

Come in and Try On

The best way to select Clothes and to insure Clothes satisfaction is to "try on."

Many men appear to think that if they try on garments they are expected to buy. Not so here.

Our Suits are here to be shown and tried on.

Put on as many Suits as you like, with no thought of buying.

We're always as ready to show as we are to sell and we'll find as much pleasure in showing as you will in trying on.

Suits, Special $15 and $18

Livingston's,

BROCK STREET.

A little out of the way, but it will pay you to walk

We close every evening, Saturdays excepted, at 5 o'clock, during July and August.

Special To-Night

Men's Working Shirts

Made from good strong English Duck Shirting, in fancy striped patterns, guaranteed fast colors; full assortment of sizes, worth $1.00; to-night

69c

12 Only Fancy Summer Sun Shades

The balance of a stock, worth $1.00 and $1.25; to clear to-night for

49c

Men's White Night Shirts

English Twill Cotton; good large roomy Shirt, worth $1.25 and $1.50; to-night

98c

50 Yards Only Black Paillette Silk

One yard wide, good color; worth 89c; to-night a yard

49c

Summer Dresses for $2.98

Sale at 7.30

WALDRON'S

OLD WOMAN SLAIN; FOUND IN BED

(Continued From Page 1.)

Constable Marshall Armstrong was at the scene of the murder shortly after Constable Mullinger entered the house. Constable Armstrong was doing duty on Princess street. A man, who happened to be passing, told him that a brother officer had been called to the corner of Wellington and Queen streets, and that perhaps he might require assistance. Constable Armstrong hurried to the house, and as he reached there Constable Mullinger was just entering a taxi with young Suddard, on the way to the police station.

The young medical student who was hailed by the young girl, and who gave the first alarm to the police, was examining the woman when Constable Armstrong went into the house. The woman was still breathing, but was in a dying condition. Constable Armstrong then ran to the office at Crothers' Biscuit Works and sent in a rush call for a doctor. Looking into the telephone book, as luck would have it, the very first name that caught the eye of the constable was that of Dr. Mylks. He rang him up, and got a quick response. Dr. Mylks also made a quick trip to the house, but Mrs. Job died just as he reached the street door of the house. Her injuries were of a serious nature, that from the very start it was plain to be seen that there was no possible chance for her to survive.

Searching the House.

On Saturday morning at 9.30 o'clock Constables Mullinger and Armstrong made a search of the little house of the deceased. It was locked up on the order of the coroner, but the constables made a visit of inspection on the order of the coroner.

As a result of the many wounds on the face and neck of the head woman, it was believed that a knife or some other weapon had been used. The constables, however, made a close inspection of everything in the house, and no knife or instrument, as far as can be learned, was found on the premises.

The little home consists of but one room, and in it there is a bed, table, stove and other furnishings, which went to make up very comfortable quarters for the aged woman.

Caught By Constable.

The stove and the table in the house are close together, and it is alleged that Suddard, the prisoner, was crouched down between the stove and the table, when Constable Mullinger walked into the house. He made no attempt to get away, and gave the constable no trouble whatever.

Mrs. Job was lying on the bed, and her body was almost nude. Her nightgown had been torn. The bed clothing was confused, and there were bloodstains on the wall, but nothing else in the room was disturbed, so that whatever struggle there was between the woman and her assailant probably occurred in the bed. It is believed that the woman stayed in bed, and did not get up, but of course, owing to her age, she would be unable to protect herself in any way.

Arraigned in Police Court.

The Police Court room was filled to overflowing shortly after 10 o'clock on Saturday morning when Suddard was arraigned on a charge of murder. He did not plead, and D. A. Givens, who was present, stated that he had been retained as counsel for the accused. He made no plea on behalf of the accused. The Magistrate then remanded him for a week, stating that in the meantime an inquest would be held.

"Alfred E. Suddard, you are charged that on the 31st day of July, 1915, you did unlawfully murder one, Nancy Job," said the Magistrate, reading out the charge in full.

The young prisoner stood up in the prisoner's dock, but made no response. He appeared to be dazed over the whole affair, and did not utter a word. He looked around the room in a bewildered sort of way. Immediately Mr. Givens announced to the Magistrate that he was appearing for the accused.

Suddard then sat down. All the time he was in court he appeared to be very nervous and worried, and moved about in his seat in a restless manner. He was dressed in a blue suit, and was minus both collar and tie. He has red curly hair, and as he sat waiting for his name to be called he kept rubbing his hands over his face and through his hair.

Many Visited Home.

Through curiosity, many people paid a visit to the scene of the awful crime Saturday morning. Of course they could not get into the house, as it was locked up. After the body was removed, in the early hours of the morning, and the accused young man taken to the police station, the door was locked on the orders of the coroner, in order that nothing might be disturbed, and so a thorough inspection of the premises could be made later on in the morning in daylight.

The little home is situated in the long row of stone houses. Just as you enter the main door from the street there is a hallway extending through about twenty feet to the back yard. Directly to the left as you enter there is a door. This leads to Mrs. Job's quarters. On the other side, directly opposite to this door, is another which leads to the home of Mrs. Perry.

Inquest Saturday Night.

On Saturday morning coroner Mundell had Dr. Thomas Little, assisted by Hendry Connell, son of Dr. J. C. Connell, conduct a post mortem examination on the body of the dead woman, and their report will be presented at the inquest, which will open in the Police Court room on Saturday night at eight o'clock. Coroner Mundell will preside. Constable Samuel Arniel was engaged on Saturday serving summonses on people who will be called as witnesses.

A sad incident in connection with the affair was noted at the police station on Saturday. The father of the young man, who stands charged with the murder is employed as a carter, and a business card bearing his name and his business, was noticed tacked up on the wall. It had been left there for business purposes.

There were but two cases on at the Police Court Saturday morning, that of Suddard and a young man accused of driving his auto at an immoderate rate of speed. The speeder came up first, and was fined $5 and costs, but little interest was taken in his case, as all eyes were fixed on Suddard.

FACULTY RESULTS.

Students Who Have Passed the Examinations.

(Special to the Whig.)
Toronto, July 31.—Results of the upper school examinations for entrance to the Faculties of Education at Kingston and Toronto are:

Frontenac—S. M. Fleming (Pt. 2, Honors); A. Gardner (Pt. 2); K. A. Jeffrey (Pt. 2); R. Scammell (Pt. 2).
Lennox and Addington—E. R. Gordon (Pt. 1); M. Hamm (Pt. 1); W. Hamm (Pt. 1); S. A. Mcgreer (Pt. 2, Biology); V. McLaughlin (Pt. 2); M. Whiteman (Pt. 2).

Serious Food Shortage.

Washington, July 31.—So serious has the food shortage become in Mexico City that the United States will make immediate representations to Carranza and Zapata, urging that provisions be permitted to get through to the starving people in the capital. Stories of alarming condition have reached the State Department under date of July 25th.

1000 Islands—Rochester

SS. Casplan leaves on Sundays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 10.40 a.m. for 1000 Islands (50c), and at 5 p.m. for Rochester, via Bay of Quinte.

FRONTENAC COUNTY GETTING INTO LINE

The old historic County of Frontenac, bearing one of the proudest and most honored names among the counties of Canada, does not intend to lag behind in the performance of any of its patriotic duties. During the past three days petitions have been circulated widely throughout the townships, calling upon the councils to donate $1,000 for the purchase of a machine gun. These petitions have been in charge of such enterprising residents as W. S. Anglip, Battersea; James Toland, Sunbury, and Andrew McFadden, Inverary. In all cases the petitions were very largely signed and will be laid before the Township Council at its meeting at Sunbury on Monday, August 2nd, when it is expected that action will be taken.

Fifty Men To Give $20 Each.

A well-known resident of the country called at the Whig office on Saturday morning to state that he would contribute $20 towards the purchase of a machine gun if forty-nine other residents of the county would do the same. He wished the Whig to publish this offer and to accept donations for the fund, if others were willing to come forward, as he believed they would be.

Frontenac has been the scene of many stirring events in the early history of Canada, and it is expected that now in such a crisis in the affairs of our Empire that the loyal residents of the district will generously respond to the call. The Whig will be pleased to receive any contributions and will acknowledge them in the columns of the paper.

JOHN LAIDLAW & SON

TO-NIGHT

This will be an attractive shopping place, as we have a number of particularly good things that are seasonable and much in demand, and some of these at prices greatly below their value.

100 Women's Fine White Nightgowns

Two Styles.

Made from Fine White Nainsook Cotton, one with square neck and yoke of tucks and fine embroidery, 3-4 length sleeve, finished with beading and frill of embroidery.

Another make has high neck and yoke of hemstitched tucks and embroidered insertion, front and neck finished with dainty embroidery frill, long sleeves finished with embroidery frill. Sizes 56, 58, 60 inch. These are worth $1.25 to $1.50.

Yours To-Night, 75c Each

White Silk Gloves

Wrist lengths—2 domes—fingers with double tips 50c that give excellent wear; all wanted sizes. Pair

LONG WHITE SILK GLOVES

Elbow length, double tipped fingers, properly shaped—a perfect fitting Glove. Pair 75c Other makes $1.25 and $1.00.

WHITE LISLE GLOVES

In both long and short makes. All wanted sizes ready. The short wrist at 35c. The long lengths, 49c.

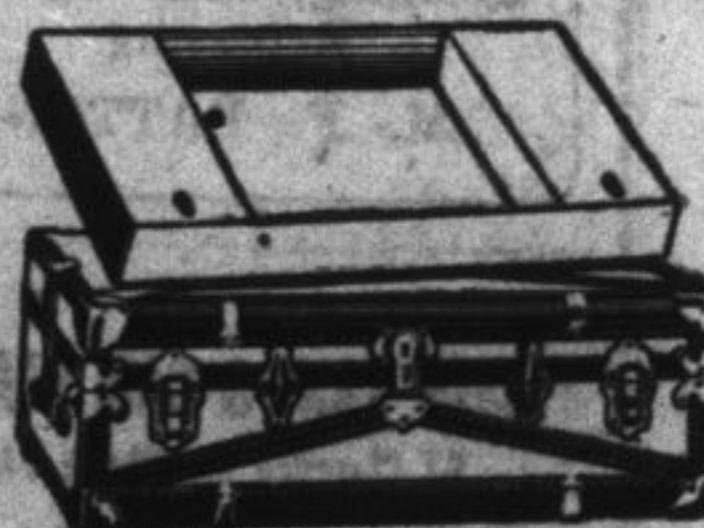

BLACK SILK GLOVES in short and long makes; all wanted sizes.

Cool Underwear, Cool Hosiery, Cool Neckwear, 150 New Blouses

Just placed in stock, a number of really beautiful new designs. Now ready for to-night.

John Laidlaw & Son

Travelling Goods

We are selling a new Fibre Trunk which is indestructible, made of very hard fibre; round corners, Yale lock and new design bolts. This trunk is made also in the large size as well as the steamer.

The Lockett Shoe Store