To Get Rid of Wrinkles and Bad Complexions

It is more important now than dur-ing the period of profuse perspiration to keep the pores clean. All cosmetic clog the pores. In cool weather this terferes greatly with elimination waste material, injuring instead of alding the complexion. Ordinary mer-colized wax serves all the purposes of reams, powders and rouges, giving far etter results. It actually peels off ar clogging the pores. Minute particles causing not the least pain or discom-fort. Gradually the healthy, younger-skin beneath peeps out, and in less than a fortnight you have a loveller complexion than you ever dreamed acquiring. Mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is spread on nightly like cold cream, and washed of mornings. One ounce usually suffices For removing wrinkles, without stopping the pores with pasty stuff here's a never-falling formula: 1 oz powdered saxolite, dissolved in 1-2 daily for awhile; every line will van-

Enables Anyone To Play Piano or Organ Without Lessons.

A Detroit musician has invented a wonderful new system which en ables any person or little child to learn to play the piano or organ ir one evening. Even though you know absolutely nothing about music on have never touched a plano or organ you can now learn to play in an hour or two. People who do not know one note from another are able to play their favorite music with this method without any assistance whatever from anyone.

This new system which is called the Numeral Method, is sold Canada by the Numeral Method Music Co., of Canada, and as they are desirous of at once making it known the allied troops upon this part or in every locality, they are making the the other of the vast front so that following special free trial and half- important fractions of the invaders crowd. price offer to our readers.

In his opinion these mines as to how many men were engaged must have been laid by some ship superiority. Possibly the allies, in stances that have not yet arisen in cluding Belgium, have 2,225,000 men this war. on or near the fighting lines.
The question then is, why do not the allies turn the Germans out of France and Belgium? One reason is that the power of the defence is greater with modern weapons and entrenchments than the power of offence. There is probably no position on the whole line that either army could not take if it was determined to do so. It is simply a question of concentrating sufficient forces on that and suffering the inevitable losses. Masses can take any position military masters affirm, only price must be paid in losses. A position is taken at a loss greater than has been inflicted and the winners apon advancing find themselves against another position, which also may be taken. A deep conviction seems to exist at the headquarters in the field and at the ministry of war that the war is to be a long one; that the victory to be won solely by attrition, and that this process of attrition can be applied as well in northern France and in Belgium as on the Rhine. The profound care of the military administration is not to be extravavant with the unreplacable human materila. > alive to carry it on. France still has probably a million and a half of men capable bearing arms, most of them under arms, who have ne er been to the front. There are the very young men and the reserves of the older classes who are being trained for taking their places on the battle linees and to serve as the material for repairing the wastage. France. therefore, can lose one and a half million men and yet maintain her gigantic armies on the fighting lines at the same strength they have now. The same thing may be true of Germany-it probably is- and therefore military observers in Paris cannot believe in a short and decisive war. The immense operations which have already taken place are looked upon as merely the begin ning, as merely the deployment and opening engagements of a war which may not reach its greatest violence until spring.
