CHRISTIANS ARE HORRIBLY TREATED BY THE TURKS

Choice of Islam or Death by Sword or Starvation. MEN DRAFTED TO ARMY

THE EYE WITNESS STORIES TOLD BY AMERICANS

Women and Girls, Parted From Relatives and Friends, Being Distributed in Asia Minor Villages.

Athens, July 13.—American travellers coming from Turkey have given such eye-witness accounts of the treatment of the Christian population as fully bear out the reports received here from native sources to the effect that the Christians in the Ottoman Empire have never been in such peril since the Turks first invaded the Byzantine Empire.

Both Armenians and Greeks, the two native Christian races in Turkey, are being systematically uprooted from their homes en masse and driven forth summarily to distant places, where they are scattered among villages and given the choice of Islam or death by the sword or starvation. Their homes and property meanwhile are being immediately taken possession of by their Turkish neighbors or by emigrants from Macedonia.

Throughout the Vilayets of Erzurum, van, Bitlis, Diarbekir, Harput, Sivas and Adana the Armenians have been pitilessly evicted by tens of thousands and driven off to die in the desert near Konia or to upper Mesopotamia or the Iberian deserts. These figures do not include thousands massacred by the Kurds or hanged without trial by the Turkish authorities all over Armenia.

The Greeks are faring little better, except that they are not being massacred. Apart from the 180,000 who last year were driven out of their homes in Thrace and the Vilayet of Smyrna, a still greater number since Turkey became involved in the war have been evicted from the peninsula and both shores of the Dardanelles, fifteen thousand from PINKINO ISLANDS, 90,000 from Imit Province, 60,000 from the Vilayet of Vromussa, and this wholesale uprooting of the native population is increasing in extent and ferocity.

Able-bodied men are being drafted into the Turkish army, and the rest are being broken up into little groups and being distributed among Turkish villages of Asia Minor, care being taken to break up families and separate women and girls from their friends and relatives. Children are being kidnapped by the wholesale along the route of those wretched exiles to be brought up as Moslems and given in so-called marriage to Turkish peasants.

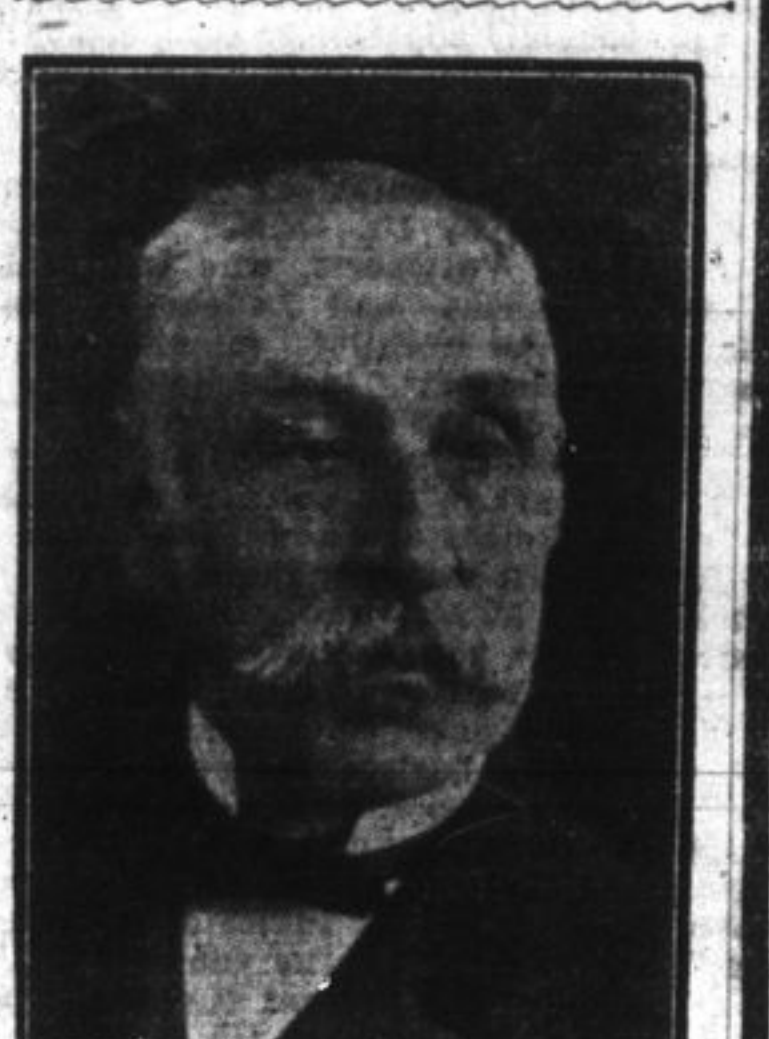

The remaining adults have to choose between death and apostasy. It is safe to say that across Turkey is beaten to its knees very speedily there will be no more Christians in the Ottoman Empire.

at the front, Mr. Mastin asked the entire audience to stand with bowed head and offer a prayer, and every head was bowed at the request. It was a silent tribute, and a most solemn part of the proceedings.

Oscar Landon, Deputy Grand Master of Ontario East, declared that every true Protestant should be a better Christian. The ritual of the order was taken from the Bible. Some held the order in contempt, but it was because they did not know the order. The speaker read to the audience the declaration of the Orange order.

Henry A. Steele, State Deputy, New York, spoke on behalf of the Orangemen from Watertown, and was given a hearty reception. He said the members in Watertown were pleased at the opportunity of joining with their Canadian brothers, in this event.

James Berney, Kingston, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, spoke briefly, but with his old-time vigor, setting forth the principles of the Orange Order, and was warmly applauded. Other speakers included

JAMES BERNEY, The Kingston veteran who called upon all to join the Orange order. Rev. W. H. Towle, Lansdowne; Rev. Walter Cox, Gananoque; John Webster, M. P., and A. E. Donovan, M. P., Brockville.

The Prize Winners. Rev. Walter Cox announced that the committee judging the parade had awarded the following prizes: First, Y. B. No. 282 with the Cadet Band, Brockville; second, Watertown, N. Y., L. O. L. No. 101; Third, Derry Lodge, No. 233, of South Lake.

Mr. Cox pointed out that the committee, owing to the splendid turnout, had found it a very difficult matter to read its decisions. Special mention was made of the 8th C. M. R. Pipe Band, Barfield Camp. The boys came in for very much praise.

Notes Of The Day. Rev. Dr. Henry Gracey and Rev. Melvin Taylor, Gananoque, occupied seats on the platform. Senator Derbyshire, Brockville, was down on the programme for an address, but was unable to be present, and sent his regrets.

Quite a large number of soldiers from Barfield Camp attended the celebration. The Kingston Orangemen were everywhere in evidence. They certainly did their share in making the celebration a great success.

The ladies of the Red Cross Society in Gananoque took advantage of the "big day" to take up a collection on the streets, for their society. No person was overlooked in the game of tag.

Ex-Ald. Joseph Tait, the veteran Kingston Orangeman, received hearty congratulations through out the day. His record of seventy years as an Orangeman is a proud one.

In the morning, a baseball match between the G. T. R. team, at Belleville, and the Gananoque team, was a special feature. Gananoque put it over Belleville, 10 to 4. George Baker, Gananoque, was the umpire. Three Kingstonians played with the Gananoque team, namely, Gallagher who did the twirling, Somerville who held down second bag, and Coyne who looked after the centre garden. All the Kingston players put up a fine game. The batteries were: For Gananoque, Gallagher, P. and W. Dorey; for Belleville, Feg and Mills.

The Citizen's Band of Gananoque and a band from Brockville rendered a programme of music during the afternoon. The Kingston excursionists arrived home at 8 o'clock Monday night with everybody tired but happy.

The weather was ideal all day long. It could not have been better had it been "made to order." Quite a number of the Kingston members of the Black Knights attended the celebration at Belleville. They report a big time.

A large number of the people camping on the islands down the river came over to Gananoque for the day. Ivo Cobet, secretary of No. 6, carried the flag for the Kingston delegation. Robert Walker was master of ceremonies for this lodge. William Milligan the W. M. of the lodge, was on hand with a cheery smile for everyone. He never misses an Orange celebration, and is a most enthusiastic worker.

Prussian Losses Total, 1,504,525. London, July 13.—A Berlin dispatch to The Morning Post says: "The last 16 Prussian casualty lists contains the names of 94,747 officers and men killed or wounded, making the total Prussian losses to the end of June 1,504,525. This does not include 164 Saxon casualty lists, 19 Bavarian lists, 211 Wurttemberg lists and 36 navy lists. "Of 40,000 German national schoolteachers under arms 4,900 have been killed in battle."

The first Turkish prisoners brought to France arrived Monday. They numbered eleven, and included two officers who were captured while en route to Tripoli to bribe the Arabs to revolt against the Italians there. $125,000 found in their possession was seized.

ORANGEMEN SOUNDED CALL FOR RECRUITS

(Continued from Page 1.) Finance Minister paid a warm tribute to the men who are at the front, and to those who have given up their lives for the country.

In his opening remarks he said: "This is truly a Glorious 12th of July. I always observed that no matter how the morning of the 12th broke, there was always sunshine, I now think that the weather man must belong to the Orange Order." (Laughter).

It was a great pleasure for the speaker to address such a gathering, but he never expected that there would be such a big crowd. He agreed with a friend on the platform, who declared that the attendance at Orange celebrations was getting larger every year. This year's celebration had been turned into a one of "patriotism", and it was well that it was so.

At the present time, great demands were being made on the people of Canada, and still greater demands would be made.

"I feel assured that these demands will be met until the conflict is decided as we wish it to be decided. When we speak of patriotism, we mean devotion and love of country. As Canadian, our patriotism embraces the old land.

"To-day, we find the citizens of a peaceful and peace-loving country offering their lives as if they were naught, for the Empire. That is patriotism of the most sublime character. At the outbreak of this war we were not ready. To-day, the old land is now an entrenched camp. A year ago, we had no person in arms. But when the order came to recruit we find 150,000 Canadians in line. There are fifty thousand at the front, fifty thousand in the United Kingdom, and fifty thousand at home out of which will be formed the nucleus of additional battalions at the front. While we have made great sacrifices, still greater demands are to be made up on us. It is up to every man to consider what his duty is in regard to this conflict."

At this stage, the speaker took occasion to pay tribute to the men who had fallen in the great battle at Langemarck. He made special reference to the gallant stand taken by the Canadians against the gas.

"They were willing to die but not to yield," he said. Referring to Gananoque, he said that five per cent. of the population had volunteered for the front. He thought that sometimes we did not appreciate the sacrifice made by wives and mothers in allowing their husbands and sons to go to war. It was well that the Orangemen had dedicated this day to patriotism.

The speaker wondered what good King William would think if he were alive to-day, and could see the twenty-five millions of men under arms, the battleships, submarines, aeroplanes and other various devices of war at work.

"What is the outlook of this war?" It looks as if we are in for a fairly long war, for a war of attrition, of the wearing down of the enemy's forces and resources of all kinds, but the advantage all lies with the Allies. Germany had been prepared for this war for years. I do not think it is a marvel to think of what Germany has done but that it is a marvel that she has not accomplished more.

There is good ground for optimism. "What the British people need, and what I believe they have is steadiness—that British steadiness which persistently pursues until the goal is reached. We know that our cause is just—that we are fighting for the best principles. The issue is, not in doubt, only the issue may be postponed.

"Each man will be required to do his best to bring the war to a just and proper conclusion. Each man will be the judge of what his best is. Remember that we have a long way to go, but those who know the character and the pluck of our British race, know that whether it is long or whether it is short, it will be pursued to the bitter end, and to the final end. Remember that great saying of Pitt, when some were despondent during the war against Napoleon: 'England has saved herself by her courage. We will save Europe by her example.'

Senator Taylor Speaks. Rev. Walter Cox, of Gananoque, introduced Senator Taylor, as the chairman, and the latter called upon the various speakers. Senator Taylor was one of the oldest Orangemen at the celebration. He remarked to the gathering, that it was just fifty-seven years since he "rode the goat."

Mayor Dr. P. J. O'Connor, of Gananoque, welcomed the Orangemen on behalf of the town, and did so in an able address. He remarked that he was a Roman Catholic, and some might think that it would be unwise on his part to take part at such a celebration.

"But extraordinary things are bound to happen at extraordinary times," he added. "Many extraordinary features are being presented, and many which are praiseworthy."

Mayor O'Connor stated that he wished to extend the warmest welcome to all the visiting Orangemen. He declared that this was no time to raise a cry about creed or party strife. He referred to the grand old principles of the British race, and stated that they should be upheld and fought.
