TORONTO COMMENTS ON RUGBY TEAM.

It Will Be Hard to Defeat in Kingston — McGill Players Are Said to Be Acting Up.

Dr. "Nattie" Lawson, the grand plunging half back of the Toronto Argonauts' Big Four club, is out of the game for the season with an injured shoulder.

It is very evident that the division in both Hamilton and Ottawa has worked out to the ruin of the Big Four teams. Neither of them would have much chance with the Ontario Union teams in their own town.

Toronto Globe: Too much weight on the University of Toronto line, and lack of condition on the part of the Queen's players were the cause of the defeat of the Presbyterians on Saturday at the Stadium. The tackling of Queen's was better as a whole, than that of the University of Toronto. The Presbyterians seldom tackle above the knees, and their speed enabled them to bring down their men. U. of T. had the advantage in weight. The visitors, from inside and outside wings, were up under Hazlett's punts with much frequency owing to their lackness.

Toronto Mail and Empire: Queen's will be a hard team to beat at Kingston, but Capt. Hazlett will have to use better judgment than he did on Saturday if he wants to win any games. His dropping a goal in the quarter, in place of trying to get a try, was a very bad piece of headwork.

Toronto World: Hazlett, Queen's good half-back, put up a fine exhibition of punting, and had it over Varsity's best in this department, but Varsity's line was clearly superior to that of the visitors, and this advantage helped the Varsity boys on to victory.

According to advices received from McGill, Coach Shaughnessy has not a bed of roses, owing to several of the players refusing to abide by the strict training rules laid down, while others are said to be after Shaughnessy's scalp.

Among the officers who are believed to have lost their lives in the sinking of the British cruiser Hawke, in the North Sea, by a German submarine, is Dr. J. H. D. Watson, who was well known as an international rugby football player. Dr. Watson was temporarily attached to the Hawke in the capacity of surgeon.

Prospects for professional hockey in the maritime provinces this year are as slender as Mile. Poiraire's waist, according to reports filtering through from the Atlantic seaboard. Halifax and Sydney were the cities which held the professional league players together last year through a somewhat shaky season, and declarations from both are to the effect that they will be out of the game this year. New Glasgow is regarded as hopeless. Moncton will be out of it again on account of a lack of rink accommodation, and Amherst, after an unprofitable year, will not venture in again.

Toronto Mail and Empire: Both Queen's and Varsity tried to overdo the interference rule, and the result was that the spectacular end runs of former seasons were lacking, the play, with only a little variation being a series of line plunges, with the ball carrier relying solely on his interference, as invariably, and in fact pretty near nine times out of ten. With man with the ball hit the hole in the line with nobody to help him. Without this interference rule the game would revert back to the spectacular open play of former years, thus making it more interesting from the spectator's point of view.

There are lots of good people on earth, and there are a lot more about six feet below the crust. Valuable experience is the kind you can exchange for real money. Even tainted money is apt to have one or more strings to it.

Sustain The Payroll

The circular message of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association—"Keep Factories Running"—means that for the sake of prosperity the wheels should be kept going and the payrolls sustained. It expressed the truth that the basic fact about prosperity is the payroll. It says nothing about profits or dividends. It recognizes the dynamic efficiency of one thing only—the wages of labor. It is a set aggressive purpose to maintain in a state of earning efficiency the hundreds of thousands of men, who depend on the factories of Canada for their livelihood. But unless the people who buy spend their money for goods made in Canada, the payrolls can't be maintained.

The merchants of this country need the dollars of the workingmen. Cut off the wages of labor and you close the doors of business. Keep wages going at full strength and the buying power of the country stays up. Buy the products of Canadian factories and you help keep up the payrolls, and to insure your own income. Buy foreign goods and you work against your own safety. The going factory is usually conditioned on the home market for goods made in the country. If its products are bought by the Canadian people, a Canadian factory can keep up its payroll. If not, it must shut down, lay off hands, or reduce wages.

As believers in practical economy combined with patriotism, we can't practice the principle of self-preservation unless we buy goods made in Canada and keep the wheels of the great organism, symbolized by smokestacks and power-houses, running as near as possible to a peak load.

It's the going factory and the sustained payroll that keep the country united in a time of dislocation caused by a world war. It's the dollars of Canadians spent for goods made in Canada that guarantee the going factory the sustained payroll, and a new era of prosperity to the whole country. And it's everybody's business, from the financial magnate to the man with the dinner pail, to see that the dollars of Canada are spent for this practical, patriotic purpose.

Saved Baby Given Cross.

Petrograd, Oct. 20.—A Russian artilleryman, who at the risk of his life, stopped while retreating under fire to rescue a baby, has received the Cross of St. George. Two comrades who later went to his rescue also were awarded the same honor.

The artilleryman was taken to the hospital at Kiev, where he surprised the nurses by bringing with him the baby he had saved. The soldier's battery had been getting the worst of an engagement, and an order was given to fall back. While retreating through a village the artilleryman noticed a baby crawling out into the street in the very path of an artillery fire. He ran back and picked the baby up, and just as he did a shell burst over his head. He fell to the ground, holding the baby under him. He was shot through the back, and was unable to get up. Seeing his helplessness two of his comrades rushed back and carried both him and the baby to safety.

A man's repentance is always sincere—at the time. Gain a woman's sympathy and her love is easily won.

THE HOME OF GOOD SHOES

UNPRECEDENTED CUNNING.

French Change Tactics and Germans Are Outwitted.

London, Oct. 20.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent telegraphs that the conflict raging around Verdun is full of unprecedented cunning, and that the ground is furiously disputed. The French have adopted tactics totally different from those they practiced at first. They pretend to evacuate forest and wooded country so as to let the Germans advance, then they open fire from ambushes and from behind trees where their mitrailleuses are situated. The dead are innumerable. As the French do not possess heavy artillery of the German type, and are consequently unable to effectively resist the German guns, from time to time they occupy advanced positions with their field batteries and after discharging a hurried fire, immediately changing their positions without giving the Germans sufficient time to fix their target. In view of these tactics the Germans are constrained to employ a permanent exploration staff, whose duty it is to reconnoitre the rapidly changing position of the French.

Almost any man may work himself up to a high degree of popularity with his neighbors by taking up his residence on an uninhabited island in mid-ocean.

Time may be money, but some men blow in a lot of coin in a vain effort to have a good time.
