What material benefit can we hope to gain from this present war? We believe our cause to be a righ teous one because we are fighting on the side of things unseen and eternal, and not for worldly gain It has been the delusion of all worldly tyrants of all times, that they can overwhelm things unseen and eternal by the sword. To vair imagination of temporal power carhe traced much of the sorrow, pair and suffering of all times.

An exceptionally good meeting of the Q.U.M.A. was held on Saturday morning when addresses were given by several of the students. Miss Mc-Callum gave a very interesting talk on the work among Scandinavian children in the west, and showed that there was a great need for Queen's students among these children. Miss Hume showed that students can much in making the children of today, in the west, good and useful citizens of to-morrow. R. J. Mac-Kenzie spoke of his work among the people of New Ontario.

Some 300 members of the training corps turned out for the route march on Saturday afternoon. The students marched to Barriefield and indulged in skirmishing under the direction of Lieut, Col. Cunningham. The men were divided into two sections and were put through some stiff attack and defence practice.

At the annual Alma Mater meeting on Saturday night the installation of the new officers took place. Before the new president, W. C. Johnston, and secretary, C. M. Sellery, took charge of the meeting, J. Bennie gave the secretary's report and A. Whitehead the treasurer's report.

After the annual meeting the regular meeting was begun. Prof. F. MacDonald's resignation from the board of auditors was left over until next meeting. Grant Hall was given trouble of correspondence with some to the Conversat committee for Jan. one at a distance and the consel5th.

Keep Up The Christmas Spirit

While it is practical patriotism give the preference to goods made in Canada, it is also practical wisdom and sen-interest as well, to give preference to Kingston stores. Your money stays in Kingston, livens up Kingston trade generally, and so helps to create a prosperity which you share.

Moreover, it is safer. Compared with outside stores, the stocks carried in Kingston furnish abundant inducements for buying at home. Your purchases made at home are safeguarded by the fact that your tocal dealer is handy to get at, so that if any inequality creeps into your order, he is right here, on the spot, to make it right, without the quent delay it causes before

Bishop Mills In St. Luke's.

The congregation of St. Luke' Anglican Church had the pleasure listening to an eloquent sermon by the Lord Bishop of Ontario on Sunday evening. The bishop's topic dealt with the second advent of our Lord, was based upon St. Matthew xxiv, 42 : "Watch therefore; for ye now not what hour your Lord doth

Three divisions were made by his ordship. These included, When will the coming be? What will be the sign of it? What wif it do for the world ?

Dealing with the first the bishop asserted that the time of the Lord's coming has never shown itself clearly as the present time with respect to being so near. It is common to hear people ask the question, it the world is getting better. It was the speaker's impression that it was getting worse. This terrible war was caused to a large extent by the unchristian state of Europe. By the blood that is being spilled the people lections, duets and choruses all are being brought to their senses, which were greatly appreciated festly the great awakening to prepare the way for God's coming. If the Lord would come upon earth now, said the bishop, the war would end instantly.

The bishop stated that the oppress ing Turk will, at the conclusion of the war, be driven from Jerusalem and finally from Palestine by the allies, another sign to show that the coming advent is not far distant.
