WHY BELGIUM SUFFERS

Germany's attack on Antwerp can only be explained on the ground that she cannot forgive the little state for its obstruction of the kaiser's way in his move to conquer the world. He has submitted Belgium to the greatest savagery. Wanton destruction has followed in his wake everywhere. Cruelty and inhumanity have marked every movement of his army. Murder and rapine have been the distinguishing qualities of the German soldiery. There must be nothing left of life, of money, and of treasure, in Belgium. There is no punishment too severe for the people who would dare obtrude themselves between the crownject of his plans. It was not enough be reformed, is good enough, but that they interfered with his schemes how is it to be effected? The Meat the outset, and practically spoiled thodist church offers no solution. meddlers in the war. They must be -men with a passion for revivalsleft nothing of their ancient glories. were proposed, but the conference laid Brussels is mined and ready for its the matter over. The day of revivals O, Canada! A drum beats through fate. Antwerp must fall if the devil- is seemingly over. The church contry of a besotted nation can accom- tents herself for the time with what Unresting, eager, strident, summe plish it. Women and children, maimed and homeless, must be driven out. The last evidence of art, of industry, and of thrift must disappear. Belgium must be an abandoned land, and then the kaiser can talk of peace or die happy. Such ferocity in man is without a parallel.

ALL HONOR TO HIM.

he is persuaded that W. L. Mackenzie jumpet. He gave evidence of his King has been highly honoured in agility by jumping over the heads of being selected by the Rochefeller Foundation to report on the industrial conditions of the world. The relations between capital and labour have been made the subject of many a thesis or debate or controversy, nearly always there is a colouring in the language used or in the judgment that has been reached. Mr Rockefeller, one of the richest men, has put a large part of his fortune at the disposal of trustees whose tasks are of the greatest importance. They can administer only, however. They cannot investigate. Experts must do this, men with special training, and Mr. King leads the staff. He is to be congratulated. He was selected for the position uson his merits. He studied economics specially. He graduated from college possible, but for the censorship with special honours. He followed papers and cables. this with original research work. He added to his calling by additional degrees, which marked him out as man of brilliant attainments. Added to all this was his service under and in the government of Canada, the labour department, where he distinguished himself as-a pacificator. His is to be a world's study, look ing to a "bettering of the cond tions under which modern industry Acarried on and industrial workers live." As the reports appear they will constitute the greatest text books of the age.

THE ASSESSMENT IS HIGH.

It is pleasant to read that the asesment of the city remains high, that it has been in fact increased within the year. But this is only pleasant to some extent. Real estate values are not as high now as they were a year, ago. The assessment should not be as high. Two things, however, confront the council-(1) the necessity of keeping up the basis of taxation, in order to procure . the money the city must have to meet its obligations, and (2) the difficulty, of reducing the assessment once it been raised. The situation is rious because of the timited earning barassed position of quite a few.
