THE GERMAN RECRUITS

A REPORT SAYS THEY SHOW SIGNS OF EXHAUSTION. But Are Fighting Bravely — Scouts Particularly Fearless — Germans Now Using Obsolete Ammunition.

London, Oct. 27.—Another descriptive report of occurrences in the north of France, from an eye-witness attached to the British general headquarters, was issued by the Official Information Bureau to-day. It is dated Oct. 17th, speaks of the fitness of the troops, and says that "the fact that we are steadily advancing and that the enemy is being worn out before us has proved a most welcome and inspiring change."

"This is not the only advantage we possess over the Germans, for we still hear from prisoners that their advance troops, at any rate, are short of food and exhausted by continual outpost work. We can afford to give our troops more rest, and there is no lack of food. Many of the men captured to us at the present time have had only two months' service, and some of our prisoners declare that they will not expose themselves in the trenches. Nevertheless, the enemy in front of us is fighting well and skillfully and showing considerable powers of endurance. They generally contrive to remove their wounded and often to bury their killed before they retire, and their escape is often facilitated by the numerous deep ditches in this country."

"Many of their cavalry patrols are wearing Belgian uniforms, a practice which is not excusable on the ground of any lack of their own."

An incident which occurred Oct. 13th shows the resource and bravery of some of our enemy's scouts. A detachment of German artillery was retreating, and from time to time coming into action. An officer of one of our tank cavalry patrols had been standing for some minutes under a tree, when he noticed a fine wire hanging down close to the trunk. He followed the wire upward with his eye, and was astonished to see one of the enemy in the tree. As he drew his revolver and fired the man dropped on to his head, also firing. The British officer was stunned, and when he came to he was to find himself alone, with the peak of his cap blown away and his uniform covered with blood which was not his own.

"As the campaign goes on the tendency of the Germans to rely on their splendid war material with which they have been so amply provided, rather than on the employment of masses, has become more marked."

"There are no indications, however, that their supply of material is not inexhaustible, and the significant circular of the Prussian minister of war enjoining a careful search of battlefields for equipment, and even the collection of empty cartridge cases, has been noted in a previous letter. The circular seems to have been prompted more by necessity than by habits of economy, for in the recent fighting both gun and rifle ammunition of old patterns has been found in trenches evacuated by the enemy, on their dead, and on prisoners. Among the latter are 'Mauser' cartridges similar to those used by the Boers in the South African war."

The narrative then quotes from pamphlets dropped by German airmen summoning the French to surrender on the ground that they are pulling chestnuts out of the fire for the English, after which it continues: "Apart from these endeavors to induce the enemy to make a sort of a capitulation among the German soldiers by means of a special military newspaper called 'The Patrol,' which is published in Berlin. Its historical value may be gauged by the statement made in its issue of Sept. 6th as follows: 'It may confidently be asserted that the resistance of the active army of the French has been overcome. The reserve troops and new formations will no doubt give our heroic efforts plenty to do as they advance further.'"

"After three weeks more of fighting, however, the facts must have convinced the German troops that this assertion was not justified. The writer of this report then gives passages from captured German letters which indicate anxiety concerning the result of the fighting. One of these, dated Sept. 27th, contains the following passage: "To-day we got papers from the 1st to the 5th of September, and it is really painful to read of the 'best' and 'most' of our march on Paris, for we are no nearer Paris now than we were then. I do not know whether you realize this, but there is no use of trying to hide it."

The narrative, after saying, "Information recently received corroborates the impression already gained that the enemy's troops suffered severe privations during August and September," and giving extracts from letters to confirm this, concludes with these words: "There is no doubt that the Germans have a great extent recovered from the conditions implied in the above letters, but their forces are by no means what they were."

ALL BALKAN NATIONS

May Yet Be Brought Into the Conflict.

London, Oct. 27.—The most important development during the next few days may be in Albania. A Rome despatch says that Italy has landed marines at Aviona, the principal seaport in Albania, and another despatch declares that Greece has notified the powers of her intention to occupy northern Epirus in the south of Albania. It will be a miracle if all the Balkan nations are not brought into the conflict.

Chief of Police Newton, Belleville, while picking apples in his garden, fell from a ladder and broke three ribs, and sustained other injuries which will incapacitate him for some time. It is stated that there will be no opposition to the election of Hon. T. C. Casgrain in Quebec county.
