngster had to give and he gave it freely. R. J. Rodger was the collector who met the lad. The donation is much-prized by the workers, and it is likely that it will be put up at auction, on Thursday night, at the big meeting to be held in the city hall.

A little girl gave her doll and this, too, may be put up at auction. A lady donated a very fine palm, telling the collector that she had no money to give. The palm will also be sold.

The collectors have received donations all the way from one cent up to the thousands. A chest of drawers was another donation received by one of the collectors.

Messrs. Reid & Hambrook served the noonday luncheon for the workers and it was first-class in every respect, and on Wednesday warm words of praise were heard on every side for the caterers. Mr. Warburton, the organizer, paid them a compliment in his address to the canvassers.

Immigrants Want Positions.

Although the war is stopping immigration into the country there are a number of foreigners in Canada who want positions on farms and as servants. The immigration officer in Toronto sent to Immigration Agent G. H. Hunter a list of people that he is desirous of placing in this district. A number of them are wives of men who have lately arrived and their husbands have returned to Europe to fight for the allies. Mr. Hunter has already placed several in positions and will no doubt be able to find places for those on the list he has just received.

Fined And Appealed.

At Elgin Justices of the Peace Johnson and Davison gave judgment in a case recently heard by them wherein the Opinion Club, of Chalford's Locks, and its steward, J. A. Davis, were charged with allowing liquor to be consumed off the premises. In each case a fine of $100 and costs was imposed. W. A. Lewis, who appeared for the defendants, immediately entered appeals on the grounds that the present law as regards taking liquor off the premises of a licensed place does not apply to clubs and cited authority from the liquor license branch in Toronto.
