Nothing but praise from every man that has worn a Fashion Craft or 20th Century Overcoat.

Opinion divided in regard to merit of suits but a unanimous verdict in favor of our coats. There is absolutely no comparison between our coats and the tailor made. This is not our verdict—the tailors themselves tell us so. The styles cannot be surpassed.

The short, form fitting coats with special lapels and collars, are just the thing. Materials, grey and blue Chinchillas, will be the most worn.

The prices will satisfy any customer desiring the best, $18, $20, $22 and $25. Other lines not quite as good at $12 and $15.

AT MASSING OF GERMAN TROOPS ON BORDER.

Gun Foundation Discovers.—Kaiser's Men Close to Boundary of Holland.
 Roosendaal, Holland, Oct. 29.—Holland is feeling the pressure of the war almost as much as if she were engaged in it. The report that the Germans are massing large numbers of troops on the Eastern border is causing great uneasiness throughout Holland.

The alleged discovery of a tennis court with cement nine feet thick on the property of a German in the vicinity of Arnhem and statements that the German spies have been active near Arnhem and at other points close to the German border seem to intensify the anxiety of the Hollanders.

A Dutch army of over 300,000 trained men is scattered at strategic points along the Belgian and German borders. Roosendaal is the principal troop centre, as it is the only railway gate to Belgium that is now open. Hundreds of military automobiles leave here daily with messages and supplies for the border troops.

The mouth of the River Scheldt and all the canals are heavily guarded. A large garrison at Flushing is guarding the docks and railway station in order to prevent any attempt to violate the neutrality of the Scheldt. The river is heavily mined and Dutch cruisers and torpedo boats are lying at its mouth to give any necessary co-operation to the land forces. Unfortunately it is just changing its uniforms from blue to gray and consequently the troops make a poor appearance because all the men have not received their new equipment.

The horrors of war have been forced on virtually all the cities, towns and country districts by the Belgian refugees, who are estimated to aggregate 800,000. The Dutch government is paying to the cities 30 cents daily for food for each refugee. The cities bear the other expenses connected with the influx. The strain of attending properly to the refugees is hard on Roosendaal, with its fifteen thousand population; Flushing, with 7,000, and other towns with lesser numbers. In these places there are more refugees than inhabitants.

Amersfoort, with a population of about 16,000 has now 16,000 Belgian refugees and interned Belgian soldiers combined. In Groningen there are 2,000 British marines interned. Holland depends on the United States and Canada for her wheat. At present the supply is very short. It is said that Great Britain is delaying food cargoes to Holland, and there is much adverse criticism of the alleged action. Holland is willingly feeding the refugees within her borders, but fears are expressed that famine conditions will prevail unless the embargo is slackened.

The refugees are unwilling to return to Belgium, although Holland has offered them free transportation. The appearance of scarlet fever among the refugees at Flushing is causing some alarm owing to the crowded conditions there. There is no compulsory vaccination law in Belgium and the Hollanders therefore are alarmed by reports that there is smallpox among the refugees.

AUXILIARY LIGHTING.
 Important Regulation Arising Out of Empire Disaster.

Detroit, Oct. 30.—Owners of passenger steamers operating out of Detroit and other lake ports foresee that considerable expenditure and sacrifice of deck space will be necessitated in many cases by the new rules and regulations prescribed by the Board of Supervising Inspectors of Steam Vessels.

The new regulation, which is intended to prevent a ship from being left unlighted in case of accident to her hull, is made applicable to all passenger steamers, whether navigating oceans, rivers or lakes, bays and sounds, and provides that "on and after January 1st, 1915, steamers carrying passengers, subject to the inspection of this service, which are provided with plant for electric lighting purposes, the dynamo of which plant are located below the deep lead line, shall have on board an auxiliary plant located above the deep lead line capable of thoroughly lighting the vessel in case of an emergency."

OPENING LECTURE BY A. HAL-KETT, OF OTTAWA.

Friday Morning Session Included a Lecture By Prof. E. F. Scott on Germany's Position in Modern Culture.
 At the opening session of the Kingston Teachers' association, Thursday evening, at Queen's, A. Halkett, of the Canadian Fisheries museum, lectured on Morphology of animals. Beginning with the Protozoans the lecturer illustrated the structure and habits of the first animals and traced their development from the one-celled to the multiple-celled creature. Mr. Halkett showed many interesting pictures of the latter, to demonstrate their duty, peculiarities and habits.

Following this he described vertebrate animals and explained clearly how they differ from the lower order. It was shown that all vertebrates have only two pairs of limbs, the fins of the fishes corresponding to the wings and legs of birds, and the legs of animals.

Numerous specimens of fish were on exhibition to illustrate their forms and peculiarities and the purpose of these differences.

The lecture was instructive and exceedingly interesting, demonstrating as it did the wonders of nature, the infinite variety of the creatures and the beauty and mystery of the universe. A vote of thanks was tendered by J. G. Ettinger and seconded by Principal Gordon.

On Friday morning the teachers heard with interest three addresses from Prof. W. A. Macpherson, Prof. E. F. Scott and Prof. A. L. Clark. The second speaker's address upon "Germany's Place in Modern Culture," was the chief topic of the morning.

Prof. Scott summed up the whole question by saying that the Germany of today, or especially since Bismarck's time, is not the country that it was previous to this era. As the speaker said, you will hear people say that Germany has no culture, and from present indications owing to the barbaric methods which it is employing they are inclined to think that the country is bordering on barbarism. A Tat denial was given to this contention by the speaker, who asserted that culture is predominant throughout the nation. In early days it has produced some of the greatest philosophers, chemists, statesmen, musicians, etc., but now, owing to the conditions which the militia affairs have taken, the nation has not been paying quite so much attention to these higher ideals.

Dr. Scott, however, paid high tribute to the course of study which is instituted by the state.

Prof. Macpherson, in his address upon "The Efficiency Expert in the School Room," advanced some good methods of teaching and gave some concrete examples as to how they could be carried out.

Prof. A. L. Clark's address was upon "A Photographic Study of the Clouds." This was deeply appreciated by the teachers.

SATURDAY NIGHT A NIGHT OF NIGHTS FOR "KIDDIES."

Lookout For Fairies, Witches and Goblins While on Your Rounds—Old Custom of Damaging Property Dying Out.

One of the big nights of the year for the "kiddies" will be Saturday night—Hallowe'en. Look for fairies, witches, goblins and mischief-makers galore, for they will all be out in full force.

If you happen to see a lot of people all "fussed" up in different regalia on your rounds Saturday night do not wonder at it as it is Hallowe'en, there will be an excuse for it. Not only is this an occasion for much enjoyment by the children but for many of the grown-up people as well. There are many of the oldest people who still carry out the practice of getting "dressed up" for the occasion and paying calls around at the homes of their friends and others as well.

The olden days taffy pulls, crackling nuts and apple diving used to be all the go. Many parties are now held on Hallowe'en.

Some few years ago a good deal of damage was done as the result of Hallowe'en pranks, but nowadays there is very little of this, in fact it has been almost cut out entirely, and it is well, too. Years ago the police force had a very busy time looking after the guilty parties but for the past few years Hallowe'en has passed into history without a serious complaint of any kind. The police do not interfere with the boys and girls having fun but it is when they do damage to property that they draw the line.

FRANCE'S BOY SOLDIER.
 Twelve-Year-Old Fought in Trenches at Namur.

Paris, Oct. 29.—A writer in the Paris Patriote says that he was challenged by two sentinels at the entrance to a village, one of whom he was surprised to see was a mere child, though on horseback with a rifle and wearing the regulation uniform of a cuirassier. When questioned, the boy told the following story, which seems to justify his claim to be called the youngest soldier in France.

"I am twelve years old. My name is Paul Waterlin. I used to live at Creil, where I was a Boy Scout. Not wishing to live alone after my father, who is a non-commissioned officer in the 72nd artillery, went to the front, I went with him. I had done well and might stay with his regiment. He let me keep my rifle, and ordered that a horse be given to me. Since then I have been in the battles of Denain, Meuseux and the Marne, and I am going north very soon."

When asked how he liked the soldier's life, the boy said it was much better than living in houses, which many people who wished to adopt him tried to persuade him to do.

"At the end of our conversation," says the writer, "he lit a cigarette I proffered, blew a big cloud of smoke into the air, and cantered off, sitting on his horse with true soldierly smartness."

DUKE IS OFF TO WAR.
 Manchester's $10,000,000 Picture Scheme Collapsed.

New York, Oct. 30.—The Duke of Manchester is off to the war. Thwarted in his attempt to become an educator by the recent collapse of his $10,000,000 international moving picture scheme, and harassed by many creditors, he sailed for England today on the White Star liner Adriatic with the expressed intention of enlisting.

His departure from these shores was not advertised. His name did not appear on the advance list of passengers. It was said later at the offices of the line that he had booked his passage under the name of Percival, and that the agents of the company were not aware of his identity. Reporters who visited the Adriatic noticed several mysterious men dodging about the decks, and discovered that they were subpena servers waiting for the duke.

A friend of the nobleman admitted that the duke was on board, but said he was there only to see a friend off. A few minutes later the duke appeared at the purser's office and asked for the number of the cabin assigned to Wilfrid Halter. When questioned, he admitted his identity and said he was going home. The duke seemed uneasy and eager to escape questioning. He declared that all his financial troubles were ended, and that as soon as he reached London, he would go to the war office and volunteer for service. The subpena servers missed him.

GAVE BLOOD FOR WOUNDED.
 Many Volunteers for Transfusion From Veins.

Paris, Oct. 30.—The military medical authorities at Lyons have issued this appeal to the population: "There are wounded who are so exhausted from the loss of blood that the only chance of saving their lives is by prompt transfusion from the veins of healthy and strong men or women. Those who wish to offer their blood for such transfusions are invited to give their names at the Hotel Dieu."

No sooner had this notice appeared in the local press than volunteers presented themselves, and Dr. Alexis Garrel, the famous surgeon from the Rockefeller Institute, who is now at the head of one of the Lyons' hospitals, was able immediately to save several patients. Three days ago there were one hundred and twenty names at the Hotel Dieu, representing rich and poor and all classes of society, and it is needless to add that many on the list were conspicuous.

If the fight in Flanders turns to the advantage of the Allies, one of the consequences will be the transfer of several large Red Cross hospitals to the frontier or thereabouts. The Duchess of Westminster's ambulance left Paris yesterday for Boulogne, and it is believed that the British base hospital at Versailles will be shifted.
