PLACED UNDER ARREST

GERMAN CREATED A ROW IN A RESTAURANT.

Police Had Call and Removed Him to the Police Station—Said He Thought Soldiers Would Kill Him.

Robert Kroust, registered as a German at the police station, was charged with being drunk in the police court on Monday morning. He was arrested in a restaurant on Saturday night by Constables Marshall Armstrong and William Nicholson.

Constable Armstrong said that a call had been received from the restaurant and that Kroust was raising a disturbance.

"He had a knife in his hand and said he wanted to go to the fort," said the constable. It was alleged that the accused had been defending his fatherland, but there was no evidence of this kind produced. The magistrate imposed a fine of $1 and costs. Several soldiers were in the restaurant, and the accused, who cannot speak very much English, made it known to the magistrate that he thought some of the soldiers would try to kill him.

Mabel Hemming, aged about twenty-five or thirty, stood accused of vagrancy. Some time ago she was in court on a similar charge, and was given a chance to leave the city. She left town, but her love for the city brought her back again. Mabel very boldly admitted the charge when it was read to her. But the vagrancy charge was not all. It was said of her that she had in her possession a blanket which did not belong to her.

Questioned by the magistrate as to how she came in possession of it, she said a soldier gave it to her. The magistrate endeavored to get the name of the soldier, but the accused said she only knew his first name, but this was not sufficient information for the police to work on. The magistrate gave her one month in jail, and as Mabel passed out she made "faces" at the magistrate.

Two other drunks were fined. The Hemming girl was placed under arrest by Constables Bateson and Jenkins in a house on Ontario street. She was staying with a married couple, and it is stated that there was no fire in the house. When taken to the police station she made a big fuss and declared that she would not go into one of the police cells, but finally consented to comply with the law.

MILITIA Y.M.C.A. OPENING

Book Place in Ontario Hall on Saturday Evening.

Ontario Hall was packed to capacity Saturday evening at the formal opening of the militia Y.M.C.A. W. R. Givens presided and several prominent officers and citizens were on the platform. Mayor Shaw spoke of his connection with the 14th regiment and as an ex-soldier welcomed the soldiers to the city.

Col. T. D. R. Hemming congratulated the battalion on its splendid showing and hoped that when it left Kingston for the front it would make a record to be proud of.

Lieut.-Col. W. S. Hughes arrived late from Ottawa and was loudly cheered as he entered the hall. He said he was proud of the showing that the men already made and hoped for even better work from them.

Sergt. Harle rendered a solo and Major G. H. Gillespie gave a recitation. Several of the 21st battalion soldiers rendered solos and the evening closed with a five-round exhibition bout by two members of the battalion. The R.C.I.A. band furnished excellent music.

On Sunday evening Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald conducted the services. He chose as his subject the miracle of the five loaves and two fishes. Miss Sutherland and Sergt. Harle rendered solos in splendid manner.

On Monday night the students of Queen's University are to give a programme to the soldiers in Ontario hall.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The City Council Should Pass the New Dog By-Law.

Kingston, Nov. 23.—(To the Editor): After talking with many of the Kingston merchants, I feel safe in saying that they are all interested and wondering what council will do with the proposed amendments to the old dog-by-law of this city, which will be given third reading in council to-night.

It seems to me as a merchant, most appropriate that the dog nuisance should have been so bravely tackled by the energetic representative of the business ward of the city, because merchants are undoubtedly more concerned with trouble with dogs than any other class. Nothing is more annoying to both clerks and customers than having stray dogs running wild through a store—a very dangerous and unsanitary practice. It seems to me that if any dog lover wants to take his dog into a store or on the street, particularly a business street, he should have the dog under control by means of a rope or chain.

In progressive cities, where people desire clean streets, well kept lawns and flower beds, by laws to rid them of the dog nuisance are now being strictly enforced and Kingston should be no exception in this regard.

The more careful dog lover will perhaps suffer under a strict law, but there is no denying the fact that most dogs in Kingston are now allowed to run wild throughout the city. I hope the "city fathers" will pass the by-law unanimously.—A. MERCHANT.

"From Out the Dregs."

A tense love drama with gripping situations and heart interests. An incident of love in the underworld where a ray of sunshine reaches the lives of those who are crooked because they know little else. Altogether one of the most touching little gems of the screen. The war series are growing better as they come in from the front. A splendid reel of same, together with another comedy, (Mabel Normand), completes the programme at the Wonderland theatre, Monday and Tuesday.
