ALLIES ARE DRIVING ENEMY BEFORE THEM

They Continue Their Enveloping Movement, In Spite of the Violent German Attacks Heavily Between Dixmude and Lys.

German Attack on Arras Fails and French Make Progress in That Vicinity--Enemy's Bombardment in Regions of Rheims, Argonne and Meuse Heights Was Ineffective.

Paris, Nov. 2.—Despite all efforts on the part of the Germans who are making a most determined resistance, especially between Dixmude and Lys, the allies are continuing their enveloping movement and are driving the enemy before them. The official communiqué this afternoon emphasized this fact.

It stated that the Germans in the north were continuing attacks of a most violent character, but that they had failed to check the allied columns.

The German attack on Arras is declared to have failed, and the French are making progress at several points in that vicinity.

The German artillery bombardment continues in the regions of Rheims, Argonne and the heights of the Meuse, but it is characterized as generally ineffective.

Checked At Only One Point.

Paris, Nov. 2.—At only one point along the entire northern front has the German right wing been able to check the slow but steady advance of the allies. This is at the village of Messines, which has been taken by the Germans in a series of desperate bayonet charges heavily supported by artillery.

The Germans, heavily reinforced, made a supreme effort against the suburbs of Arras and against Lihons and Lequesnot-En-Santerre. The fighting was sanguine and long drawn out, but the Germans were finally driven back, leaving thousands of dead behind them.

The allies are making headway in the region of Aisne, having moved toward Tracy le Val and to the north of the forest of L'Aigle. Between this forest and Soissons, before Vailly, an attack was directed against the troops holding the south bank of the river, but the war office declares that it was repulsed.

In this connection direct issue is taken with the Germans who claim material advances at this point. The Germans have indulged in a series of night attacks here, but at no point have they been able to pierce the allied line.

Allies' Battle Front Extended.

In general, according to latest official bulletin from Bordeaux, the outlook is constantly improving from the standpoint of the allies. It is declared that although the enemy is bringing his heaviest artillery into play along the right centre and right wing, he has been unable to extend his battle front while the French right is moving forward and gaining ground in the Vosges.

CANADA MAY BE INVADED BEFORE THE END OF YEAR

Toronto, Nov. 2.—The Dominion police and the local authorities admit there is more than a mere rumor in the story that German sympathizers have plotted to blow up the Welland canal and destroy the Hamilton C. P. R. tunnel. The Welland canal, of course, is the great grain route which must be kept open. The C. P. R. Hamilton tunnel is on the direct line of communication between Toronto, where the troops are mobilizing, and the Niagara frontier which would likely be the scene of raids of German

Turkey May Not Benefit German Cause

Berlin, Nov. 2.—The entrance of Turkey into the war certainly was not due merely to admiration for Germany's actions, she must well have realized that her own real friend in Europe is Germany, which will not permit Turkey to go under, but will protect her against being swamped by Russia," says the Cologne Koehnische Zeitung in commenting on the situation. The paper continues:

"Turkey brings the first assistance for Germany and Austria. We are ready to admit that we expect much from the intervention of Turkey, but we are not boasting. A few weeks will show whether her intervention will result in materially improving the position of the two central powers."
