WALDRON'S

KINGSTON CONSTABLES

WHO FIGURED IN THE JOB MURDER CASE.

Constable Thomas Mullinger Discovers Body of Aged Woman and Caught Albert E. Suddard in House - Constable Armstrong Sent in Call For Ambulance.

Police Constable Thomas Mullinger, who arrested Albert E. Suddard in connection with the murder of Mrs. Nancy Job, has been a member of the Kingston police force for eleven years and five months. He was born in this city, and for a time lived on Wolfe Island. In addition to his service as a constable for the city, he sailed over twenty years on the great lakes.

Constable Mullinger entered the little home of Mrs. Job on the morning of July 31st about one o'clock, in response to a complaint made to him that a man had broken into the house. On entering he found Mrs. Job lying on her bed in a dying condition, and Suddard, the accused, was crouching under a table, a few feet away from the bed.

Police Constable Marshall Armstrong was the second constable to arrive at the scene of the murder. He was walking his beat on Princess street the morning of the murder, when a brother officer had been called to a house on Wellington street, giving the direction, and that he might need assistance.

Constable Mullinger had Suddard in charge when he arrived, and a medical student named Lloyd was working over the aged woman. Constable Armstrong sent in a call for the ambulance, but Mrs. Job died before she could be removed.

Constable Armstrong has been a member of the Kingston police force for six years and five months.

Not in many years has the city been so stirred as over this murder, which is regarded by every one as the most brutal ever committed in this part of the country. The woman, in addition to having both eyes blackened, suffered several serious cuts which appeared to be stab wounds, but in spite of the search made by the police, no knife or weapon of any kind was found in the house, and the question as to what instrument was used to inflict the wounds has not yet been solved.

Shaw Pleaded Guilty to the Theft of Money, and Will Have to Stand Trial—Had to Get Money Somehow

Frederick Shaw, a former attendant at Rockwood Hospital, pleaded "guilty" to the charge of stealing $32 and a raincoat from other attendants, and was committed to stand trial by Justice of the Peace George Hunter on Saturday morning. Shaw was arrested in Montreal on Thursday night, as he was about to board a steamer for England.

The story of the accused is sad. He acknowledges that he took the money, but is willing to pay it back. His wife and family are in England. On account of the illness of his wife he was trying to get home. He claims that on account of the very small wages paid at the hospital he could not save enough money to get home, and for that reason he was compelled to get it by other means. He had been working for $20, and was expected to clothe himself and keep a family.

He will appear before Judge Lavell in the course of a week's time.

OBITUARY

Death of W. L. Woolf. There passed away at his home in Hillier on July 29th, 1915, William L. Woolf, after a protracted illness of several months, during which time he underwent several operations at the General Hospital in Toronto for that insidious disease, cancer of the stomach.

Mr. Woolf was an enterprising and successful farmer, a kind and obliging neighbor, and will be much missed. He had several years' experience in the Municipal Council, and was a member for the present year. He leaves a wife and seven children—two boys and five girls.

The Late Mrs. D. K. Saul.

On Thursday last a gloom was cast over Camden East and vicinity, when the news spread of the death of Mrs. D. K. Saul, in Kingston General Hospital, where she had gone to undergo an operation, after an illness of about a month at her own home. Deceased was about forty-three years of age. Her maiden name was Anna Marshall. She was married to Mr. Saul eighteen years ago, and leaves to mourn her loss four children, Harry, Jessie, Earl and little Marjory, besides a husband and several sisters and brothers, some of whom from Toronto and New York State attended the funeral. The funeral took place last Saturday afternoon in the Methodist Church, and was the largest for several years.

TEMPTING THEM.

(Special to the Whig.) London, Aug. 7.—Telegraphing from Petrograd the correspondent of the Morning Post says: "The Russians are now beginning a centrifugal movement by which they will have several powerful armies always tempting the Germans yet deeper in to fathomless Russia."

BIG CONTRACT FOR BOOTS

Eleven Thousand Pairs Ordered For the Troops. Ottawa, Aug. 7.—A contract for 110,000 pairs of boots of military pattern for Canada's troops was yesterday awarded by the purchasing committee to a number of firms. It is understood the price ranged from $3.90 to $4.

The new boot embodies the features recommended by S. R. Wickett, Toronto, the expert called in by General Hughes to advise as to a new pattern. It is a tan shoe of side leather, but it is understood that a black foot of a better grade of calf is to be tried out in the near future, a number of Canadian manufacturers having a quantity of this and of leather on hand.

Milkmen's Machine Gun Fund Opened

On Saturday the first subscription to the Milkmen's Machine Gun Fund was received, when Smith Elliott, farmer for Canada Steamships Ltd., called at the Whig office and handed in his cheque for $50.00.

Now that the ball has been started rolling, who will follow suit? There is no need to enlarge upon the seriousness of the present situation or the necessity for more and still more guns to equip our Canadian Battalions, for the milk dealers know these facts quite as well as anybody else. The only thing now is: What are you going to do? If you can't go to the front yourself, you can at least make a gift of money to help those who do. Send along your bit to-day.

The fund is now open. Smith Elliott . . . $50.00
