SHELDON COMPANY'S SHEDS WERE GUTTED MONDAY

In Blaze Which Broke Out at 5.30—Several Waggons and Sleighs Were Destroyed.

Fifteen horses had a very narrow escape from death in a fire which broke out at 5.27 o'clock on Monday morning in the Sheldon Company's sheds, Ontario street, near Union street, and nearby residents were given quite a scare as it looked for a time as if the fire might spread to their homes. However the fire department had five streams at work in short order and the blaze was confined to the sheds and seven other small sheds, four of which belonged to Isaac Cohen and the other three to Miss Driscoll. They were situated at the rear of houses on Union street.

Archibald Hendry, one of the drivers employed by the company, was at the stables when the fire broke out, and it was due to his good work that the horses were saved. He was feeding the horses at the time and lost no time in getting the animals out. The firemen were called by telephone and an alarm was also sent in from Box 15. The origin of the fire is unknown.

About twenty sleighs and waggons belonging to the company which were stored in the sheds were badly damaged.

The loss could not be ascertained but it is understood that the property and all the contents were insured.
