WHAT WHIG CORRESPONDENTS HAVE TO TELL.

News From Villages and Farms Throughout the Adjoining Counties - Rural Events, and Movements of the People.

Died At Hartington.

Hartington, Oct. 7.—On Monday, at the home of Benjamin Campsall, the death occurred of Elizabeth Campsall, wife of the late Edward Revells. She was born at Hartington in 1832, and lived a useful Christian life in this community until four years ago, when she moved with her son to Kingston.

Battershe Briers.

Battershe, Oct. 1.—Rally day was observed in the Methodist church on Sunday afternoon. There was a large attendance. Rev. Mr. Stewart addressed the children. Quite a number from here attended the school fair at Inverary.

At Collins Bay.

Collins Bay, Oct. 5.—The farmers have been very busy cutting corn and filling silos for the last week. Rain is badly needed to help the pastures.

Improve Seed Grain.

The Scottish Board of Agriculture has urged that, whatever shows may have to put off, all possible support should be given to the exhibition of seed corn in early October, as the use of selected seed could increase the wheat production of the country by from 10 to 20 per cent. without increase of acreage.

Neuralgia of the Heart

This Letter Tells of Wonderful Change Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. James G. Clark, Posterville, York County, N.B., writes:—"I have been a great sufferer from what the doctors said was neuralgia of the heart. The pain started in the back of the neck and worked down into the region of the heart. Though I had taken a lot of medicine of one kind and another, I could not get anything to help me until I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

THE BRITISH "MARSEILLAISE"

By Harold Begbie. The French national anthem, the heart and soul-stirring "Marseillaise" has become so deservedly popular in Great Britain that it may be regarded almost as a marching song for British troops and for British recruits, who are whistling the tune or humming it even to the exclusion of "Tipperary."

Distribution of Rams and Boars. As the distribution of pure-bred stallions and bulls, 125 and 414 of which respectively have been located in different parts of the Dominion, has now been completed for the current year, it is announced that the Live Stock Branch of the Federal Department of Agriculture will undertake a further distribution of pure-bred rams and boars during the months of August, September, and October next, to associations of farmers organized in districts in which the services of satisfactory breeding animals in these classes are not already available.

Want German Trade. A remarkable number of inquiries from Canadian manufacturers and others as to opportunities for profiting by the suspension of all German foreign trade indicates that the country is likely to benefit very considerably in this way. The Department of Trade and Commerce is preparing information on what Germany supplied this country and other foreign markets. Since the Government secured power from Parliament to fix the prices for the necessities of life, prices in certain localities have dropped somewhat.

A Real Cosmopolite. Several Austrians and Germans were interviewed by the Toronto police recently regarding their future movements. One of them, a well-known business man, told the police that his father was French, and that he was born in Russia. He was a German reservist, and has relatives fighting in the Russian, French and German armies.

Seeing By Wire. The sensational paragraphs which have been appearing in the press on seeing by wire are somewhat misleading. There is no indication of anything fundamentally different from the plans which were put forward in the early days of the physical Society of London, when the late Sheldon Bellwell, Prof. Ayrton, and others were experimenting with selenium. At that time, mosaics of selenium were going to do all that is promised now, but they never did.

Never despise little things. The biggest man that ever lived was once an infant.

Real faith is needed before a man can buy a bottle of hair restorer of a bald-headed druggist.

THE OBSESSION

We speak about Philosophy, Discuss Professor James, The Pragmatist, whose genial tongue Materialism shames.

In Koenigsburg he dwells, That brings us to the fighting, and The blog the Russians dealt.

We speak of literary art, And with rejoicing, think Of all the polished eloquence Of Maurice Maeterlinck.

But ere his works we analyze, We drop a silent tear, Because this gallant Frenchman is A marching Volunteer.

We speak of Music and its charm, Its elegance and grace, Of Chopin's tone-embroidery As delicate as lace.

But Chopin was a Pole. His land Produces gifted men, Which brings us to consider Lods And talk of War again.

We speak of common household tasks Like watering the grass. That makes us think about the sea And all the ships that pass.

There isn't any help for it, We talk of War again. —J. E. Middleton in Toronto News.

OUR EARLIEST HUMORIST.

Sam Slick Was Born In Windsor, N.S., and Died In England.

Thomas Chandler Haliburton, popularly known as "Sam Slick," was for many years a judge in Nova Scotia. He was born in Windsor, N.S., in 1797 and at the age of twenty-three was admitted to the bar. In 1829 he was appointed chief justice of the Court of Common Pleas, and in 1840 became a judge of the Supreme Court.

Two years later he resigned that office and removed to England where he afterwards resided. He died at Isleworth, nor far from London, in 1865. He is best known as the author of a series of sketches satirizing the local character, which appeared first in a Nova Scotia paper and were subsequently (in 1837) collected and published in book form under the title of "The Clockmaker, or the Sayings and Doings of Samuel Slick of Slickville."

These were followed by a second series which appeared in 1838, and a third in 1840. The hero of these sketches is Sam Slick, a Yankee clockmaker and pedlar, who is a sort of American Sam Weller. His quaint drollery, unsophisticated wit, and apt use of the use of what he calls "soft-sawder" gained for him many admirers, though just how far the author succeeded in portraying the typical Yankee is a matter of opinion.

One American critic says: "We can distinguish the real from the counterfeit Yankee as the first sound of the voice, and by the turn of a single sentence; and we have no hesitation in declaring that Sam Slick is not what he pretends to be; that there is no organic life in him; that he is an impostor, an impossibility, a nonentity."

On the other hand, W. Tait, London Athenaeum asserts that "Sam Slick deserves to be entered on our list of friends, containing the names of Tristram Shandy, the shepherd of the Noctes Ambrosianae, and other characters of the first order."

He is also the author of "An Historical and Statistical Account of Nova Scotia," "Bubbles of Canada," "The Old Judge, or Life in a Colony," "Letter-Bag of the Great West-ern," "Rule and Misrule of the English in America," "Yankee Stories," "Traits of American Humor," "Nature and Human Nature," "Letters to Lord Durham," and "Wise Saws and Modern Instances."
