WALDRON'S

BURIED BY GERMAN SHELL; HOW PTE. CONNOLLY DIED

Pte. S. Smallridge Suffered From Same Shell.

CONNOLLY WAS DEAD

WHEN HE WAS BROUGHT OUT OF THE TRENCH.

Pte. Smallridge Was Saved By An Edmonton Man Who Dug Him Out—He Is Now In An English Hos-

The late Pte. Thomas Connolly, son of Sergt. and Mrs. E. Connolly, who was killed in action, met his death by being buried alive by a German shell.

This information comes in a letter from Pte. S. Smallridge to his parents on Earl street. The letter is dated Etretat General Hospital, France, and in part says:

"Just a few lines to let you know where I am and that I am feeling sore all over. We have been in the trench line five days and five nights. At 5.30 a.m. (June 16th) the artillery was to open fire and at six o'clock we had the German trench mined. They had ours mined, and there were only sixty yards between the two trenches. We moved back to the reserve trench so our artillery could shell their trench, as they had to aim low. When in the reserve trench we were told to dig seats and make ourselves comfortable. A fellow by the name of Woods sat with me, and he was hit on the head with a piece of shrapnel and left the trench, so Corporal Hicks, a Kingston lad, sat with me. Connolly and a fellow named Smith (I do not know where his home is) and Shaulder, from Brockville, sat on the bottom of the trench, which was fully six feet deep, when a high explosive shell burst beside us and buried the five of us up. Hicks and I were sitting up, and that is all that saved us. Poor Connolly and Smith were dead when rescued.

"We passed through three dressing stations, including Dr. Ross', and was talking to him and Sergt. Armstrong. I had a small bone in my left ankle broken and other injuries. I owe my life to 'Jim' Hart, from Edmonton, who dug me out. Sergt. Edwards, Victoria street, and Corporal Truhart, Portsmouth, carried me about forty feet, when another shell partly buried Truhart and myself. Capt. Richardson and Capt. Guttman are well."

His next letter, also received Monday, is dated from Bagthorpe Hospital, in England, and he describes the trip across the sea. The letter mentions that all of the Box rifles have been turned in, and the Canadians have been issued with Lee-Enfield rifles, which have a bayonet twenty inches long.

Letter From Capt. Richardson. A letter was received by Mrs. E. Connolly, Markland street, on Monday morning from Capt. George T. Richardson, telling her how her son, Pte. Thomas Connolly, had been killed in action recently. The letter reads:

"I must write and express my own and the deep sympathy of the company in the loss of your son, Pte. Thomas Connolly, No. 8080, who was killed in action in front of La Bassée, on the night of June 16th to 17th.

"He was instantly killed, as was one of his companions named G. H. Smith, through the explosion of a shell in the trench he was occupying. Two other Kingston men were wounded, but not seriously, in the same explosion, Lance Corporal Hicks and Pte. Smallridge. Your son was a most faithful and willing soldier, and has most faithfully served the cause for which he has now laid down his life."

Mrs. Connolly also received a card on Monday morning which read as follows:

"The Prime Minister and members of the Government of Canada send their deepest sympathy in the bereavement which you have sustained."

In Service in France. A letter received in the city on Monday from Lieut.-Col. Douglas Young, formerly of the No. 3 Military District, stated that he was well, but that the Canadian boys had suffered a great deal. He is now connected with the Army Ordnance Department in France.

EX-CONSTABLE REMEMBERED

Michael Berrigan Presented With Ring By Police Force.

On Friday last, at the Windsor Hotel, Police Constables Armstrong, Jenkins and Sargent, on behalf of the police force of Kingston, gathered together to express to Ex-Constable Michael Berrigan, their kind regards for him, also the deep regret for his resignation, not only of themselves, but of the many citizens with whom he had become acquainted during his term on the force. As a parting gift they presented him with a beautiful gold ring with a blood stone setting.

Mr. Berrigan, while taken by surprise, in a few well-chosen words thanked them for the valued gift which he thoroughly appreciated and at the same time assured them that he enjoyed his stay on the force and found the men a careful, jolly, good bunch.

Recovered From Wounds. Mrs. Murray, 224 Montreal street, has received a card from her son, Corp. S. Murray, who is a prisoner of war at Giessen, Germany. He says he is getting along fine, and that he has recovered from his wounds. He asks for smoking tobacco, biscuits, cakes and books.

Recruiting officers are being opened in the main streets of Toronto. Canada is assisting Montenegro to get to the firing line.

CONCERTS YIELD FUNDS.

To Provide Two Cots For Queen's Stationary Hospital.

The Goodwin recital was again heard in Convocation Hall by a large audience on Saturday night. There was an entire change of programme. Lee Cronican, pianist, opened the programme with three very fine renderings, "Because," "Hear Me! Ye Winds and Waves," and "Cavalier Song." Wilnot Goodwin with his clear baritone voice delighted the audience of Dittersdorf-Burmester's "Deutscher Tanz" and Monigny-Francko's Rigaudon. The same singer was heard later in "Caprice Espanol" by Moskowski.

Mr. Cronican played Schubert-Wilhelm's "Ave Marie" and "L'Alpini" by Paganini. On account of Maurice Warner, the violin accompanist, not being able to be present owing to the death of his father, the other two artists expanded their numbers.

The concert on Saturday evening marked the 26th performance which these artists have given since September 20th, 1914. July 20th will be the end of their season. Forty thousand miles has also been covered by them. On Sunday morning the artists left for Wilmington, Vt. The Heintzman Grand piano used at the concert on Saturday evening was kindly loaned to the W.C.T.U. by the Lindsay Piano Company, Princess street. The ladies, as well as the artists, much appreciate the company's courtesy. As a result of the concert, the W.C.T.U. expects to provide two cots for Queen's Stationary Hospital and to have a neat little sum remaining to assist in carrying on its work.
