THE MEAT PROBLEM IN BRITAIN GRAVE

The Breeding Stock Has Been Sacrificed by Farmers on the Altar of High Prices.

One Plan to Meet the New Conditions is to Prohibit the Slaughter of Any Animal Without the Permission of the Government.

London, July 24.—The meat problem in Britain has been forced to the front as one of the main issues caused by the war.

Two plans have been suggested for meeting the conditions. The first and most drastic proposed is that an order be issued prohibiting the slaughter of any animal without permission from the Government.

This would mean that farmers would be forced to keep their breeders, but it also would be of the greatest hardship to some of the smaller owners who are just getting along now by the occasional sale of one or two of their cattle.

The second suggestion, and the one that finds the greatest favor in all circles, is to have the Crown pay a subsidy to those who keep their breeding herds intact at a financial loss to themselves.

To Restrict Slaughtering. This extra quantity is, of course,

HUNS MANAGED TO CROSS THE CANAL

But Were Wiped Out by the Big Guns Which Mowed Them Down After They Made an Insecure Landing.

Germans Crossed to Left Side Yser Canal, But French 75's and Allied Bayonet Attacks Left None Free--A Graphic Description of the Latest Attack.

Boulogne, July 24.—Here is a graphic description of the latest attack by the Germans against the Allies' position on the left bank of the Yser Canal, told by one who participated in the action:

"Despite the precautions taken by the Germans, our commanding officer learned that the enemy was making preparations for a very heavy attack, and as a result gave orders for the men to have everything in readiness for the reception of the Germans.

"Accordingly, when the enemy, at dawn Friday, started to bombard us with gas bombs, we were everywhere on the alert. A massed infantry attack followed toward nine o'clock, but it surprised no one. The Germans made their heaviest assault at the old stone bridge of Boesinghe, which had been replaced last October by a series of little chain bridges so constructed as to be easily destroyed should the necessity arise.

"The water in the canal at this point is very shallow, and here and there it may be forded. The enemy managed to cross the canal and take up a footing—a very insecure one—on the same side as ourselves.

"The German commanding officer, greatly miscalculating his little initial success, ordered two battalions of infantry to advance and take the Allies' second line of trenches, situated a short distance off. By this time the bridges across the water were streaming with German troops who were coming to reinforce those already across the canal.

"Suddenly as a large number of Bavarian infantrymen were coming across the Boesinghe bridge, the French brought a number of 75's into relief. It was not many minutes before the bridgeheads were brought crashing into the water below, dragging with them numbers of the enemy.

"All was panic in the German lines. Officers and men were struggling in the canal for their lives, and those who did not drown were shot down as soon as they crawled to land. The small portion of the canal that was fordable had now been placed under the careful survey of four 75's, and there being no bridge left, the two German battalions on our side of the canal were completely isolated from the main party.

"By a brilliant counter-attack with fixed bayonets the French marines and Belgians soon cleared our side of the canal of all the Germans. Those not killed or drowned gave themselves up as prisoners.

"Not a single German soldier or officer of two battalions that were ordered to take our second line of trenches returned to the enemy's lines.

"While we were counter-attacking the enemy on the other side of the water made an attempt to throw across the canal a bridge in order to relieve the two isolated battalions. The French 75's were on the look-out, however, and not only did the German sappers have to retreat, but they were forced to abandon large amounts of material.

CANNOT STOP Declines to Accede to Britain's Suggestion. Tokio, July 24.—Japan has informed Great Britain that she is unable to accede to Great Britain's request to announce a prohibition of trading in the Far East with citizens of hostile nations. The British Government recently suggested a regulation prohibiting trading with nationals of Germany and Austria in China, Siam and Persia.

Great Britain had been waiting for assurance that Japan would adopt similar measures. However, the Japanese Government, after consulting leading business men, decided it could not join the movement, chiefly for the reason that the laws of Japan do not permit the enforcement of such a measure. The Government is understood to have pointed out that in effect there is no trading between Japanese and representatives of hostile countries in the Far East. Japanese merchants are believed to have opposed the British project on the ground that it would harm the business interests of the Empire.

Free Preserving Jar Labels Now that preserving time is here, housewives will be interested in learning how they can secure, free of charge, a package of fifty labels for their preserving jars. All one has to do is to cut out the trade mark—the round, red design—on the top of a carton containing Lantic Sugar, and forward it with your name and address to Dept. L, Atlantic Sugar Refiners, Montreal. Atlantic Sugar can be bought in 2-lb and 4-lb cartons, or in larger packages, and it is of an extra fine quality for preserving or other uses. Those who have received the labels are well pleased with them.

THE SPORT REVIEW

Ray Keating, the New York American League pitcher, is out of the game for the balance of the season with a misplaced muscle in the hip.

Don Lyon of Hamilton, one of the best players Canadian football has ever developed, has enlisted for overseas service and will shortly leave for Niagara camp to commence training for the army.

Owner Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox, has raised a howl over the suspension of Manager Rowland. "The umpires are the worst that the American League has had in years," added Comiskey.

Since losing to Cornwall last Saturday the Nationals of Montreal realize that the race in the N.L.L. is by no means easy, and they are getting all their old stalwarts back in harness for the remaining fixtures.

A lessening in sporting activities is suggested by the President of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, Thomas Boyd, in a statement which he has given out at Winnipeg appeals especially to the unmarried members of athletic organizations in Canada to join the overseas corps. Elimination of cup games in football and other sports is a principal suggestion.

It is doubtful if there is a sporting organization in Canada which can show a better record for recruiting than the Brantford Soccer League. No less than seventy-five players have handed in their cards and have gone to the front with the various Canadian contingents. The result has been that the league is almost at a point where it will have to cry "quits."

Leo Callahan, centre-felder of the Harrisburg International League team, broke his leg above the ankle while sliding home in the second inning of a game between Harrisburg and Providence. Two years ago, while a member of the Toronto team, in a game with Rochester, Callahan broke his leg in the same place. His home is in Boston.

CAUSE OF KRUPP STRIKE Men forced to Work Under Harsh Conditions.

Paris, July 24.—The principal cause of the strike in the Krupp works is the harsh conditions under which the workmen are forced to labor. An Alsatian newspaper writes to a French newspaper: "We work twelve hours daily, and ten on Sunday. We have only 15 minutes for breakfast, and 30 minutes for lunch. The meals served in the works consist mostly of sausages, potatoes and bread. The strain is so terrific that the section workers decided to strike to obtain better conditions."

NO COAL FOR TURK SHOPS.

Russian Submarines Have Paralyzed Munition Factories.

Petrograd, July 24.—It is believed that the recent activity of Russian submarines in the Black Sea will shortly produce marked results in the Dardanelles conflict. Some sixty odd ships under the Turkish flag, laden with coal and other necessities for Constantinople have been sunk during the past week. One steamship of 6,000 tons burden has also been sunk.

The absolute stoppage of Turkish coal supplies has paralyzed the German munition factories, with the inevitable result, it is believed here, that the Germanic-Turkish opposition to the Allied forces must collapse altogether.

Ottawa Exhibition Features

The Central Canada Exhibition Association is announcing the main features of its 1915 Fair. A new Dominion Government grant of $5,000 has been put into the prize list, making total premiums $25,000. For the third year, the Association is paying the freight to Ottawa on live stock exhibits from all points in Ontario and Quebec. An excellent show of field and garden produce is fore-shadowed for the new Agricultural and Horticultural Hall, finished last year. The manufacturers' exhibits promise to be very large, an space and motive power are furnished free. In the list of attractions are daily aeroplane flights, baseball matches, horse races, band music, day fireworks, live stock parades, and an unusually large Midway. Night shows will present a novel fireworks display and will also have a new feature, moving pictures, which will illustrate the war in particular. Grand stand seats are reduced in price and six-for-a-dollar admission tickets are again offered. The rail ways have granted low passenger rates and free return of live stock exhibits. As in former years there will be six days and six nights (September 13th to 18th) of complete programme. The final day will be marked by amateur sports in the afternoon.

Garden Party at Loughboro

The Loughboro branch of the Red Cross Society will hold a garden party on Mace's Point, both afternoon and evening, of Wednesday, July 28th. Supper will be served on the point at six o'clock, and light refreshments will be on sale at the various booths all evening. A band will be in attendance and a most enjoyable evening is anticipated. Provision has also been made for moonlight trips on the lake by motor-boat.

Stole $3,926 in Nickels.

New York, July 24.—William B. Tanner, chief paymaster at the Government sub-treasury in Wall Street, and a Government employee for the last fifteen years, was arrested at Bradley Beach, N.J., on a charge of having stolen $3,926 in nickels from the vaults.
