

THE TREY O'HEARTS THE WHIG'S NEW, BIG SERIAL STORY STARTS SATURDAY

You Were a Girl and Hated a Man—What Motive Could Make You Try to Kill Your Sister on His Account?

Try as you will you won't and cant strike the right answer to that question unless you read "The Trey O'Hearts," by Louis Joseph Vance, in the newspapers and see the pictures at the "movies."

There's an unusual situation—a human interest element—a curious unexpected twist and thrill to every line of the story and every foot of the pictures.

There have been other strong novels.

There have been other good moving pictures.

But this—well, let's have YOUR opinion.

DARKEN GREY HAIR, LOOK YUONG, PRETTY

Sage Tea and Sulphur Darkens So Naturally That Nobody Can Tell.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy.

INDIAN TROOPS STRIKE FEAR FOR THE SAFETY OF THEIR PARENTS WHO ARE IN TURKEY.

Ghurkas and Sikhs Do Bloody Execution With Cold Steel—Continuous Surprises.

London, Oct. 30.—Despite their enormous losses, the German troops still in formidable strength, are fighting with the greatest desperation. Their ability to pour numbers of men in seemingly continuous torrents surprises even our own men who themselves have participated in some astonishing operations of the same character.

A British soldier said to me yesterday: "If we shoot a German, it seems as if eight of 'em pop up in his place."

The character of the country makes the employment of huge numbers of the enemy's only chance, and the extent to which the allies have taken advantage of the natural features of the ground makes this chance the slenderest one imaginable.

The German troops are provided with strong, roughly-made wooden devices which they can throw across the rivulets in lieu of bridges. They rush forward under fire, using these things as shelters, hurriedly placing them as bridges over any obstacle.

West of Dixmude the Germans attempted to rush a low platform bridge over a dyke. When actually in the bridge the right front was charged and a fearful melee followed. The Germans were cut up in terrible fashion, and the bodies of their slain numbered the dyke so that its waters were unable to find passage underneath the bridge, being diverted into the flat agricultural land on either side.

I met a wounded British soldier yesterday and he told me a grim story recalling Balkan "Colonel Chamberlain."

This soldier related that he remembered the start of a fierce fight in the trenches. Then his mind became blank. Many hours after, when he had recovered, it was morning and he had a fearful feeling of suffocation, and when he tried to move he found himself buried in a trench beneath a pile of ghastly British and German corpses.

Speaking more broadly out of a much greater knowledge of North America than of Europe, it might be helpful to point out that no European power could ever invade Canada without causing a tremendous commotion among the people of the United States; and that, too, is said without the slightest reference to the Monroe doctrine.

ALL GERMANY CROWDED.

With Wounded—Kaiser Near End of Resources.

Paris, Oct. 30.—A member of the Swedish diplomatic corps, who has just arrived in Paris after a journey across Germany, gives the following impressions of his trip, which included a stay in Berlin.

"The thing that struck me most was the number of wounded. It was the same in every town. In Berlin it was really terrible. Six out of every ten people I saw were wounded."

WOULD MAKE RICH HAUL.

Many German Vessels Are in Portuguese Harbors. London, Oct. 30.—In the event of war between Portugal and Germany the former country will make a rich haul of German steamers, many of which have taken refuge in Portuguese ports, the largest number being at Lisbon, while it is believed in shipping circles here that there are known to be thirty-five German steamers at Lisbon, many of large tonnage and some of them new vessels.
