PRISONERS IN THE FORT.

Given Better Fare Than Canadian Soldiers in Camp.

American Consul F. S. S. Johnson made a visit to Barriefield Camp on Sunday afternoon and declared that he has visited military camps in all parts of the world but this one in lay-out, cleanliness and general appearance was the best. He remarked that the Sunday supper of the soldiers was not as good as that given the prisoners of war at Fort Henry. The soldiers received two pieces of bread, butter, Irish stew, and a mug of coffee. The prisoners at the fort received four large pieces of bread, butter, jam, cheese and tea.

Employ Germans at Camp.

It has been suggested that the prisoners of war in Fort Henry be paid the usual 35 cents a day and put at work doing duty around Barriefield camp, which is now done by the soldiers. Such work as building culverts, digging drains and making ground repairs could be well done by the prisoners and the time now taken by the soldiers could be devoted to training. As the soldiers are paid $1.10 a day it would be economy to employ the Germans.

REPORTED DEAD.

Young Man Says That He's All Right.

"I am alive and well," read a cablegram received in the village of Frankford on Saturday from a young man named Bentley, who was previously reported to have been killed, and for whom a memorial service was held a week ago.

The mistake was due to the fact that during the severe fighting young Bentley discarded his coat. It was picked up by another soldier, who put it on, and was afterwards found dead on the field. As Bentley's name was found in the coat he was reported to have been killed.

"C" Battery, R. C. E. A.

The R. C. E. A. held the Roman Catholic party to St. Mary's Cathedral on Sunday morning; Lieut. Stewart was in command. Lieut. Roberts was in command of the Protestant party, which paraded to St. George's Cathedral.

Taken From Train to Fort.

A German who made himself distasteful to the other members on the train Sunday afternoon, while travelling to Kingston, was hurriedly taken into custody when the train pulled into the local G.T.R. station. At various points along the line from Montreal the German freely expressed himself as an enemy of Britain. The train conductor telegraphed to Kingston to be on the look out for him and in less time than it takes to tell it, he was nabbed and hustled to Fort Henry in an automobile.

The Late Pte. E. J. Manning.

AN ORDINATION SERVICE

Was Held In St. George's Cathedral On Sunday

A service of ordination was held in St. George's Cathedral at 11 a.m. Sunday. The Bishop of Kingston officiated. The young men receiving orders were Rev. V. A. Boyle, M.A., Trinity College, Toronto; and Rev. Cecil Winter, Durham University, England. The Archbishop of Kingston presented the candidates. The Very Rev. Dean Starr preached a strong sermon from the words of Timothy, "A workman that needeth not to be ashamed," showing the primary needs for the work of the ministry to be conviction as to the truth's taught, consecration of the life given and confidence in the power bestowed. The dean emphasized the importance of the minister being a manly man, in simple, earnest Christianlike ways as well as a cleric. God calls his ministers not to be angels but men.

Rev. Mr. Boyle will be stationed at Coe Hill and Rev. Mr. Winter will act as temporary and junior assistant at St. George's Cathedral. The latter has acted as assistant secretary to the Church of Ireland Y.M.C.O. in Belfast. He is a Belfast man. Mr. Winter is placed in St. George's in the meantime, awaiting a vacancy that will occur in the fall at the mission of Maynooth, to which place he will likely be appointed.

HAVE GONE TO FRONT.

Mrs. J. E. Martin, King street, on Monday morning received a cable from her daughter, Mrs. W. H. P. Elkins, stating that Major D. L. Y. Elkins and Capt. Elkins of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, which is still stationed at Narsfield, England, have left for the front to spend two weeks.

CALVARY CHURCH.

An Interesting Discourse by the Pastor.

In the course of his sermon on the unchanging helpfulness of Jesus Christ, Heb. xiii, 8, Rev. J. Lyall reminded his hearers on Sabbath morning that in the days when this letter was written conditions in many respects were like those that are today and that this epistle had a message suited to the times in which we live.

Everything to-day seemed in a state of flux. There was nothing certain, but uncertainty. Nothing continued long in one stay. The most unexpected things happen. Last year the majority of the nations were living in what seemed something like a settled peace, and things were shaping, as we thought, for the settlement of any disputes that might arise, by a sensible arbitration court. The Hague Palace of Peace was to be the rallying point. To-day the nations are locked in a deadly strife, and the end no man can foresee. The only thing that can sober or steady up in the face of the panoramic nature of things is the most consoling fact of the permanence and reality of Jesus Christ.

Institutions and opinion change; all things are in a condition of flux. Religious opinions are changing. Men's convictions are not so deep and genuine as formerly. Some of the ideas entertained by religious leaders to-day would have shocked our fathers forty years ago. Destructive criticism has shaken some of the pillars. Militarism has thrown our civilization into the smelting pot. But there is going to emerge a better civilization, in which Jesus and Christ will get more room. Ideas about the sacredness of the Sabbath, which we held closely to twenty years ago, have changed, and that for the worse. Men can spend that day racing our roads in their motor cars, and still imagine they are holding on to Christianity. The conscience of the Christian Church should be so strong in the city that professing Christians would reckon it a disgrace to use their boats or their cars to dishonor the day of God. There is a great lack of reverence in our age; an absence of parental regard and control; a lack of love for the house of God. Few men are found willing to take the lead in good causes. But if men and things and opinions, and institutions change, there is one who abides the same in the midst of the changing years. The tide may ebb and flow; the Rock never changes. Jesus Christ the same yesterday, to-day, and forever.

CLERGYMAN HONORED.

Rev. F. Tripp is Leaving Sydenham Methodist Church.

Rev. F. Tripp having intimated his intention of leaving Sydenham this year, a number of the people of the charge gathered to give expression of their good will and their hearty appreciation of the excellent services rendered both by Mr. and Mrs. Tripp. During the three years of their pastorate they have endeared themselves to the hearts of many of the people, special reference being made by F. Sine, principal of our High School, and others to the pulpit ministrations of Mr. Tripp, which are thoughtful, instructive and helpful, and will not soon be forgotten. The congregations have been above the average, and the church finances have been kept in good shape.

Owing to their untiring efforts a fine new parsonage has been erected, of which the people have every reason to be proud. Special mention was made of the splendid service of Mrs. Tripp in all departments of the church work, viz., W. M. S., Ladies' Aid, and especially her gift of song, of which the choir also showed their appreciation by gathering at the parsonage on Thursday evening, where an enjoyable time was spent, after which an address and presentation was made, Mrs. Tripp being the recipient of a beautiful silver bakelish. Again on Friday evening a large number of the people gathered, and after spending a very pleasant evening, Mr. and Mrs. Tripp were presented with a well-filled purse. Mr. Tripp expressed thanks in a few well-chosen words, followed by a pleasing address by F. Sine.
