ORGANIZED IN 1908

INTERCOLLEGIATE RUGBY UNION BORN IN KINGSTON.

With a View to Bringing About a Closer Relationship Between the Colleges.—Numerous Changes.

The Intercollegiate rugby union was established November 24, 1897, at a meeting held for the purpose in Kingston, by representatives from the leading universities in Canada, and in response to a very generally expressed desire among college men and those interested in college athletics, for a series of matches between representative teams in what is justly regarded as the most popular of the only the great college game.

In the season of '98 an interesting and well-contested series of matches was played, and cleaner and better football was never played in Canada.

Dr. H. B. Yates, of McGill College, generously donated a beautiful cup for competition in the senior series, which was won by 'Varsity, and Varsity's intermediate team also succeeded in winning the championship.

In 1901 both the Senior and the Intermediate championships were won by a member of the Canadian union named the "Rough Riders" of Ottawa City, on November 19th, a Rosedale, but were defeated by a score of 7 to 3. At the annual meeting, December 1898, the Intercollegiate Rugby Union was formed from membership in the Canadian union.

Osgoode Hall was admitted to membership in the union July 1st, 1899, but as yet has been unable to place a team in the field.

'Varsity again succeeded after a well-contested series of matches in winning the championship in 1900, the senior series for 1899, while among the intermediates, Royal Military College won a like success.

Queen's succeeded in winning both the Senior and Intermediate championships in 1900.

In 1901 both the Senior and the Intermediate championships were won by the university of Toronto.

In 1902 the Senior championship was won by McGill University and the Intermediate championship by Queen's.

In 1903 the Senior championship was won by Toronto University and the Intermediate by Queen's.

In 1904 Queen and McGill tied for the senior championship and played off at Ottawa, where Queen's was victorious. Royal Military College won the Intermediate championship.

In 1905 Ottawa University was admitted to the union. Toronto won the senior championship, going through the season without a defeat and finally winning the Canadian championship. Royal Military College again won the Intermediate championship.

In 1906 McGill won the senior C.I.R.F.U. championship, McGill lost to Hamilton Tigers in the Dominion championship game. The R.M.C. won the Intermediate C.I.R.F.U. series and Queen's III. was successful in the junior series.

In 1907 Ottawa University won the senior championship, while Toronto University captured the intermediate and junior championships. Toronto, II. defeating the Intermediate O.R.F.U. champions, thus winning the intermediate Canadian championship.

In 1908 Toronto University won the senior, intermediate, and junior championships. Varsity seniors were defeated by the Hamilton Tigers on November 23, 1908, at Toronto, for the Canadian championship, by the score of 27 to 21 points.

Toronto University again won the Intercollegiate championship in 1909 by defeating Ottawa Rough Riders by a score of 31 to 9, and Parkdale by a score of 27 to 8, they succeeded in winning the championship of the Dominion. R.M.C. won the intermediate championship of the C.I.R.F.U., and Varsity III's the junior.

In 1910 Toronto University was the winner of the Intercollegiate senior and junior series. Royal Military College won the intermediate championship. Playing off with winners of other unions, Toronto seniors and Royal Military college won the Dominion championship in their respective series.

In 1911 Toronto University won the senior Intercollegiate championship, and successfully defended the title of Dominion champions by defeating the Argonauts, of Toronto. The Royal Military college again won the intermediate series, and brought back the Dominion title. Varsity II. of the Intercollegiate union by defeating Tigers II., of Hamilton, R.M.C. also won the junior series, but lost to Petrolea in the Dominion final.

In 1912 McGill University won the senior series, after a play-off with Varsity at Ottawa. R.M.C. won the intermediate series. Ottawa college resigned from the union, being dissatisfied with the decision of a protest by the executive, and have remained out ever since.

In 1913 the R.M.C. was admitted to the senior series and justified their advancement to senior rank by winning their home games from Toronto and Queen's. McGill were again successful in winning the senior honors, but declined to play-off for the Dominion honors. St. Michael's college, newcomers, won the intermediate series, while K.C.I. won the junior series.

REVENGE SOLE REWARD

FOR GERMAN'S PRESENT MARCH ON WARSAW.

A Desperate Expedition—Cannot Avert Strategic Blow Which Grand Duke Nicholas Has Prepared for Germanic Hosts.

Petrograd, Nov. 24.—The absence of news from the east of war continues, without, however, arousing any particular anxiety. The fighting is going on, and previous experiences have been quite sufficient to inspire confidence as to the results.

"The situation in Poland is satisfactory from the Russian point of view, but is not likely to yield an immediate harvest of success unless the Germans suddenly collapse. The position is strategically extremely interesting. On the north the Russian front is moving forward into East Prussia, and in the south, on Cracow.

In the centre the Germans have driven on Upper Poland, bringing an enormous weight of picked forces to bear, and they are straining their last efforts to burst through in this region. This is a desperate expedition to hinder the progress of the Russian movement, so long planned and now in process of execution.

Between the Vistula and the Warthe, where the rivers have only about forty miles of space between them, the Germans have strongly entrenched positions, protected by the broad Vistula on the left, and by the Warthe, with fortified places, on the right. Behind this line, something like ten to twelve German army corps have been gathered to force by sheer weight a passage toward Warsaw.

As a punitive expedition in revenge for the recent flight from Warsaw, this move is perfectly intelligible, but from no other point of view. Even complete success could not avert the strategic blow which the Grand Duke Nicholas is aiming against the Germanic hosts.

The time limit is against the Germans, whose one chance here, as elsewhere, was in a smashing hammer stroke; but the Russian anvil is proof against the German hammer and we await confidently for the moment when once again the anvil swings into position to smash the hammer.

CURE WAS GERMAN SPY.

French Lieutenant, Himself An Abbe, Penetrated Disguise. Paris, Nov. 24.—Last week a battalion of French infantry reoccupied a village where the Germans had a good time. Everything was destroyed excepting the church and the presbytery. An old cure of venerable appearance received the soldiers with open arms. He told how he enemy had taken him away as a hostage, and he had seen the hard life of war. Finally they had released him and he had been able to get back home.

The same evening the French officers invited the cure to their table, before the first course was served an old man rose slowly to say grace. One of the officers seemed surprised as the cure proceeded to murmur the Latin prayer. He whispered a word to the commandant, and the next instant the cure found himself surrounded by soldiers with fixed bayonets.

The lieutenant then approached and put a few technical questions to the old man. This lieutenant was himself an abbe. The other seemed amused, and then appalled, as he was unable to reply. "That would be the priest," the man on being searched was found to be a German spy.

NOT CHANGING POLICY.

Meeting of Italian Ambassadors of No Significance. Washington, Nov. 25.—The conference in Rome of Italian ambassadors called from their posts at London, Berlin, Paris and Vienna was declared to-day by the Italian ambassador here, Count Di Cellere, to be without international import.

The ambassador explained that the recent appointment of the new minister of foreign affairs, Baron Sonnino, was the cause of the meeting. A similar conference took place at the beginning of the war and the one now called does not, according to the ambassador, mean that Italy is planning any change of policy. No such indication, it was said, has reached the embassy here.
