ARTHUR B. WILKINSON IN THE WAR OFFICE

Kingston Young Man Made a Pay Clerk and Promoted to be Sergeant.

Pte. Arthur A. B. Wilkinson, son of Mrs. H. J. Wilkinson, Bagot street, who went overseas with the First Canadian Contingent, has received a splendid position in the British War Office. While at Salisbury Plain the War Office was anxious to secure a young man to fill a position in the pay and record office. Pte. Wilkinson, who was a clerk in the Kingston branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, was asked to take the position. Since he has been attached to the War Office he has been promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Pte. Wilkinson was a member of No. 8 Company of the 14th Regiment and went overseas under the command of Capt. G. T. Richardson.

Beautiful New Stock to Choose. Provost, Brock street, has this year an extra fine assortment of tweeds, chevrons and sergeons for his order clothing department. His ready-made clothing and gents' furnishing departments are well associated with new goods.

FOR REAL REFORM OF THE LIQUOR LAW.

But That Amendment Was Defeated By 69 to 25—Premier And Hon. Mr. Hanna Defended the Government's Action.

Toronto, March 31.—What the Government offers as temperance legislation "well abreast of public sentiment" the Opposition sharply and vigorously attacked in the Legislature yesterday afternoon and evening on the second reading of Hon. W. J. Hanna's bill to appoint a Provincial Commission to administer the liquor license law. The announcement that the debate would be taken up yesterday drew large crowds to the House that filled the galleries within a late hour and evidenced the fact that the temperance question still a live issue in Ontario. Arguments by Opposition speakers asserted that the proposals of the Government were entirely inadequate to meet present-day conditions, and the amendment to the second reading, moved by William Proudfoot (Centre Huron), after pointing out that the bill did not close a single bar or club in the province or enlarge the power of the people to deal with the traffic now or after the war, called for a measure to at once close bars and clubs, to restrict to the electors the right to say whether the drinking places should remain closed, and provide for more effective measures of wiping out the shops.

The address of Mr. Rowell, which came shortly before midnight, was a scathing arraignment of the Government for its failure to give the province a measure of progressive reform. The meagre provisions of the bill he denounced as a pitiable spectacle in a time of crisis. The Liberal leader was followed by Premier Hanna in an earnest defence of the Government's action.

Mr. Hanna's presentation of the Government's case was an amplification of his statement on the introduction of the bill, coupled with the announcement that a clause would be added to the section giving the Commission power to restrict the sale of liquor to any class of persons by giving additional authority to declare "any area, no matter how large or small, absolutely dry."

The Liberal amendment was defeated by 69 to 25.

Letters to the Editor

Acute Distress Prevailing. 216 Division Street, March 30.—(To the Editor): I wonder if the wealthy residents of this city are conscious of the acute distress prevailing. It is not only the common labourer, but the "mechanic with their families, four or five children, existing upon a restricted diet, which will have to continue after work opens up. Employers tell us there will be little doing this summer. So prospectively we shall have to face next winter, debt burdened. Services with few exceptions allowed, is merely bandaged and refined. Thanking you in anticipation of insertion. Faithfully yours, H. BARNETT, one of the unemployed.

Remodelling Of The Psalms.

Kingston, March 31.—(To the Editor): This is for the eye of "The Man on Watch," who professes to sing the old Psalms, and not have them remodelled by the Presbyterian Assembly. It has never been proposed to touch the old Psalms of David, as they are still called here and there. That is proposed is to "tinker" the metrical version of versions of the Psalter. Of these versions there has been quite a number, ten or a dozen at least, all attempts to reduce to modern versified form the prose Psalms. And nobody now knows just how many hands have "tinkered" them, and steadily to their improvement.

To the average Presbyterian the metrical version best known is that which goes by the name of Rieu, a well-born Cornish man (1579), of "great learning and genuine piety," of British sympathies, and a staunch adherent of Cromwell. The first edition appeared in 1634.

"The Book of Psalms in English Meter," by Francis Rieu, London, printed by R. V. for Philip Nevil, at the sign of the gun, in Ivie-Lane, 1634.

New editions followed, 1643, and 1646, and 1650, each succeeding edition showing considerable "tinkering" on the preceding. Thus the 23rd Psalm (1643), vs. 1, 2:

"My shepherd is the living Lord
And he that doth me feed;
How can I then lack anything
Whereof I stand in need?
In pastures green and flourishing
He makes me down to lye,
And after drives me to the streams
Which run most pleasantly."

"The Lord my shepherd is, I shall
Not want; he makes me by
In pastures green, me leads by streams
That do run quietly."

"The Lord is my shepherd, I'll not want.
He makes me down to lie
In pastures green; he leadeth me
The quiet waters by."

And so forth. Repeated "tinkering" has greatly changed the face of the whole metrical version of Rieu; so much so that he would hardly recognize his own handiwork to-day. And other versions have been revised and bettered quite as freely. And what the Assembly is probably aiming at is to secure for the new Book of Prayers the best metrical renderings from all the versions of any merit. Irish and American and Scottish Free Presbyterians have very good versions of their own, modern and smooth in style, and rich in variety of metre—X.

The funeral of the late Ross Lee took place from his late residence, 227 Wellington street, on Monday afternoon. Rev. John Webster officiated. The remains were placed in Catteraqui vault.

WRITES ABOUT CANADIAN HIGH-LANDERS AT FRONT.

W. J. Williams Tells How Narrow An Escape They Had When Germans Trained a Machine Gun on Fatigue Party.

W. J. Williams, with the Highlanders, First Canadian Contingent, writes from Northern France to his friend, S. M. Switzer, Newboro, Ont., under date of February 25th. He was a former resident of Newboro, and very popular there. A part of his interesting letter follows:

"When we were at Lark Hill there were some people so pessimistically inclined as to venture the remark that the Canadians would never see the front. Although we have seen it now, we can say we have seen in the firing line. We spent twenty-four hours in the trenches last week, and last night we were employed in building breast-works. The battalion has been lucky, inasmuch as they have had only two killed and several wounded so far. We will be building breast-works again tonight. It is a far different crowd that is going to the trenches tonight compared to the first night we set out. The first night we were a very quiet crowd. None knew what we really had to face, and I think everybody magnified the danger. To me, who was there, it was a far different crowd that is going to the trenches tonight compared to the first night we set out. The first night we were a very quiet crowd.
