FRONTENACS AIM TO DEFEAT TORONTO VICTORIAS

In Last Senior O. H. A. Game Here Wednesday Night—Results Of the Curling Matches.

The Toronto Victorias, who play senior Frontenacs here to-morrow night, are doing very fast at present, and look to be able to repeat their championship win of last year. Last Saturday they defeated Varsity by 21 to 4 in Toronto. The speedy St. Mike's, of Toronto, having won their group, will meet Victorias in the finals next week. Local fans are enthusiastic over the chance to see Victorias' regular team work out against Frontenacs. Many will attend the game in order to get a line on St. Michael's chance against the speedy red shirts. "Billy" Dobson, of Queen's, will likely referee.

In addition to the regular senior O.H.A. championship game between the champion Victorias, of Toronto, and Frontenacs, at the covered rink, to-morrow night, the junior K.C.I. and Frontenacs will have a practice contest directly after the senior game. The junior Frontenac defense will play behind the K.C.I. forwards and vice versa. This should prove a good workout for the K.C.I., and shows the fine spirit that is ever found behind the Kingston teams, that of helping the one that wins out to go still further in the race and bring further honors to Kingston. If you attend the senior game be sure and wait to see the juniors go. They will play a two-period game.

In the first round of the finals for the junior O.H.A. group, Peterboro, on Monday, was defeated by Lindsay. The return game is to be played to-morrow evening, and on Friday evening the collegiates will play the winners. The return game here will be played next Monday evening, so that the fans, who were disappointed at not being able to see a fast game last Monday, will be given a good contest the first of next week. Port Hope has been suspended from the O.H.A. for having allowed Hills to play under the certificate of his brother.

THREE OF A KIND

Given Protection by Police and Then Got Drunk.

Three men who were given free lodging at the police station have fallen into the hands of the police on a charge of being drunk. The first one of the trio fell off the water wagon Monday night and was gathered in. The magistrate imposed a fine of $1 and costs, but the knight of the road was out of money and had to go to jail. The only pleasure he got out of the transaction was a cab drive to the jail on Monday afternoon, from the police station. Just as he was driving off, Constables Bateson and Naylor arrived at the police station with his two comrades, but the two were so much under the influence that they did not recognize the man in the cab. Many a man has no money to pay for a night's lodging, but he always appears to have money to buy whiskey.

MANOEUVRES PERFORMED

By the 21st Battalion at Kingston Mills. At 8:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning, the 21st Battalion, in command of Major C. C. Benson, left the city and proceeded along Montreal street towards Kingston Mills, where different manoeuvres were gone through. The signallers were out in force, and were used to send orders from one place to another. Dinner was served to the men at noon from a battalion transport.

Major-General Lessard, inspector-general of the Eastern Canadian forces, arrived in the city at noon on Tuesday, and in the afternoon inspected the 22nd Battery.

If the authority arrives, classes will commence on Monday next for officers to qualify in medical work.

Enlightening Hum.

Mr. Mill was laboriously hooking up the back of his wife's evening dress just as the clock was striking their dinner hour and their dinner guests were ringing the door-bell. Mr. Mill, who had his forehead was damp and his hand shook.

"I do wish some one would invent a machine to do this kind of work," he muttered miserably. "Why, they have," replied his wife, brightly, as she applied some powder nonchalantly to her nose. "They have, and you are it."

Music sale, 1:30 p.m. to-day. Op. at the corner of Princess and Davy streets, on Monday night, a young man took it into his head to disrobe. Several pieces of wearing apparel had been taken off when the police took him in charge. Valentines at College Book Store.

SNARES FOR SOLDIERS.

Passages From a Volume Written by Military Chaplain.

Written for the British Whig. The following passages are taken from a most interesting volume entitled "God And Our Soldiers," by the Rev. Paul W. Bull, a military chaplain during the Boer war. It contains prophetic paragraphs by Lord Roberts, F. M. Sir John French and General Sir Charles Douglas, expressing pleasure at its timely publication at the present time, and its capacity for usefulness in making known the circumstances and needs of our soldiers to many who hardly know or think of them. After describing a soldier's busy day, he thus refers to the snares that often catch the unwary in their recreation-time, in the towns, where the world, the flesh, and the devil await them in palaces of drink and sordid haunts of lust: "The temptations of a garrison town are blasting, withering, appalling in their intensity, and few come through unscathed. The boy of eighteen, fresh from his country home, is taken round by an older soldier and finds himself in some low theatre, dazzled by dances and songs, giddy with poisonous drink, and ensnared in the meshes of some poor woman, unsung by years of vice, against whose cunning wiles an inexperienced lad has little chance. And so, often, after such a night as this, the lad stagger back to their barracks-room, and awake next morning, to realize their loss—innocence, peace of mind, self-respect and money gone—a bad headache, a worse headache, which no amount of swagging can relieve."

"I will not apologise for being realist with regards to the drunkard. The moral feebleness of many of our magistrates is sometimes reproduced among our officers; and until the very sternest measures are taken to stamp drunkenness as a filthy and degrading sin, decent soldiers will continue to be subjected to the misery which one drunken comrade can inflict on the whole room. Ninety-five per cent. of all crime in the army comes from drink. Drink inflames men for every act of lust, and is the main cause of the ruin of our sergeants and our troops. I have known drunkenness entirely stamped out from one regiment by the wise and just exercise of discipline. Soldiers might be saved from this most awful curse, if only those who have the entire control of their lives would act firmly with regard to this sin. I think the serious earnestness of these paragraphs, coming from one who knows his subject from within, must impress all truly patriotic citizens with the importance of endeavoring to secure the removal of such hidden snares, if existing in our own community as rigorously as our naval authorities seek to remove the treacherous mines which are such a menace to the safety of the sea.—A LOYAL KINGSTONIAN.

Fans Subdue Flames.

In Boston, not long ago, a fire broke out in the basement of a building occupied by a wholesale paint and chemical concern. The fumes and smoke became so thick that it was impossible for the firemen to enter the basement. A half-dozen of the ordinary 16-inch size electric fans were quickly requisitioned by the fire chief and, being directed down the stairs, as soon as the rear basement windows were broken to allow the escape of smoke and fumes, the effect of the fans gradually cleared the basement, so that the firemen could work easily.—Exchange.

The cook may complain about being runned, but the fire always has time to burn. Twenty women in every 100 have dark eyes.

RECRUITING LIVELY AMONG THE IRISH

John Redmond Shows How His People Are Displaying Their Sentiment.

London, Feb. 9.—The Central News publishes the following quotation from an interview with John Redmond: "I wish people are represented as a sentimental people. I thank God that they are."

"Their sentiment is entirely with France and Belgium and the small nationalities. The Irish people are also people of political instinct and common sense. You may take it from me that in this grave crisis they will decide the courage for themselves. Those people who at a distance attempt to speak for them are wasting their breath.

"In proportion to population—bearing in mind that the number of men between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five is smaller in Ireland owing to emigration than in any other country in the world—recruiting has been eminently satisfactory and creditable.

"Figures which I got to-day for the first time show that up to the beginning of January, including the Irishmen in the army at the beginning of the war and those who have joined since, there were on that date 93,343 Irishmen with the colors, of whom 55,893 are Catholics and 39,451 Protestants.

DENIES HE IS DEAD.

British Reservist Writes To Contradict Story. London, Ont., Feb. 9.—Private F. Oram, a British reservist, who left here for the front on the outbreak of hostilities, has been killed in action, according to the British war office, but Oram writes to his wife in this city denying the report and saying that he is "very much alive." He explains the discrepancy by saying that his identification disc got into the possession of a fellow-soldier, who later fell in the fighting.

BALLOT FOR WOMEN

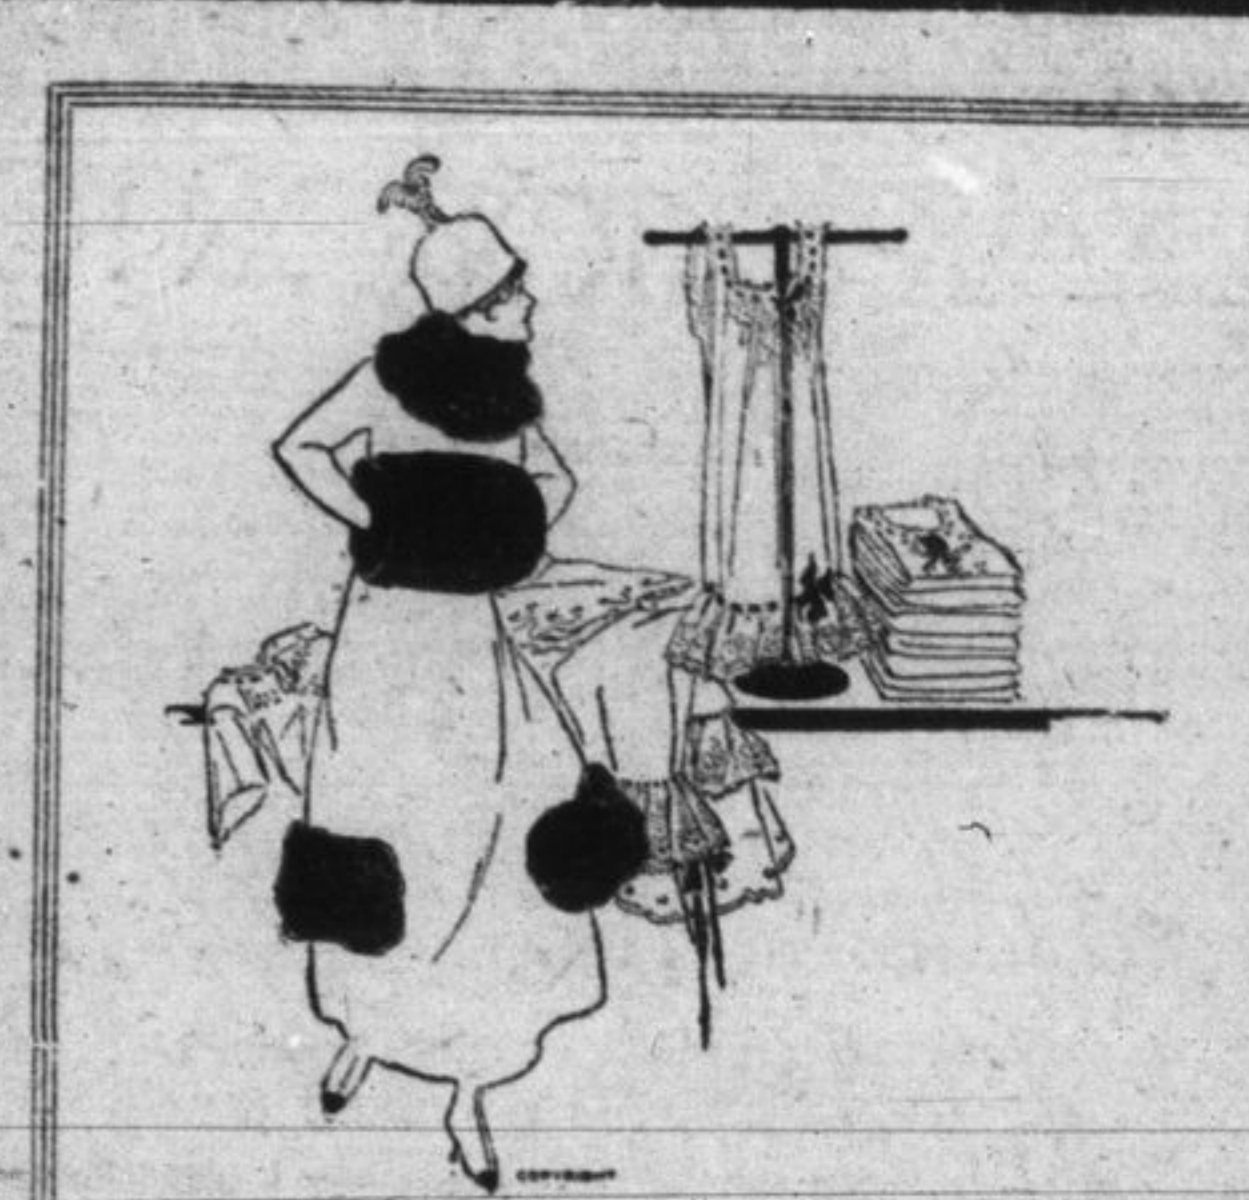

Is Favored by Pennsylvania House of Representatives. Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 9.—By a vote of 130 to 71, the house of representatives passed a resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of Pennsylvania to give women the ballot. The vote was almost identical to that of two years ago, when the measure was endorsed by 131 to 70. It is expected the senate will put the measure through.

Canadian towns and cities have been growing and extending their limits beyond all demands of population. The result is that in nearly every town and city in Canada there are vacant lots and unoccupied areas. There must be over one hundred thousand acres of unproductive land within the boundaries of our towns and cities. There are now, and there will be in the summer of 1915, tens of thousands of out-of-work people. Why do not the cottagers get the use of this land for this summer and grow food—potatoes preferred, and other vegetables (beans, onions, turnips, sugar beets) that are grown with hand labor? This will give work to the unemployed, and produce food. It may not be possible to take the unemployed out of the city to grow wheat, but they can under proper direction be kept at work producing in the city. It is better even than snow-shovelling in winter. Which city will be first?—From the Agricultural War Book.
