

TALES OF BERESFORD

THE FORMER ADMIRAL OF THE BRITISH NAVY.

First Racehorse Owned by King Edward Was Bought by Lord Charles for Him — Declined Home Rule Leadership.

Lord Charles Beresford, as sailor, statesman (or reformer), and as sportsman, is one of the most interesting and picturesque figures in our time; and no man living has had more or more varied experiences ashore and afloat.

It goes without saying, therefore, that "The Memories of Admiral Lord Charles Beresford," just published in two bulky volumes, is a book worth reading.

Several of Lord Charles' anecdotes refer to his friendship with royal personages, and one of the best concerns the late King Edward, when Prince of Wales.

One occasion when I was driving the Prince of Wales on my coach to a meet of the Four-in-Hand club at the Magazine, Hyde Park, a man who was quite unknown to me shouted:

"Ullo, Chawley, 'ow are yer? I see 'ave got 'Wiles' up alongside of yer."

"Some of your friends seem very familiar," said the prince, who took the remark with perfectly good humor.

The first racehorse owned by King Edward was bought by Lord Charles for him; it was called Stonehenge, and the king and Lord Charles were partners in it.

Lord Charles used to get his officers to write essays on subjects connected with the navy. One of them, a little middy, in his contribution, suggested that the chief officers should refer more to the middies who, "having young and vigorous minds, were naturally better fitted to grapple with problems which baffled the older and slower intellect!"

"I think, I think, have applied his vigorous mind to the problem of how to obtain a generous allowance of leave. I trust I did him no injustice; but, whenever the fleet lay off the coasts of Scotland, he was afflicted with a grievous toothache, requiring an immediate visit to the dentist.

When he had been ashore to have a tooth out in every port in Scotland, I sent him, "how many teeth you have left? For I make out that you have had forty-six teeth extracted in Scotland alone."

The middy did not reply. He gave his superior best. It is not generally known that Lord Charles was once asked — by Isaac Butt — to take up the leadership of the home rule party.

He declined, on the ground that Ireland wanted land reform more than home rule, and he advocated such reform on lines that adversely affected his own income. His popularity among Irish men of all classes and creeds and politics is well known. When he went to America he was made a great fuss of by countrymen.

"One among my countrymen had traveled a thousand miles to see me when he called at my hotel. I told him that I had twenty minutes, before starting for Chicago, and that I must retire to my room to bathe, shave, and prepare a speech in that time.

"I come wild ye," said he cheerfully, and while I made my dispositions he sat in the adjoining room and talked of the old country with that pride and affection which all Irishmen feel for their native land.

One of his lordship's sayings is that horses are like Irishmen; you can do anything with them, if you understand them.

NERVOUS WOMEN Can Only Find Relief by Toning the Nerves With New Rich Blood.

The woman who "flies to pieces" over the least noise or excitement soon fades and loses her good looks. Dark rings appear under her eyes, the lines about her mouth and forehead deepen and lengthen, the eyes become sunken, the face drawn and the complexion sallow.

The trouble is nervousness and if the strata is not relieved and the nerves properly nourished, nervous collapse and years of sickness may easily follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People will save you from this dreadful affliction.

These Pills make the new, rich blood that nourishes and tones the nerves and banishes every trace of nervousness. Mrs. Margaret Donley, Amherst, N.S., says: "I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved me from the grave. I was taken down with nervous prostration and for months was unable to walk. I slowly recovered until I was able to get about, but there the improvement ended. I was getting weaker and weaker until I could just get from the bed to a couch. The least noise would set me trembling all over, and often when I went to the table I would leave it hungry and yet unable to eat. Sometimes I was taken with smothering spells and felt as if I was going to die. At other times I would be so nervous that I could not hold anything in my hands. I was doctoring all the time, but without benefit, and finally made up my mind I would try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They were the first medicine that gave me any relief, and I was soon able to take a short walk. I continued using the Pills, gradually gaining a new health and strength, until I finally felt as well as ever I did in my life. At the time Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me I was living in Sackville, and my illness and cure was known to everyone in that place, and my friends, like myself, believe the Pills saved my life."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PAWNBROKERS LOSE TRADE Those in London Thought War Would Aid Them.

London, Nov. 21.—There is much lamenting among the pawnbrokers here because the war has greatly injured their trade. One of the best-known pawnbrokers in London said to-day that business was far below the normal — rich persons were holding on to their diamonds and discharging some of their servants.

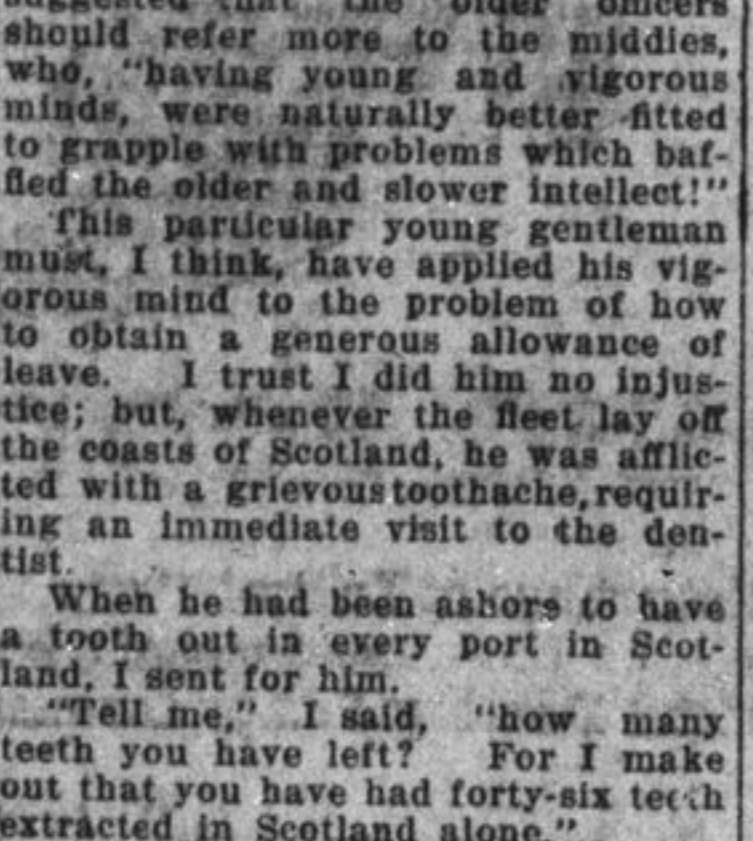

Pawnbrokers were confident when the war began that gems would be pawned in unprecedented quantities. Instead, they find themselves with well-filled shops and no customers, while the price of diamonds has decreased.

One pawnbroker said that few diamonds were being bought for engagement rings. It is predicted that unless the war is ended very soon a number of pawnshops will go into bankruptcy.

ANTI-GERMAN PLOTS

KAISER'S AMBASSADOR IN FEAR OF HIS LIFE.

Say Germans Refuse to Recognize Turkish Authority — Committee Formed to Fight Present Policy.

Rome, Nov. 21.—The German ambassador at Constantinople goes in fear of his life, and is daily the recipient of threatening letters.

A plot has been discovered for the assassination of Gen. Von Sanders and a number of high Turkish officials for favoring Germany's designs. Prince Burhan ed Din is said to have been implicated in the conspiracy.

In addition to these open appeals to violence, an influential committee of Turkish military authorities has been formed to endeavor to counteract the present policy and rid the country of German domination. Djahid Pasha, vice president of the chamber and formerly editor of the Tanina, is taking an active part in this movement and exerting all his influence, as he puts it, "to prevent Turkey from committing suicide."

But the prime mover in this revolt against Germany is Chukri Pasha, the heroic defender of Adrianople, who is seconded by Marshal Fiaid Pasha.

A sensation has been produced in government circles by the action of a large number of army and navy officers, who went in a body to the war office to complain that Germans had taken all authority out of their hands and to point out that even German non-commissioned officers in the Turkish army refused to recognize their right to give orders.

The deputation withdrew after warning the authorities that they would retire in a body from the forces unless the Germans were put into their proper place.

WAR METHODS NEW.

Germans Admit Heavy Losses Can't Be Avoided.

Paris, Nov. 21.—The Frankfurter Zeitung says: "Our losses undoubtedly are very high in Flanders, but the country need not be despoiled by the arrest of the German advance on a part of the vast battle front. It is true that the enemy is defending himself valiantly and obstinately in northern France and Belgium. Nevertheless, our troops have advanced a little. Those among us feeling discouraged because of the slowness of our progress ought to remember that we are making war entirely by new methods. Formerly fortresses required months of besieging, while battles in the open country lasted only a matter of hours."

"Now it is just the contrary. Our enemies have learned to protect themselves by works and trenches, the capture of which necessitates a heavy sacrifice."

The Berliner Nachrichten says the campaign has greatly weakened the supply of officers. Many have been affected by nervous troubles and have been unable to remain in active service. A simple lieutenant at many points on the western front has been forced to command two or three companies. The minister of war is making extraordinary efforts to fill the vacancies among the officers.

SALTS IF BACKACHY AND KIDNEYS HURT

Stop eating meat for a while if your Bladder is troubling you.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and laggard. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink. Agent, Geo. W. Mahood.
