Senator D. Derby, shire of Brockville, says: "Some time ago I contracted a very bad cold which settled on my lungs and bronchial tubes. I almost lost my voice, was constantly coughing and experienced considerable pain. A friend offered me a box of PEPs, and I was very much pleased with their almost instant action. They seemed to go direct to the sore places, stopped the coughing, and made my breathing easier. I continued using PEPs and they completely cured my cold. Now we always keep a supply of PEPs."

Mr. Gustave Boyer, President of the Dairyman's Assoc. of Quebec, writes: "I have used PEPs for colds and bronchitis, and have found them far beyond all other remedies."

PEPs contain healing, health-giving pine fumes, condensed and compressed into tablets. When a PEP dissolves on your tongue, these fumes are liberated and breathed down direct to the seat of trouble.

How to Make Your Hair Beautiful

Two Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair, Itching Scalp and Dandruff, and Saves the Hair Soft, Silky, and Shiny.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bas Rum, Lavona (de complexion) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed in a bowl in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bas Rum and 1-2 dr. Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the crystals in the Bas Rum and pour in at 3 o'clock. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply by pulling a little of the mixture on soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling out, and to make it grow again rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium sized brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your scalp as tight as a vice. Dandruff will disappear and itching cease. You will find that all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity. Any druggist can sell you the ingredients. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

THE BIG PROBLEM OF TO-DAY

Is increased Production Says the Finance Minister in Eloquent Address.

Hon. W. T. White Spoke to a Large Gathering in Gananoque on Friday Afternoon—Dealt With War and Its Effects Upon the Dominion of Canada.

(By Staff Reporter.)
Gananoque, Jan. 29th.—The great problem of Canada to-day is the problem of increased production of all kinds, declared Hon. W. T. White, minister of finance for the Dominion of Canada, addressing a big gathering in the armories this afternoon. The audience for the most part, being made up of farmers of Leeds county.

In spite of the very cold weather seven hundred people journeyed to the meeting, which was held under the auspices of the Gananoque Board of Trade, and was a great success in every way.

The president of the local Board of Trade, A. W. Taylor, presided at the meeting, and also on the platform were Senator George Taylor, of Gananoque; Dr. O'Connor, mayor of Gananoque; Mr. A. Stewart, K.C., of Brockville; R. G. Harvey, of Leithurst; Rev. William Henderson Gananoque; J. R. Dargavel M.P.P., of Brockville; Rev. Henry Gracey Gananoque; Rev. Father Kehoe, Gananoque; Rev. Father Traynor of Brewer's Mills.

Hon. Mr. White had a very busy day. He arrived here in the morning, was entertained by the Board of Trade at a luncheon, and after addressing the big meeting in the afternoon, he drove to Lansdowne, where he inspected one hundred members of the home guard, addressed a public meeting, and afterwards spoke at a banquet given in his honor by the Conservative Association of Lansdowne. In the early morning hours he boarded a train for Ottawa, to take up his cabinet duties or as Senator Taylor explained to the audience at the armories, "to prepare his budget speech," which will be given in the house of commons in two week's time.

Hon. Mr. White talked for a short time upon the war and its progress, and devoted the remainder of his speech to its effects upon Canada and the necessity of increased production. He said that the seals were now set upon the question of who caused the war. No protestations or explanations of the German chancellor could alter the verdict. For over a generation Germany had dreamed of universal empire founded upon militarism. Germany had made a bid for world dominion, for Pan-Germanism, and had signally failed. She had to fall. The issue was foredoomed. The stars in their courses fought against Siera. The moral forces of the world are heighting against Germany. Was it to be supposed that free nations could be brought by force to abdicate the freedom which has been achieved through centuries of struggle and conflict, to surrender to Teutonic absolutism with the Kaiser, and a militarist war-party as their rulers, and overlord, Germany's ambition of Germanizing the world was a fantastic dream. Her plans both by land and sea had come to naught. On land she had struck for Paris, Calais, Warsaw. So far she had got nowhere, except through Belgium which she had no quarrel, and which had done her no wrong. In the spring she would be pressed back to the Rhine, and Austria-Hungary would in time collapse like a shell. To accomplish these results against such tremendous forces as Germany and Austria possessed, the allies would have to make Herculean efforts, and it was the pressing patriotic duty of men throughout the empire to offer their services at this hour of need. The Canadian troops would not consent to the terms of peace the allies must demand until their forces were crushed beyond the power of resistance. This meant that the war might well be prolonged. It would be a mistake to expect an early ending.

At sea the German policy of attrition had resulted only in wearing down their own strength. Their raiding cruisers had failed to destroy or even seriously inconvenience British shipping, regarded as a whole. The German so-called high seas fleet apparently found the sea in the Kiel canal quite high enough. On Sunday last a powerful German squadron had declined battle and ignominiously fled. This fact was of more importance than the sinking of the Blucher. It was not by such tactics that Nelson had won for Britain the trident of the seas.

Grossly Misled.
The German people had been grossly misled, deceived, and betrayed by their rulers. In 1870 great German names were placed upon the roll of the world's history. So far as the present war is concerned no German has stood forth prominently either as statesman or soldier. Ability appeared to be discouraged, strangled or repressed. Germany would come into her own, and realize her destiny only when free as Britain, France and United States are free. Her great need is free government, and all that it means and brings. If this war accomplish the downfall of Kaiserism, the German people, although defeated, will have emerged victorious over their greatest enemy.

Mr. White spoke of the heroic sacrifices of the Belgian nation, faced with the full knowledge of its consequences. Of all Canadians, those who volunteered for active service were the noblest. They offered it need be their lives for their country and the empire. Those who remained at home should give generously of their means to alleviate darkness, distress and bear with cheerful fortitude whatever of hardship or sacrifice the war entailed upon them. Men of means should not unduly curtail their expenditure for useful articles or commodities, the making of which would give employment to Canadian workers.

Increased Production.
Closely connected with the question of the successful prosecution of the war was that of increased production. All who have land should see to it in the spring. There should be an immense increase in grain and field crops and in live stock production this year. This increased production will enable Canada to redress her trade balance, repair the damage of the war, and ensure an adequate supply of food both for Canada and Britain. Next to actually enlisting, the most patriotic work a citizen can do is to put forth additional effort in the great task of strengthening the resources of the nation and creating an abundance of food and other supplies.

After describing the financial and commercial conditions which had existed at the outbreak of the war, the minister said it was wonderful that in so brief a period there should be such an improvement in tone and outlook. The chief causes were in his view, British sea supremacy, and the consequent continuation of international trade. Britain's monetary resources which were ample to finance the war, and the success of the allies in resisting the first and most formidable onrush of the Germans against France and Russia. The world was optimistic, and had recovered its confidence in the continuance of commerce because the end, although not yet in sight, was a foregone conclusion.

Keep Everything Going.
In declaring that the great problem of Canada to-day was that of increased production of all kinds, the finance minister added: "For years we have been building railways and canals, joining the country for agricultural and industrial progress, so as to transfer the products. Now we have the railways, the canals, and the harbor, and what is the problem? It is that of increased production, so that we can keep everything going, and make money for the people of Canada, redress our trade balance and get rich."

The speaker pointed out how a vast amount of money was being wasted as it were in the war, in that the money expended on ammunition was simply blown away. Money spent for the destroying of human life and property was wasted.

This damage had to be repaired, and the only way it could be repaired was in additional production. From a patriotic spirit it was the best way to help on the war.

Hon. Mr. White, pictured the men spending days in the wet trenches and said: "Is it not a solemn obligation on our part to do all that is in our power to assist in the war? How can we strengthen the nation? How can we help to repair this great waste? The men at the front are
