

A LIFETIME OF SICKNESS

Worn Out, Thin and Miserable Until She Took "Fruit-a-tives"

Paterson, June 20th, 1914.
"My dear Mother and Sister,
I have been nearly driven wild. Some time ago, I got a box of "Fruit-a-tives," your famous fruit medicine, and they completely relieved me. To-day I am feeling fine and a physician, meeting me on the street, asked the reason for my improved appearance. I said, "I am taking Fruit-a-tives." He said, "If Fruit-a-tives make you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can."

SUDDARD STANDS ACCUSED OF MURDER

heard the man say, "who is there, are you alone?" Mrs. Job said, "I am alone woman." Then she heard the man break in the door and shortly afterwards heard some person exclaim, "O my God," and she supposed it was Mrs. Job. She also heard a person give "two awful moans" as she expressed it.

Witness then told of getting her little daughter out of bed and putting her out the front window to get assistance. Her little girl asked to be allowed to go for help. Witness said that when she got out of bed, she went to her own door, which was locked, and held it in an endeavor to prevent the man from getting in should he try. The street door was open.

May Avada Perry, aged thirteen daughter of the previous witness, told of going for assistance. Wilson Lloyd, the young man the little girl hailed for assistance, told his story. He was passing Mrs. Job's house, on the opposite side of the street. When the girl accosted him he walked back and forth across the road, but as he could hear no noise, and as he had no matches he ran to Princess street for a police constable, and located Constable Mullinger. He accompanied Constable Mullinger back to Mrs. Job's house. The constable entered first, and he followed him. The little girl led them to the room. Mrs. Job was alive when he entered the room, and he immediately proceeded to give first aid. He told of Constable Mullinger arresting Suddard, who was crouched down behind a table.

Asked by Mr. Givens, witness said that Suddard was apparently intoxicated. Constable Mullinger said that when he reached Mrs. Job's room, it was in darkness. He lit some matches, and as he was walking in, he could see that there was a woman lying in the bed, and that she was in a dying condition. Some person then came in with a lamp. He looked over to a stove, about two feet away from the bed, and noticed Suddard in a crouching position. He placed him under arrest. Asked as to Suddard's condition witness said:

"He had been drinking, but I would not arrest him for being drunk. He did not stagger. When I arrested him he put his right hand in his pocket. I said to him 'what have you got in your pocket?' He said 'I got a dollar bill.' I took his hand out his pocket."

Did the boots worn by the prisoner "squeak" asked the Coroner. "They squeaked" a little, but not much. Witness added that he had searched the house for a knife or some instrument but could not find any. A part of the wall was splattered with blood, and the pillows and blankets on the bed were also saturated with blood. The prisoner's hand and face were also covered with blood.

"He had so much blood on his face that I did not know him at first," said the witness. Upon his arrival at the police station, the accused acted as if he were drunk. "How did he talk?" asked Mr. Whiting. "He talked all right." Witness also told Mr. Whiting that he never knew of the accused being mentally unbalanced.

At this stage, Mr. Whiting asked that the knife found on the accused be produced. It was produced by Chief of Police Baillie, and shown to the jury. It is a very small pocket knife. There was no blood stains on the knife.

To Mr. Givens Constable Mullinger said he had made a careful inspection of the room, and had found no knife or weapon of any kind. Dr. Mylks was recalled by the Coroner, and asked concerning the injuries the woman had received. "From the appearance of her face, what in your opinion was the manner in which the injuries were inflicted?"

AN OLD BOY PREACHED

AND HE WAS HEARD WITH MUCH ACCEPTANCE.

In a Church Where His Early Days Were Spent—He Discussed the Gospel of the Open Window, in Splendid Fashion. Rev. Frederic Gill, a Unitarian pastor at Arlington, Mass., and whose early life was associated with Queen-Street Methodist Church, was the preacher on Sunday, and practically all of the sermon was devoted to the gospel of the open window, the open heart and the open life—the cultivation of all the graces and virtues of a splendid life devoted to service, to cheer, to hope, to courage and to a realization of God's great love and care. There were too many lives given over to gloom, to closed doors and windows, living narrow, contracted lives. Open the windows towards the sunshine, the brightness, the goodness in the world, and share in uplifting and ennobling others. It was a sermon full of optimism and delivered in an impressive way. His sentences were short and snappy, and his illustrations vivid and realistic. During the sermon he spoke of the war. He said the New England States were intensely pro-British, favored the cause of the British Empire, and in many cases there was the conviction that in the struggle for freedom and liberty the United States should be in it with Britain. This might be the ultimate end. Britain and the United States had ten times more things in common than they had in differences.

Give Warm Welcome.

A sermon based upon "Practical Religion" was listened to with interest in Union Street Baptist Church on Sunday evening. The blind speaker, W. Francis, Bishop, Ont., took his text from James 1:7: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." The careful how you touch the man you meet, said Mr. Francis. To some people to help them is hurtful, while in other cases they are deserving Christian assistance. We want no pretence nor gloss to religion. I have gone into a church and been removed from one pew to another, as though I was not welcome, and had been on the verge of going out doors. Afterwards when the people found out that I was a preacher their opinion changed. This, asserted the speaker, is not the qualities a church should have. No matter how rich or poor a person is who enters the sacred edifice, a warm welcome should be extended.

Preached His Last Sermon.

"Keep yourselves in the love of God." This passage of Scripture was selected by Rev. J. W. McIntosh on Sunday evening in his farewell message closing his pastorate at Cooke's Church. After a well-earned holiday of a few weeks, Rev. Mr. McIntosh will leave to take his new charge at St. Paul's Church, Prince Albert, Sask. A large congregation was present Sunday evening to hear the retiring pastor who is beloved by every member of his congregation. Representatives were present from sister churches, and to these representatives Mr. McIntosh returned thanks for kindly assistance in his work. During the service Mr. Beeroff rendered a fine solo.

"Keep yourselves in the love of God," said the speaker. "This is a message for any congregation to receive and remember. This great love purified, strengthened and imparted peace." During his remarks the speaker asked the question, "Is not this an age in which prayer is deprecated?" He felt that there should be a re-establishment of the family altar in the homes of members of the congregation. The members of Cooke's Church have arranged for a farewell social on Tuesday evening, when they will have an opportunity of saying good-bye to Mr. McIntosh, and the latter will also have another message to give to the people.
