1,551 MEN ENLISTED SOLDIERS AT DINNER

IN THIS DIVISION FOR THE THIRD CONTINGENT.

The 14th Regiment Has Contributed Fifty-One of This Number—Only Half the Required Number Have Volunteered.

The recruiting for the third contingent, in the third divisional area, is going on very well this week, the total now being 1,551 men. The 14th Regiment has passed fifty-one men, the 47th Regiment thirty men and the 39th Hussars fifty-six recruits. For the 39th Battalion (Belleville), 762 men have been accepted, and for the 38th Battalion, of Ottawa, 423 men have volunteered to date. The total for the 8th Mounted Rifles is 366 men.

Piper J. MacDougall has been taken on the strength of the pipers' band.

The remainder of the equipment was supplied to the 21st Battalion on Saturday. This consists of straps and belts to carry blankets, kit and other necessities.

Lieut. H. W. Cooper, 21st Battalion, has been granted a certificate of qualification as captain.

In the militia Y.M.C.A. hall on Friday evening, J. G. Evans gave an illustrated lecture on "John Bull and His Empire."

Sunday night the Y.M.C.A. service will be conducted by Rev. A. Brown. Monday and Tuesday evening a committee from Queen's University will put on the entertainment. On Tuesday evening, the choir of Chalmer's Church will give a concert. On Wednesday evening twenty-five members of St. Andrew's Church will put on "The Spirit of Missions," under the direction of Mrs. Carr-Harris. On Friday evening T. F. Harrison will give an illustrated address on "Russia."

Saturday with the soldiers is a day for inspection by the O.C.

With the exception of a few men who have been in the hospital or away every one of the 21st Battalion has gone through the vaccination.

The wonderful word, "Pay day," was heard by the men of the 14th Regiment on Friday, and by the 21st Battalion on Saturday. It is indeed a good system that the department uses to pay off over 1,500 men in Kingston through the one office, and have no complaints that "my pay is short this time."

APPETITES OF TROOPS.

Russian Soldier Heaviest Eater in the World.

Russian soldiers have the most astonishing appetites of any troops in the world, writes an army officer with the Russian troops in Poland.

"At midday," he says, "each soldier gets a pound of meat, three pounds of black bread, and a great bowl of cabbage soup. It all disappears in about an hour, and a couple of hours later they are all hungry again. Then you can see them cludding together to buy chickens which they cook and eat. An hour or so later you will hear a pig squealing, and they are eating again. It reminds one of stories of the habits and capacities of the North American Indians."

"I suppose thousands of Russian schoolboys, most of them not more than eleven or twelve years old, have run away home, and managed by hook or crook to attach themselves to the army as helpers of one kind or another. Most useful they are, too. At that age they don't know or care about death or danger. A few smart boys solve the difficult problem of the supply of ammunition to the firing line during the hottest times."

"The great schoolboy hero now is Orlov, from Zhitomir. He fought in eleven battles and has been decorated by the czar with the order of St. George. While on scout duty, he came upon a trench of Russians who were having a hard battle with a superior force of the enemy. He lay in a trench with them and fought all day. By nightfall their ammunition was giving out, and Orlov saved his corps by creeping out in the dark and finding his way through the heaped corpses to the main Russian line, where he obtained reinforcements and a supply of ammunition. He was under gun and rifle fire all the time, but he succeeded in getting through safely."

A German Fleet Gone.

Germany has lost 41 warships since the war commenced. In addition to this her shipping has been wiped from the seas as though by a great legerdemain.

This fleet of more than two score ships would have made a respectable navy in itself for some small nation. Many a nation has no greater naval equipment. The losses to Germany include every thing from the fast armored cruiser to the submarine. The loss of life has been about 5,000.

Britain's losses have been serious, but Germany's navy is the Kiel Canal or it is faced with the same dangers as the British. And Germany has lost a good-sized fleet at least, and its losses are tremendously greater than those of our mother country.

A SPLENDID TIME IN QUEEN STREET METHODIST CHURCH.

The Young Men's Club Had the Pleasure of Entertaining Soldiers At a Turkey Feast—Good Addresses Followed.

One hundred and fifty Methodist soldiers of the 21st Battalion, including ten officers, were entertained by the Young Men's Club of Queen Street Methodist Church on Friday evening. At 6.30 o'clock the officers and soldiers marched in a body and occupied the tables, daintily arranged in the Sunday School Hall. The members of the Young Men's Club served a turkey repast and amply proved that they were no novices. Everyone was well cared for.

During the dinner, Telgmann's orchestra rendered fine selections. G. E. Joyner, president of the club, was toastmaster, and had a carefully selected list of toasts that appealed to every phase of the entertainment so generously provided. The first toast, "The King," was responded to by the entire audience rising and singing the National Anthem. Later Mr. LaPoint sang the "Marseillaise." "The Country" was toasted by Judge Lavelle and responded to by the leader of the club, H. T. J. Coleman. J. G. Elliott toasted "Our Soldiers" to which Capt. W. E. Kidd gave a very enjoyable response.

"Our Guests," another toast, proposed by Rev. G. I. Campbell, was graciously responded to by Lieut. Col. W. S. Hughes, Capt. Wolfram, Lieut. H. F. Pense and Sergt. Page. They voiced the appreciation for the honor conferred on the soldiers. The honor "Our Club" was proposed by Capt. R. Crawford and responded to by H. Meek. "Absent Members" were toasted by Mr. Joyner and R. J. McClelland responded. Eight former members have gone overseas, seven stationed at Salisbury Plain and one in France. Telegrams were read from G. Derbyshire, John Bennett, Sheldon Joyce and Mrs. H. Squire, out of the city and could not be present.

Altogether the evening was one of much delight. The addresses were apt, oft-times amusing, and full of helpful admonition. The splendid battalion—the best in the second contingent experts say—will show its mettle led by its brilliant commander and his gallant officers. The pastor of the church regretted all the men could not be entertained owing to numbers, but the church regarded them as men of courage and valor and in honoring the Methodist section they tried through them to honor all.

The soldiers enjoyed the music offered. There were splendid solos by Mrs. Evans, Alan Halfer and Harvey Anrover, and an especially fine musical selection by three jolly musicians.

SEA MINES PROBLEM WHEN WASHED ASHORE.

Terrible Enemy Of Shipping, Must Be Destroyed at Great Risk

The sea mine is a problem even after it has been washed ashore, and for those who must destroy it this terrible enemy of shipping offers the same danger it does to the crew of the vessel it happens to wreck. This is the discovery made by the men under Lieutenant C. J. Canters, of the Amsterdam torpedo boat station, who has been charged by the Dutch government with the destruction of the mines that are washed ashore along the Netherlands coast.

So far, no serious accident has come to the men who render the stranded sea mine innocuous by exploding them where they are found. But there have been many narrow escapes, due mostly to the fact that the English mines cannot be taken apart, as can the French and Dutch mines. In case of the latter the shell of the mine consists of two half-spheres, united by a flange and rivets, while the English mine-shell is cast in one piece and loaded through a "manhole."

While it would be possible to remove the cover of the manhole, this is considered too dangerous for the reason that the mine lives close to the aperture. This leaves but one method in which the mine may be destroyed—explode it, case and all. The fragments of the shell fly far and wide; one of them weighing six pounds, was recently found 600 yards from the scene of the explosion.

Of 83 mines on which reports have been made so far by Lieutenant Canters, 79 were of English origin, 4 were French and 8 Dutch, while the remaining one could not be identified. These figures show that the task of the mine destroyers has been no pleasant one. Being hit by a fragment of shell was a chance the men took every time they attempted the disablement of an English mine.

The French sea mine is more easily disposed of. In this case the shell is broken open with a light charge of picric acid; the charge of gun cotton is then removed and exploded without scattering a hail of iron in all directions. The operation resembles almost that of opening a walnut with a knife and in a way is just as easy.

The Dutch mines, when it can be ascertained that their firing mechanism has been damaged, are disposed of in the same way.

The English mines are exploded usually by placing a heavy charge under them. They made be exploded by firing a shot into them. The bullet penetrates the shell and the charge, as a rule, and strikes the charge with sufficient force to produce the shock needed to set it off.
