DIARY OF OCEAN TRIP
KEPT BY MEMBER OF QUEEN'S REINFORCEMENTS.

Bluejackets and Soldiers Watched In War Zone With Loaded Rifles—Met By British Torpedo Boat Destroyer.
A young Kingstonian, who went overseas with Queen's Hospital reinforcements, has written his parents the following description of their trip across the Atlantic:
"We are now in the middle Atlantic and are having excellent weather. The mail left Montreal on the morning of Wednesday, July 21st, and proceeded down the river to Quebec where we picked up some blue-jackets and soldiers. The soldiers came from Valcartier and the blue-jackets from Halifax. We pulled into Quebec at 5 p.m. and left just as the lights in the citadel were lit. The following morning we were out at 5.15 and had physical drill, breakfast, and a lecture on obedience."
"The boys were talking to some of the tars who came on board. They had some wonderful stories to relate. Some had seen action in the Dardanelles and some in other minor battles. We have 2,500 tons of munitions aboard, so if a torpedo hits us it is all night with us."
"The whole bunch were inoculated on Friday and we had some sore arms for a while. We had nothing to do for forty-eight hours except sleep and nurse our arms. I saw a flying fish on Sunday."
"We had an escort until out of sight of the Canadian shores of a gunboat, The Canada. We ought to pick up another escort shortly as we are about to enter the war zone. We have had no rough weather since leaving Canada and for that reason there are no sea-sick soldiers aboard. No war news has been received since we left Quebec."
"July 28th—We are still having fine weather and are now in the war zone but have not picked up an escort. Last night a ship passed us in war paint. She had the name painted in large letters and was flying a large flag."
"July 29th—On account of not picking up our escort we are now changing our course but are still in the war zone. There are picked up with loaded rifles on the deck. The tars are good shots so that if a submarine should show itself there will be trouble. The other day one of the officers with one shot picked off a flying fish while the boat was going at full speed. Our escort came up at 3.15. She just took fifteen minutes from the time that she appeared on the horizon until she was at the side of us. She was the torpedo boat destroyer Lenox No. 2. We land at Devonport to-morrow morning."

RECEIVED SEVERE BURNS
While Lighting Gas Range in Col-lender Hotel.
While attempting to light the burners of a gas range in the kitchen of the Collender Hotel, 312 King street, on Sunday morning, Mrs. Nellie McConnell was badly burned about the face and shoulders. From what can be learned of the accident, Mrs. McConnell must have unthinkingly turned the gas jet on before she opened the door of the range. Before the gas had all escaped from the oven, Mrs. McConnell applied the lighted match. In an instant the flame shot forth and enveloped her head, singeing her eyebrows and a considerable portion of her hair and causing some painful burns upon her face.
Assistance was sent for and W. W. Gibson, druggist, responded with some ointment that relieved the pain somewhat. Mrs. McConnell in spite of the burns was able to be around on Monday.

Besides her husband, there is left to mourn one son and one daughter.

FARMERS ON LOW LAND.
Cannot Cut Their Grain Till Ground Is Drier.
"The farmers of Frontenac who happen to live on low land are hoping and praying for a week of dry weather so that they can start to cut the grain," stated a prominent farmer to the Whig.
Upon making enquiries, the Whig finds that farmers living on low land are compelled to wait until the ground dries up before a binder can be used. In places the ground is so soft, due to the constant rain, that the binder wheels sink so far into the mud that it is impossible for the farmer to use the machinery.
In many places the grain is very much discolored due to the wet weather. The discoloring of the grain reduces the value.
A Catarqui resident, speaking to the Whig, remarked that the rain was doing great damage to potatoes, tomatoes, celeris and lettuce. In some of the gardens the vegetables are almost flooded out.
Farmers who live on high ground have commenced to cut their grain, and report the crop to be very large.

IN THE POLICE COURT
WILLIAM JACKSON GIVEN NINE MONTHS IN JAIL

For Stealing a Bicycle Owned by a Soldier—He Was Before the Court Some Time Ago For Theft.
Nine months in jail was the sentence imposed on William Jackson, aged twenty-one years, who pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a Massey-Harris bicycle, the property of Allan Davis, a soldier at Barrieffield Camp, by Police Magistrate Farrell in Police Court on Monday morning.
Jackson, it appears, has a mania for stealing. Magistrate Farrell, in pronouncing sentence, said: "Jackson, your record is not in your favor. You appeared before in this Court on the charge of theft, but I gave you a chance, thinking that you might improve your ways, but you did not."
The accused has already served time in the county jail.
One day last week he called at the house where Allan Davis lived, and stated that he had been given permission to take the bicycle. The owner of the house thinking that his story was true, gave him the wheel. When Davis discovered the bicycle missing, he swore out a warrant for the accused. On Saturday morning Police Constable Marshall Armstrong placed him under arrest.
William Smith pleaded guilty to being drunk, and was taxed $1 and costs or ten days.
Another drunk, who had not been before the Court for three and one half years, was given a chance.

A Splendid Result.
On Monday morning Stanley Trotter, president of the City Baseball League handed over to J. G. Elliott, honorary secretary-treasurer of the Mowat Memorial Hospital, the sum of $212.30 the receipts of the benefit baseball game played last week in aid of the hospital. The directors of the hospital appreciate what the young men have done. The greatest part of the credit is due to Stanley Trotter who worked day and night to make the game such a success.

Weather Notes.
Local thunder storms have occurred in Ontario, while showers have been fairly general in Quebec and the Maritime provinces. In the west, the weather has been fine except that rain is now falling at Swift Current. The West India hurricane is now approaching the Texas coast.

OGDENSBURG EXCURSION.
About 900 Silk Mill Employees and Friends Here.
The employees of the Ogdensburg Silk Mills, who paid a visit to the city on Saturday afternoon, went away delighted with their stay in the old Limestone City. The steamer Thousand Islander, which carried 900 of the employees and their friends, arrived in the city about 12.30 o'clock. When the boat arrived, H. C. Nickle, of the Street Railway Company, had street cars waiting to take the visitors to Lake Ontario Park where they spent part of the afternoon.
One of the officials of the company stated that the employees always want to come to Kingston. When the ballot was taken where the picnic would be held more of the employees voted for Kingston than all the other places put together. The excursion is an annual affair. The silk company pays all expenses from the time the excursionists leave until they get back. There were almost 1,800 street car fares collected from the excursionists. The steamer left here at five o'clock.
Yesterday being the Festival of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary in St. Mary's Cathedral, Pontifical Mass was celebrated by the Archbishop. The choir sang "The Angels' Mass." At the offertory, Mr. O'Connor sang "The Ave Maria." America, 11.30 a.m., for Picton. Home at 9.30 p.m.
