MARRIED WOMAN TO GET HER MONEY

A Toronto Victim Of a Swindler Has Been Granted An Annulment Of The Marriage Contract.

Gave Him $2,130 in Cash--Met the Man Through Matrimonial Advertisement in Newspaper--Had Deceived Other Women.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 26.—"He told me he had a beautiful $50,000 home in Los Angeles, that I never would have to lift a finger in the future and that he would open his home to my crippled son," said Mrs. Anna A. Anderson, in Supreme Court at Buffalo, N.Y., as she told to Justice Marcus the story of how she was swindled out of $2,130. Mrs. Anderson's plea to have her marriage annulled was granted.

ANNEXATION IDEAS FATAL FOR GERMANY Socialist Says People Want Peace Without Conquest, But Without Humiliation.

London, June 26.—A Reuter despatch from Amsterdam gives the following excerpt from a speech made in the House of Commons by Herr Braun, a Socialist member: "It would be a calamity for Germany to carry out the annexation ideas recommended by certain interested groups. Such a policy is rejected by the Socialist party. The German people want no conquests, but people without humiliation or violence."

The sitting of the Diet was subjected to much disturbance on the part of the Socialists, the correspondent adds. Herr Delbrueck, the Prussian Minister of the Interior, announced that Germany was able to carry over a considerable reserve of bread, grain and potatoes into the new harvest year, but that it was desirable to maintain maximum prices in order to secure control of consumption. New regulations concerning this, he added, would be published shortly. He reiterated that it was Germany's intention to persevere until victory was secured.

Herr Wiener, a Progressive, followed. He echoed Herr Delbrueck's sentiments and protested against the attitude of some of the Socialists who, he declared, were engaging in a peace campaign. The speech of Herr Wiener was interrupted by Dr. Karl Liebknecht, one of the Socialist leaders and other Socialists, and when Herr Braun began his speech.

When Herr Braun had concluded Herr Delbrueck again rose. A fresh commotion began among the Socialists and Herr Delbrueck protested that they ought to hear him as patiently as the House had heard Herr Braun. The uproar from the Socialist benches continued, however, while Herr Delbrueck was insisting that the Socialists, if they possessed an understanding of the true interests of the Fatherland, would follow the example of the other parties.

The sitting closed after a speech by the president of the chamber, which was devoted to the recent successes in Galicia.

DEFENDS MORALS OF ARMY.

Exaggeration Regarding War Babies Has Been Great.

London, June 26.—"I cannot regard the wifeless mothers in the same light as the woman who has pledged her vow before the altar of God to the man who must be true to her until the connection is severed by death. We have no right in a Christian country to make excuses for the commission of moral sin," said Father Vaughan, at a meeting held at the Duchess of Marlborough's house, to discuss the care of the nation's motherhood.

TO KEEP UNIFORMS DRY.

Canadians Bathed in a Thunderstorm and Avoided a Soaking.

Toronto, June 26.—The adaptability of the Canadian soldier is illustrated in an interesting extract from a letter sent by one of the senior officers of the Canadians to a relative in Toronto. The members of a battalion were in reserve trenches on the point of being relieved when a thunderstorm was observed to be about to break. Not being anxious to get their uniforms soaked, and at the same time being badly in need of a bath, the idea occurred to someone—and was promptly taken up by all—that the best thing to do would be to undress and let the rain wash them. The uniforms were placed under water-proofs, and when the rain came it provided a refreshing shower-bath, while after it was over the uniforms were dry and comfortable to put on. When the battalion a short time later met two British regiments with soaked and bedraggled uniforms these could not figure out how the Canadians had managed to keep dry in such a downpour.

The Man on Watch

"Live and let live" is what the people said to the Town Council last Monday. Let "Tim" Rigney's gas boys do some of the governing, and don't play the whole hog.

One of the by-laws the people were asked to vote upon last Monday was quite a paradox, for a vote "For" meant that the voter was "Against."

"SWAT THE FLY."

Reasons Why We Should Exterminate This Deadly Pest.

Kill that fly! Everybody must be familiar with this oft-repeated war-cry of the anti-fly campaigners. This summer, however, the public must be whipped into action against the common house-fly, for the crisis is greater than any with which we have ever been faced before. The reason is not far to seek. From a sanitary point of view, Europe has been polluted by the European war. The danger of epidemic disease is very actual. And the fly is, admittedly, the first and worst of all carriers of disease.

Flies carry germs of summer cholera, typhoid, diphtheria, dysentery, consumption, ophthalmia, plague, smallpox, anthrax, enteric, measles, sleeping sickness, swine fever, epidemic diarrhoea, and many other diseases, some of which are too terrible to name. Typhus, dysentery, and cholera have already appeared in the train of the armies in the East, and though the general health of the troops in the West was unusually good during the winter, there is no knowing what ravages the summer heat may perform.

Every war tells the same story. The great smallpox epidemic of 1817-2 was due to our proximity to Germany and Belgium, where the mortality from smallpox was far greater than in Britain, and was caused by the Franco-Prussian conflict. The Peninsular War brought typhus fever to England in 1809, and laid low thousands. Again, in the South American War, and during the Spanish-American Campaign flies were found to be the greatest cause of the spread of typhoid fever, which was carried out in hot countries they are a veritable plague, alighting on and around wounds with disastrous consequences both to the injured and the healthy.

The fly has a voracious appetite and an almost insatiable thirst. In his endeavor to satisfy these, he wanders abroad in search of organic matter. Healthy people whisk him away. He settles, consequently, on those who are too feeble from sickness or from wounds to say him nay. If his host suffers from infectious organizations, but the Lampan notices that Postmaster Stewart is looking uneasy since the Chinks got together.

The Lampan thinks that a minister having placed himself on record as being against church union is entitled to raise a holler over another denomination being given all the plums at Barriefield camp.

A churchman asked the Lampan if he thought the Superannuation Committee members felt like singing the doxology when it was announced that two annuitants had passed away. If they were not relieved, the charge upon the fund was, according to the published report.

The Lampan was surprised to hear that several prominent business men, with good eyesight, had marked their ballots wrong on Monday last. One merchant who wanted to give the Commission "the boot" marking his ballot in favor of that body and a much peevish. Perhaps the habit of signing petitions without reading them over helps people to mark their ballots carelessly. The Lampan on Monday read his ballot from beginning to end, just like the old folks read all the advertisements in a newspaper.

Speaking of signing petitions and ballots without reading them over, the Lampan recalls the case of a Kingston doctor who was once asked to make an affidavit. The doctor signed the affidavit, swore to it, and then asked what it was about. He said if the signing of an affidavit would help his friend, he was only too glad to do it.

THE DAWN OF YOUNG WOMANHOOD

Girls upon the threshold of womanhood often drift into a decline in spite of all care and attention. Even strong and lively girls become weak, depressed, irritable and listless. It is the dawn of womanhood—a crisis in the life of every girl—and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood pure and rich with the red tint of health. If the body is not in a healthy condition at this critical stage, grave disorders may result, and future life become a burden. Deadly consumption often follows this crisis in the lives of young women. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved thousands of young girls from what might have been life-long invalidity. They are a blood-builder of unequalled merit, strengthening weak nerves and producing a liberal supply of rich, red blood, which every girl needs to sustain her strength.

Over and over again Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved their value to women and girls whose health was failing. Miss Jennie Gossau, St. Jerome, Que., says: "At the age of eighteen my health was completely shattered; I was suffering from anemia with all its attendant evils. The trouble forced me to leave school, I suffered from headaches, was tired and breathless at the least exertion. I had no appetite and my face and lips were literally bloodless. A good friend advised the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and, thanks to this great medicine I am again enjoying good health, with a good appetite, good color and a spirit of energy."

Every anemic girl can be made well and strong through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FIRST BATTALION FOUGHT GALLANTLY

And Brilliantly Added to the Lustre of the Canadian Arms in Conflict at LaBassée.

Losses Were Serious---Said to Have Been Nearly 500 Casualties During the Action--The Canadians Had No Fear.

London, June 26.—A report received from the front shows that the first western Ontario battalion, in action near La Bassee on the 15th instant, added further lustre to Canadian arms. They were selected to act in co-operation with British troops in attacking a German position. Three trenches were their objective. They came from the rear, having had a rest preparatory to the onslaught which took place in the evening. The Germans apparently had an idea that a serious attack was to be attempted, and, as events proved, had made elaborate preparations for resistance.

Probably at no time had the Canadians so many bombs at their disposal as on this occasion. The first trench was only forty yards away from the occupied by the western Ontario battalion. The mine had been laid and its explosion was the signal for a forward movement on the part of the Canadians. The mine itself killed many Germans.

One who took part in the subsequent charge said that the battalion rushed forward under terrible fire from machine guns and bursting high explosives, but the Canadians were fresh and had no fear. "I shall never forget looking round and seeing Col. Becher, of London, apparently standing on the parapet of a trench, leading his men by voice and gesture," he said. "The Colonel fell, struck by a bomb, and was carried to the rear by stretcher-bearers, but did not live long. He was a popular officer and a hero, but all our officers, likewise the men, fought bravely."

Nation Fails to Grasp the War Outlook

London, June 26.—In the course of the debate in the House of Commons on the Munitions Bill, Capt. Frederick E. Guest, third son of Baron Wimborne, attached to Field Marshal Sir John French's staff, said that he had obtained seventy-two hours leave of absence to come to London and tell the House his belief in the peril confronting the nation. He said that the nation still failed to grasp the meaning, size and significance of the war. The energizing of the manufacture of munitions, he said, although it brings a "high relief" to the trenches, was only "tinkering with the main proposition of the summer offensive."

He spoke of the enormous difficulties under which the Allies were laboring and asked, "Where would they have been but for the indomitable gallantry of the French troops in the past six weeks?" Capt. Guest said that the nation ought to be organized to the utmost. He said that he had strongly opposed national service before the war, but that what he had seen at the front had convinced him that before the war was over men would be wanted in such numbers and munitions in such quantities that no other system could overcome the difficulties. It was true, he said, that more men had enrolled than could be usefully employed at present, but only for the present. He said he was convinced that if the war was prolonged national service would be a fundamental necessity of the country's safety.

YOUTHFUL WAR HERO.

Winner of Distinguished Conduct Medal is Eighteen Years Old. Brockville, June 26.—Private Terrence McGuire, who is named for the Distinguished Conduct Medal, is a son of James McGuire, of this town, and is only eighteen years of age. Last week he was officially reported seriously wounded at the Northumberland War Hospital, Newcastle, England, to which he was admitted on June 3rd. A letter of explanation which followed a few days later brought news that McGuire had been wounded while in his dug-out with a companion, a shell exploding on the roof of the dugout. One arm was broken in two places and several ribs were fractured. He enlisted at Kingston with the Second Battalion, but was subsequently transferred to the 13th Highlanders, in which a number of other Brockville boys are serving. He passed through the Battle of St. Julien unscathed.

The Paisley House, Napanee, has changed hands, the present proprietor, E. Clark, having sold out to James McVicker, late proprietor of the Deseronto House at Deseronto. W. N. Myles, Orono, who has recently taken over the management of the Deseronto House, has greatly improved it.

ANTIPON IN CANADA.

Spreading Fame of the British Specific For Rapid Fat Reduction.

The burden of obesity is so distressing and so unappealing, and is generally so difficult to get rid of with any degree of permanence, that the introduction to Canada of the famous British Specific Antipon will be welcome in many quarters. The preparation is not unknown here already, but the obstacles in the way of its supply to the general public were necessarily great. All difficulties are now removed. One of the important discoveries of Antipon (the treatment usually employed for the reduction of weight included starvation, dietary rules, sweating and purging, together with mineral drugging. All these things are weakening in the extreme, and when obstinately persisted in, ruin the constitution. Antipon is diametrically opposed to such drastic methods.

To expel the superfluous fatty matter from the system is all very well, but the body must be amply nourished at the same time. Now, Antipon not only rapidly eliminates the excess of fat, but overcomes the unfortunate tendency to "run into fat." Ample wholesome food, therefore, becomes Antipon's strength-giving ally, and there is no need to dread that the extra nourishment taken will bring about a re-development of excessive fatty tissue.

Even a dose of Antipon is a sure step in the direction of the recovery of beauty of form and vigorous and nervous energy. The decrease of weight is not a tedious process. Within twenty-four hours of the first dose there is a reduction varying, according to individual conditions, between 5 oz. to 3 lbs. The scales will be the unerring recorder. The daily decrease is eminently satisfactory. When normal weight and symmetrical proportions are regained the treatment is no longer necessary. Antipon contains only the most harmless vegetable substances in solution, the liquid being in appearance like a light red wine. It is palatable, refreshing and slightly tart, and never occasions any unpleasant reaction of the system.

Antipon can be obtained at all drug stores, from stock, or to order; or in case of any difficulty, a large case will be forwarded direct from the Antipon Laboratories, Store Street, London, W.C., Eng., carriage paid, on receipt of remittance for 5 dollars. 11c.
