

VOICE OF THE PULPIT

EDUCATIONAL SERMONS IN SYDENHAM STREET METHODIST CHURCH

Preached by Rev. E. N. Baker, Albert College, Belleville—Canon Gould Preached in St. James'.

Educational services were held in Sydenham Street Methodist Church on Sunday. Rev. E. N. Baker, president of Albert College, Belleville, was the speaker at both services.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

Living was the subjection of the will and body as a fit home for the dwelling of Jesus. In reality, said Mr. Baker, the Christian life is a rather strenuous life.

Mr. Baker's evening discourse was based upon I Cor. xii. 31: "But covet earnestly the best gifts, and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way."

Seek the qualities that mould character, manhood, strength and truth, said the speaker. Money or ambition to a certain extent are not enviable qualities. We should strive to elevate the human unto the divine life.

Smoke On Missions "It is not in the counting of heads; it is in the uplifting of the whole people we have in view, in this missionary work of the Christian church, in the lands beyond the sea," said Canon Gould, of Toronto.

It was not a fair question to ask, "Is life worth living?" said the speaker, because age and health had a great deal to do in answering this query, but rather ask, "What is life?"

Mr. Baker asserted "living was not what a great many thought it to be, of piling up fortunes and the mad rush after power and influence. Often those who have gained these were no happier than those who had not.

DUTY OF OFFICIALS

TO SEE THAT THE LAWS ARE ENFORCED.

Rev. G. I. Campbell Mentions Other Evils which Prevail in Kingston—Rev. S. J. M. Compton Refers to Nickle Charges.

To a large congregation in Queen Street Methodist church on Sunday evening, Rev. G. I. Campbell preached a very interesting sermon on "Seeing the City in the Night," his text being from Nehemiah ii. 12. The speaker said that city life was divided into two parts, one being vastly different from the other. The life at night was completely different from that in the day. A city could be no better or worse than the people made it, and unfortunately, ideal conditions were not always upheld.

There were, too, many citizens who were willing to tolerate wrong ideals. It was not the duty of the church or of the citizens to enforce the laws, but it was the duty of the officials in charge to see that the laws were enforced.

Referring to the charges made public last week here, Mr. Campbell said these could not be ignored, and must be investigated. If such intolerable conditions existed, they must be wiped out. "Let the chips fall where they may." If, through his sense of good citizenship, the charges had been made by an individual, he should be honored for his public spirit.

The speaker would not pronounce an opinion about the charges made, but there were some things not made public to which he would call attention. Drunken men paraded the main streets in broad daylight. Boys under fourteen years of age were seen smoking cigarettes, and on being asked where they had got them, the answer was that they had been given to them. This is quite unlikely. Someone is selling them to the youngsters, which is contrary to law. Decent people were shocked by the public blasphemy on the streets of Kingston. The investigation into these conditions must be made immediately, and must be by all means by a thorough one, said Mr. Campbell. Public opinion would not only demand, but obtain in this city of clean homes, educational institutions and commercial life an ideal city from a social standpoint.

Rev. S. J. M. Compton in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning, gave a very interesting sermon, speaking on the text, "Where there is no vision the people perish, but he that keepeth the law happy is he." Proverbs, XXIX: 18.

The speaker referred to an article in a local paper, "in large type on the front page," severely reprimanding the man who exposed the evils of the city. He said that such an article should not have been written, because the evils in the city should be exposed. Next to the pulpit came the press in exposing wrong-doing, and it was now either the fault of the police or the commission if conditions were not immediately changed.

TO ENTER A PROTEST. Against Cutting Down Of Grants To The Fairs. As a result of the war, all grants to fairs will be cut down this year by the legislature. The Kingston Industrial Exhibition will raise a protest. "We hear a great deal about increased production," said one member of the fair association, "and yet in the face of this the grants are to be cut down, and it is the fairs that are helping to encourage this increased production."

Was Badly Hurt. A young man, named A. Campbell, while blasting stones at his quarry near Fidelity street met with a misfortune which may result in his blindness. He loaded the hole and touched a match to the fuse which immediately sent off the charge in some mysterious way. The young man was removed to Gananoque for medical attendance.

Received His Commission. Lieut. Cecil Stuart, of the 28th Regiment, Stratford, Ont., and son of J. Russell Stuart, Alfred street, has received his commission in the 34th Battalion now being mobilized at Guelph.

THREE REASONS. Each With Two Legs and Ten Fingers. An Eastern woman who is a fond mother writes an amusing article about her experience feeding her boys.

Among other things she says: "Three chubby, rosy-cheeked boys, Bob, Jack and Dick, respectively, are three of our reasons for using and recommending the food, Grape-Nuts, for these youngsters have been fed on Grape-Nuts since infancy, and often between meals when other children would have been given candy."

I gave a package of Grape-Nuts to a neighbor whose 5-year-old child was a weaselly little thing. In half the time, the little tot ate the Grape-Nuts and cream greedily and the mother continued the good work, and it was not long before a truly wonderful change manifested itself in the child's face and body. The results were remarkable, even for Grape-Nuts.

"Both husband and I use Grape-Nuts every day and keep strong and well and have three of the finest, healthiest boys you can find in a day's march."

Many mothers instead of destroying the children's stomachs with candy and cake give the youngsters a handful of Grape-Nuts when they are begging for something in the way of sweets. The result is soon shown in greatly increased health, strength and mental activity.

Name given by Canadian Postmaster, Windsor, Ont. Look in pages for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of interesting facts.

A JANUARY REDUCTION SALE OF WOMEN'S FINE SHOES

Sale of Ladies' Tans

Table listing shoe prices: All ladies' $6.00 tan boots for $4.25, All ladies' $5.00 tan boots for $3.75, All $4.50 values for $3.25, All $4.00 values for $3.00, All $3.75 values for $2.95.

This lot includes every pair of ladies' tan boots in our store—no reserve—everything real up to date.

This Week Only

Abernethy's Shoe Repairing advertisement.

Our Clearing Sale Of Furs

Affords you the opportunity of buying high class furs at less than wholesale prices. You cannot conceive of the marvelous BARGAINS we are offering, and space will not permit us to quote prices, so we invite you to come examine and compare. Every line of Manufactured Furs is included in this Sale.

Ladies' Fur and Fur-lined Coats, Neck Pieces and Muffs, in all the popular furs. Men's Fur-lined Coats, Coonskin Coats, Sleigh Robes, etc.

CAMPBELL BROS. Makers of Furs

RED CROSS SOCIETY.

The following medical stores and comforts have been sent overseas, and more will follow each day: 414 pairs socks, 215 hospital night-shirts, 48 flannel bed jackets, 1 knitted bed jacket, 34 knitted cholera bands, 7 pairs flannel bed socks, 3 pairs knitted bed socks, 7 hospital pillows, 14 pillow covers, 1 pair blankets, 4 hot water bottle covers, 85 abdominal bandages, 29 pneumonia jackets, 12 dozen complete dressings.

The following comforts also have been distributed by the Red Cross Society: To the members of the 14th P.W.O. Rifles on home duty—98 pairs wristlets, 67 bath-towels, 10 pairs mitts. To the Kingston members of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F.—120 scarves, 120 pairs wristlets, 173 cholera bands. To the Kingston members of the Depot Training company, Engineers—30 cholera bands, 30 pairs socks, 30 knitted scarves, 30 pairs wristlets. To the members of the band of the 21st Battalion, C.E.F.—12 pairs wristlets.

Poultry Association. It is likely that a meeting of the Kingston Poultry Association will be held this week to finish up the business of the show a short time ago which was held in aid of the Red Cross fund. Although very little profit was made by the running of the show, a part of the funds will likely be given to the Red Cross society as the association's contribution. The association officials and members deserve great credit for their generosity in helping this good cause.

Ice Cream Bricks

25c a Pint or 50c a Quart. By Government test the best in Kingston.

Sakell's

Next to Opera House. Phone 640.

Our Big Clearing Furniture Sale

IN FULL SWING. Special reductions in all lines. Dining Room, Bedroom and Parlor Furniture.

Marble Hall

FOR FRESH BOY BUNS, HOME-MADE CANDY, ICE CREAM BRICKS. Special with fruit made to order.

George Masoud, Phone 980, 238 Princess St.

For Sale

Gramophones, Phonographs, Gramolas, Columbia and Victor records, Odeon and Jumbo records, Edison 2 minute records, Blue Amberol records.

Allen's

Phone 252, 113 Brock St. Dining Room Chairs in sets of 5 small and 1 armchair. Buy early as we store your purchases.

For Sale

Frame house, with furnace, four bedrooms, all improvements, good cellar and poultry house; two blocks from Princess street. Two detached houses on a corner lot, three bedrooms in each, all conveniences, for $5,500, or will exchange for a small farm.

To Rent

New house, all improvements, $12 per month, until May, 1915. HORACE F. NORMAN Real Estate and Insurance Office 177 Wellington St.

THE BRITISH WHIG KINGSTON, ONT. LETTERHEADS ENVELOPES STATEMENTS CLOSEST PRICES

Retiring From Business Sale

Entire Stock of Millinery Offered Below Cost

Trimmed and Untrimmed Hats, Ostrich Feathers, Mounts, Flowers, Ribbons, Veiling, etc.

ALL SALES FOR CASH

Mrs. Adams, Princess & Alfred Streets. Phone 1619.

TAMWORTH MURDER CASE

Dr. Robinson To Be Tried On March 2nd. On March 2nd the case against Dr. C. K. Robinson, accused of the murder of Blanche "Happy" Yorke, of Tamworth, will be tried before Justice Sutherland and a jury at Napawee.

T. C. Robinette, K.C., his counsel, has made arrangements to be in that place, and will conduct his defence. The defence claim that the body was not in the house when the police first searched, but that it was placed there afterwards.

Wedding Bells At Ralston.

A pretty wedding was solemnized in St. Patrick's church, Ralston, on January 18th, when Anna M., second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Burns, Oates, was united in marriage to James V. Gallagher, Belleville. The bride looked charming in her suit of navy blue cheviot, with picture hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Burns, was tastefully attired in a pretty suit of navy serge with black velvet hat. The groom was assisted by Francis Walsh, Oates. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served. In the afternoon the happy couple left on the C. N. R. for Belleville and other western points, carrying with them a shower of good wishes. The presents were numerous and costly, testifying to the high esteem in which the young couple were held.

Prince Edward Farmers.

At the annual meeting of Prince Edward Agricultural Society, the following officers were elected: President, W. H. Gough, first vice-president, Howard Leaven; second vice-president, A. J. Candick, secretary, treasurer, A. P. McVannell; directors: N. J. Carter, H. B. Bristol, David Burlingham, T. G. Wright, Morden Gilbert, Carmen Metcalf, Beni Leaven, Dr. E. M. Herrington, G. Edward Boulter.

Late John Traves, Inventory.

John Traves, an old resident of Inverary, passed away at his late residence on Sunday afternoon. The deceased was eighty-four years of age. On Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock, the funeral will be conducted at Cataract cemetery. Rev. Mr. Shorten will officiate at the service.

Plumbing, Tinsmithing and Heating; prompt attention. Edward Halligan, 110 Queen street. Phone, 1569.

Mrs. Zachary Wood and son left on Sunday for their home in Edmonton, after attending the funeral of Col. Wood here.

How a Policy in the Sun Life Company Turned Out.

Kingston, Jan. 19, 1915. "G. A. Bateman, "District Agent Sun Life Assurance Co. Kingston, Ont. "Dear Sir—Please convey to your company my sincere thanks for their prompt and liberal settlement of my 10 payment, 15-year endowment policy just matured, No. 33,825. "I paid a total of $906.00 in premiums and have now received a cheque for $1,312.00, being a return of over $410 for each dollar paid into the Company, with fifteen