21ST MAY PAY VISIT

TO BROCKVILLE BEFORE END OF THE WEEK.

There Has Not Been a Case of Contagious Disease Among the Men of the 21st Battalion Since It Mobilized Here.

Lieut.-Col. W. S. Hughes has received an invitation from the Mayor of Brockville for the battalion to visit that municipality. The municipality will be responsible for all expense in connection with the trip. It is possible the trip will be taken next week.

Lieut.-Col. W. S. Hughes, while in Ottawa, had an opportunity of seeing the 38th Battalion drilling on the green in front of the Parliament buildings. He said that the battalion was getting along fine. The three Kingston officers, Capt. Gray, and Lieuts. Muckle and Smythe, are doing good work.

A large number of targets are being placed at different points in the vicinity of Barriefield for the purpose of objects for gun-laying and practice by "C" Battery.

Capt. R. J. Gardiner was in charge of the five officers taking medical course when they inspected Fort Henry sanitary arrangements on Monday afternoon.

Ptes. Ewart and Henderson have been transferred from the Depot company to the Pipers' band.

The brass band of the 21st Battalion gave a concert at Artillery Park on Monday evening.

There is not now, nor has there been since the 21st Battalion came here, a case of contagious disease among the men. This speaks well for the sanitary arrangements.

At nine o'clock a mounted parade of "C" Battery was held at Barriefield, where the officers gave the different commands in putting the battery through several manoeuvres. Two lectures were given on Tuesday afternoon.

Lieut.-Col. E. C. Arnoldi, Ottawa, arrived in the city on Monday to take the B.C.'s course at Tete de Pont barracks.

The posters calling for tenders for Barriefield camp are being put up today.

"C" Battery soccer team defeated the 14th Regiment team by 6 to 1 on Saturday. The Artillery team will play a team from the Right Half section, 21st Battalion, on Saturday next.

TURKS ARE IMPATIENT.

No Indication Of Renewed Activity, Says Constantinople.

Constantinople, April 19.—via The Hague to London, April 20.—There has not been the slightest indication here that the Allies intend to renew their offensive against the Dardanelles. Since March 18th there have been no serious operations of any kind.

During the past week the ships of the Allies have fired a few shots daily at points near the entrance of the straits without damage. When fired upon by the Turkish batteries, which again dominate the waters close to the entrance, the warships retired.

On Monday and Tuesday several of the Allied ships were hit, among them the Queen Elizabeth, which again attempted an indirect fire upon an inside point of the Dardanelles. Otherwise all has been quiet.

The operations by the Russians along the Black Sea have been unsuccessful. In a bombardment against a point on the Anatolia Coast last week, which was not serious, the Russians employed a vessel whose type is unknown here, but which was thought to be an auxiliary and was using American ammunition.

PRESERVE INTEGRITY.

(Special to the Whig.) London, April 20.—In the Commons to-day Sir Edward Grey declared that the policy of the British Government for China was the preservation of the independence and integrity of the Chinese Republic.

Increasing Unrest In Austria Because of Food Shortage.

Verona, April 20.—Travellers from the interior of Austria bring reports of increasing unrest resulting from the insufficiency of the bread allowance, which, although it has been increased, still is considered inadequate. Demonstrations against the war are said to be increasing in number and violence especially in Vienna and at points in Bohemia, mobs are reported to have sacked storehouses in which were stocks of provisions for the army.

"All the crew of the Vanilla were lost. This killing of fishermen for no military purpose should not escape attention. It is the second murder of this character committed within a week. A careful record is kept of these events."

MARCHING TO TRENCHES.

Canadian Infantry Sing Songs And Play Mouth Organs.

E. E. McDermott, writing from France under date of April 8th, to his sister, Mrs. J. Williams, 259 Johnson street, says: "We expect the big advance any day now. It has rained pretty hard here the past couple of days but is clearing up this morning."

The writer states that he met Capt. Lawson, whom he used to play against in football, when Capt. Lawson was at the Royal Military College. He also says: "It certainly is great to hear the birds singing over here, especially in the early morning."

"Yesterday I saw some of the Canadian infantry marching up to the trenches. You would think they were going to a hockey match, singing, laughing and playing mouth-organs."

"COPPEES" FOUND COPPER

Unearthed Eight Hundred Pounds, the Property Of C.P.R.

A detective working for the Canadian Pacific Railway was in the city Tuesday on the search for missing copper, the property of the railway company.

While searching the city with Constable James Bateson, the C.P.R. detective identified eight hundred pounds of copper on the premises of Susman & Cohen as belonging to the company, and as a result it was confiscated.

Susman & Cohen stated they purchased the copper from a junk dealer in Peterboro.

A GREAT AIR BATTLE

IN WHICH BRITISH OUTMAN-OEUVRED GERMAN AIRSHIP.

And Forced It To Descend—A Thrilling Contest Witnessed Over British And German Lines at Ypres.

Headquarters of the British Army, Northern France, April 18, via London, April 19.—It was my privilege to-day to witness a wonderful demonstration of the superiority of the British Royal Flying Corps. As a result of the demonstration it was easy to understand why General French sings the praises of his airmen in nearly every report he writes.

At 4:30 this afternoon a German aeroplane was reported flying over Ypres. When it was sighted it already had passed well within the British lines. From a distant station almost immediately after the field telephone had given the alarm two British aeroplanes could be seen rising and mounting into the sky in great wide circles.

The German aviator discerned his enemies almost at the moment they came into view of their own lines. He headed back over the German trenches, making for the protection of his own guns.

As he led the way white balls of smoke, each bigger than the pursuing British aeroplanes, broke into view in the centre of each was a ball of light. They were German shrapnel. The smoke puffs did not disappear, but hung in almost regular order in space. It appeared from the ground that the Germans were putting new heavy clouds in the sky.

The British airmen were trying hard to get above the German so that they could shoot him down. As they dashed through the lazy hovering smoke clouds it was as though their propellers were tearing apart a gigantic feather bed.

The aviators ignored the German shrapnel. Finally their machines showed in relief above the German who had soared back across the British front to lure the British within range of the shrapnel of his forward trenches.

It was possible to count thirty-two German smoke balls each denoting shrapnel as the British swung closer and closer to their foe. The German finally tried to circle back toward his own lines but always a British aeroplane was interposed, and he was forced down towards the earth.

Finally the German swung about to make one final dash for home, but he was now so low that he was within range of the thousands of British soldiers in the trenches. The German machine was sandwiched between fire from the British aeroplanes and the British trenches, turned back and flew well into British territory, which was accepted as a sign of surrender.

The British aeroplanes followed until they saw the German land on the rough ground in the rear of the British trenches.

The German machine was smashed and the pilot crushed to death under the aeroplane, but the observation officer was only slightly injured and was taken prisoner. The battle in the sky had lasted four and one half hours.

All business in Ypres ceased while the battle was on. In was in full view of the positions, and the deep blue of the sky was marred only by the feathery smoke from the shrapnel and the flash of the wings of the aeroplanes in the atmosphere.

Two Montreal Men Killed.

(Special to the Whig.)

Ottawa, April 20.—Casualty list to-day: Fourteenth Battalion—Killed in action on Apr 17th, Private William James Keenan, Montreal; killed in action April 17th, Private Lorenzo Lelebre, Montreal. Thirteenth Battalion, Lieut. Francis Chatton Stephens, Wiltse, England.

"Innocent," Says Dying Man.

Sydney, N.S., April 20.—John West, colored, was hanged yesterday for the murder of Miss Cassie Dunn, of North Sydney, last December. Death was instantaneous. West walked to the scaffold unassisted. He protested his innocence to the last.

David Sly, Sharbot Lake, was given a preliminary hearing by Justice of the Peace Hunter on Tuesday and enough evidence was produced to commit him for trial on the charge of indecent assault.

It was reported on Monday that George Tryon, 14th Detachment in the 39th Battalion at Belleville, had spinal meningitis, but he has pneumonia in a very bad form.

Dr. James Spence, a well-known Toronto physician, and former school trustee, is dead.
