Montreal, May 18 .-- To the Editor): Sad beyond expression would it be if the Church, which should be a source of unity and strength and comfort to the nation at this sad time, should be made, instead, an element of division and weakness. May I suggest a way to avoid it, without anyone surrendering what he thinks to be right. The situation in brief is as follows:

The majority of the Union Committee, at its meeting in December last, agreed to recommend to our Assembly, which meets in Kingston in June, to proceed this summer to another vote on organic church union. On the other hand, the minority of the Union Committee has recommended the Assembly to drop, for the present, the question of organic union. If the Assembly should now proceed to another vote, it/could only create division. Pressure only leads to further steps in resisting that pressure, as witness the follow-
