

THE C. P. R. SHOPS TO MANUFACTURE AMMUNITION

J. P. MORGAN SHOT BY GERMAN-AMERICAN

At His Summer Home at Glen Cover, L.I. With Butler's Assistance He Disarmed the Assassin.

Mr. Morgan Was Shot in the Groin--Bullet Came Out At Hip--He Recently Returned From Europe With Big War Contracts For the Allies.

J. P. MORGAN. (Special to the Whig.) Glen Cover, L. I., July 3.—John Pierpont Morgan, the financier, was shot at his summer home here shortly before nine o'clock to-day, but not seriously.

parently of German descent, who refused to give his name or any account of himself, called at Mr. Morgan's and with two revolvers, one in each hand, pushed himself into Mr. Morgan's presence and after an exchange of words opened fire with a 32-calibre revolver.

The first shot entered Mr. Morgan's groin and came out at the hip. The second went wild, and before a third could be fired, Mr. Morgan closed in on his assailant. He grappled with him and with the butler's assistance disarmed the would-be assassin.

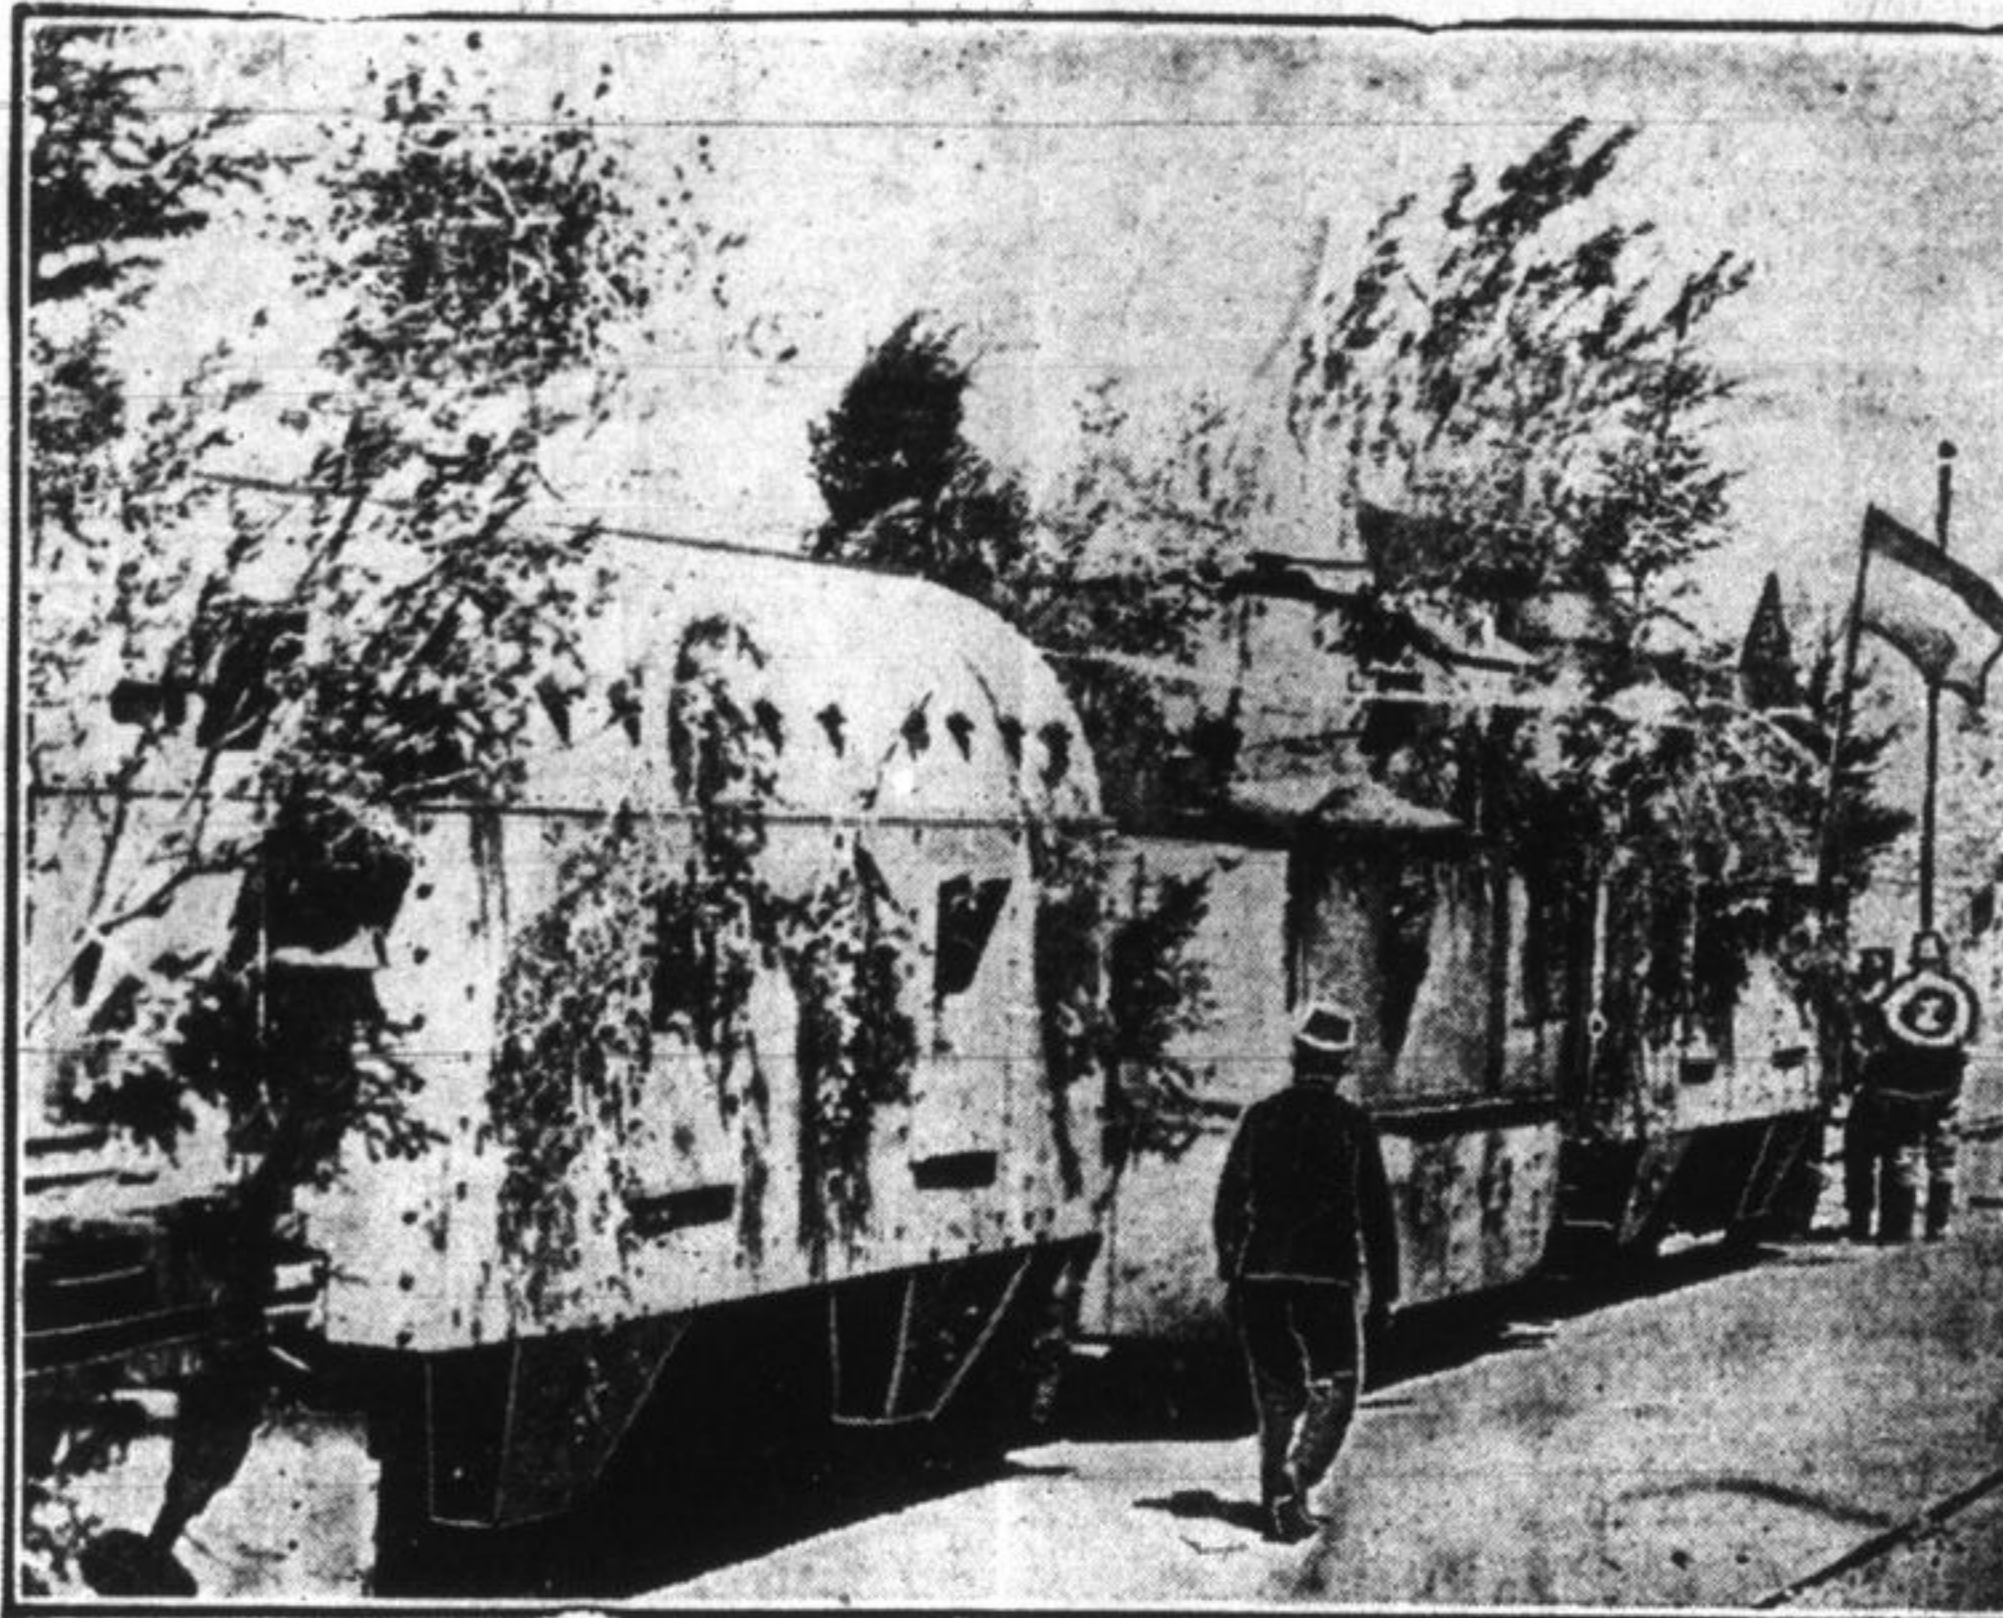

The man struggled desperately to escape and succeeded once in breaking away, but was recaptured before he could get out of the house. He was turned over to the Glen Cover police by attaches of the Morgan household.

Mr. Morgan recently returned from Europe with big war contracts for the Allies.

Mr. Morgan's German assailant gave every appearance of being a bomber, but was recaptured before he could get out of the house.

The picture shows an Austrian train used during the Galician drive. To deceive the enemy scouts it was completely covered with brush, giving the appearance of a thicket along the railway line.

THE RUSSIANS WIN BATTLE IN BALTIC

Badly Damaged a German Cruiser Which Went Ashore on Gotsland Island; Crews Interned By Sweden.

Inflicted Heavy Damage on German Torpedo Boats--Russian Destroyers Continued Pursuit Into Swedish Waters--Russians Bringing Up Other Naval Units to Resume Engagement.

(Special to the Whig.) London, July 3.—The following is the official report from Petrograd regarding Thursday night's naval action in the Baltic Ocean: "A German cruiser was badly damaged and forced ashore on the island of Gotsland in Thursday night's naval engagement in the Baltic. Our losses were insignificant. It is believed here that the German mine layer sent ashore on Gotsland was the cruiser mentioned in Petrograd despatches. The Russians closed upon the German torpedo boats and inflicted heavy damage. The mine layer Albatross was unable to escape because of her slow speed. Her survivors, including 71 wounded, were immediately interned at Roma by the Swedish authorities on Gotsland. Her head, including the captain, were buried in one large grave. Reports from Stockholm said that the Russian destroyers continued the pursuit into Swedish waters, and that a protest undoubtedly would be lodged with the Russian Government. "The Russians," said a Gotsland despatch to-day, "are reported to be bringing up other naval units. It is expected that the engagement will be resumed."

Great Turning Movement By the Russians

Petrograd, July 3.—In the opinion of Russian military experts, the Austro-German drive in Galicia has been definitely checked. They now look for a great turning movement by the Russian troops that will force the abandonment of the German offensive between the Vistula and Bug Rivers of Russian Poland, where hard fighting is still in progress.

In their withdrawal before the superior forces of the enemy, the Russians have shortened the distance over which it is necessary to transport reinforcements and ammunition. The Germans and Austrians have lengthened their lines of communication.

To Reorganize the Ministry of Russia

(Special to the Whig.) London, July 3.—The Petrograd correspondent of the Times states that the Czar's Russian Ministry is to be re-organized in such a manner that all members may be expected to work in harmony with the Duma. There is some doubt as to whether the premier'ship will devolve on M. Krivosseyn, Minister of Agriculture, or on Prince Yassikoff. But in any case M. Krivosseyn will remain in the new Cabinet thereby insuring great strength to the Ministry.

Four Officers Were Slain By Fanatics

London, July 3.—The killing of a major, a captain, a lieutenant and a bombardier, and the wounding of a captain and a sergeant, all officers of the Eighth Indian Cavalry, by two fanatic Mohammedans, who subsequently were shot to death, was announced last night by the British official press bureau. The statement follows: A lamentable tragedy occurred in the Eighth Cavalry of the Indian Army station at Jhansi (in the united provinces of Agra and Udh, British India). Two Mohammedan soldiers ran amuck in the lines, shooting and killing Major M. H. L. Gale and cutting down Lieutenant Courtenay, who since has died of his wounds.

The murderers belonged to the officers' mess and wounded the captain, turning toward the barracks, they fired at a sergeant and a bombardier, wounding slightly the former and killing the latter. The murderers were pursued and shot down by a party of men of the regiment led by two British officers, but not before they had fired at and killed another officer, Captain Cooper.

Tourist Travel Halved

Only 170,000 Americans Visited Europe Last Fiscal Year. Washington, July 3.—Fewer than 170,000 American tourists visited Europe in the fiscal year ended to-day, during eleven months of which the war has been in progress. This is the smallest number of departures for Europe from these shores since the total departures from these shores in the 1915 fiscal year, including aliens and those called to the colors, will not exceed 540,000.

Community Builders

With this issue the Whig begins its illustrated articles on "Community Building." The idea has been present with it for a long time. It has studied how it may advance the city's interest and when it found a medium through which to express its thought secured it at considerable cost. Genius deserves recognition, and the men who conceived and executed these pictures and articles have earned their reward.

Bomb Exploded In Senate Wing At Washington

(Special to the Whig.) Washington, July 3.—The explosion which settled down to-day when a statement was made by an official. The only damage was in the reception room and it was estimated that a couple of thousand dollars would replace the shattered furnishings.

"The explosion was due in my opinion," said Superintendent Woods to-day, "to a bomb placed by a crank. Just what his motive was must be a mystery until we can arrest him. Six months ago, a man writing from St. Louis to vice-President Marshall, declared that if certain legislation was not passed a bomb would be exploded in the building. We will now endeavor to find out whether there was any connection between that letter and this explosion."

Letter Told Of Bomb

Washington, July 3.—That the explosion which wrecked the reception room at the Senate end of the National Capitol last night was that of a bomb, was conclusively proved to-day by the Washington Times which was in receipt of a letter mailed an hour and half before the explosion occurred, announcing that the explosion would occur.

Wooded Daughter, Then Got Father For Loan of $500

Detroit, July 3.—David L. Baumgarten, alias George Anderson, alias Andrews, a tall handsome youth, is locked up in a cell at police headquarters for getting money under false pretenses. David is said to be a good magazine salesman, which business landed him in jail on divers occasions, but his chief claim to fame lies in his ability to woo. In fact, David successfully wooed $500 in cash recently from B. M. Miller, a wealthy retired farmer living near Pontiac, but in order to get it he first wooed Mildred, the farmer's pretty daughter. So attractive a proposition did Baumgarten appear that when he told Farmer Miller that he had some money coming from Cincinnati, but that it had been "delayed," the farmer told him he would advance him what cash he needed. David needed $500, and after he got it he disappeared, leaving behind the heartbroken maiden and her indignant parent.

Autrian Garrison Surrenders To When Told Fort Was "Surrounded"

Geneva, Switzerland, July 3.—A despatch from Laibach Austria, to the Geneva Tribune reports the capture by Italians of a mountain fortress at Coni Sugna, 2,500 meters northeast of Ala, in Trentino, which cost the Austrians $900,000 to construct. The correspondent characterizes the capture as an "audacious affair." He states that an Italian captain with 100 men climbed the steep slopes and demanded that the garrison surrender, saying that the fortress was surrounded, which was a "bluff," and the garrison capitulated.

COVER ROOFS WITH STEEL NETTING

London, July 3.—Through a case in court where a prominent engineering firm was charged with violating the building laws, it became known to-day that many large financial houses of the city are taking elaborate precautions to protect their buildings against air raids. The firm on trial had failed to obtain permission to alter the roof of its building, over which a framework of steel netting, weighing seven and a half tons, had been erected. A building inspector in his testimony said that many similar cases had been reported. The court imposed a nominal fine amounting to about $1.25.

OLD RIFLES SEIZED

Shipment Was Supposedly Consigned To Java. New York, July 3.—Some time within the last two weeks representatives of the Treasury Department, known as the "neutrality squad," seized a quantity of old Springfield that had been laying for almost a week on one of the piers of the Bush Docks. Their shipment was shrouded in the customary mystery assumed by exporters of war munitions, and the law division of the customhouse, in charge of the seizure, professed to know nothing about the transaction. Just what was done by the neutrality squad and the nature of its seizure was not disclosed by the office of the Collector of Customs. It was said by a representative of the collector that questions concerning it could not be asked of the Federal authorities involved. It is believed, however, that they were being shipped by German intelligence to Java with the ultimate intention of using them in a revolution in India.

REMEMBER HER DEBT TO ENGLAND

Time Will Come When Hoop of Invader Will be Removed. London, July 3.—Cardinal Mercier, of Belgium, has written to Cardinal Bourne a letter, which, although dated March 17, only reached Cardinal Bourne to-day. The following is the concluding paragraph: "Though laboring under some constraint our hearts cherish the undaunted hope that, strengthened by God's help and condescending justice of our cause, the day will dawn when our united armies will restore peace and liberty in our land. "Then without restraint we will be able to proclaim our heartfelt gratitude and show the world that even as Belgium preferred mutilation and endless suffering to loss of honor, so she will ever remember her debt to England."
