NOT READY TO TALK

MAY ASK GERMANY TO RECALL DIPLOMATS AT WASHINGTON

United States Government Investigating Charges and Disclosures With Regard to Their Activities. Washington, Aug. 18.—Officials of the Administration are engaged with the charges and disclosures that are now appearing daily in certain newspapers in regard to the activities of German diplomatic and secret service agents in the United States.

Among Government officials there is a disposition to be conservative in regard to these disclosures affecting Germany's diplomatic representatives in this country. In all the mass of charges against German representatives that has appeared in the public prints recently there is, however, according to Washington official view, one thing that stands out clearly, and that is that there is ample ground for complaint against the extra-diplomatic activities of the Kaiser's representatives in this country.

Arden Officer Got British Army Commission—His Father Died At Marlbank Last Winter.

No particulars were received other than that he had met death on August 7th at the Dardanelles while fighting with the Northumberland Fusiliers.

It was on August 16th 1914, that Capt. Mouck left Arden to join the recruits of the 47th Regiment who went overseas with the First Canadian contingent. Before leaving home he closed up his place of business.

EXCHANGE RATES DECLINE.

Delay of Great Britain in Establishing a Credit.

New York Herald. The decline in sterling and French exchange was due to the enormous offerings of bills against war contracts. Those offerings were so large foreign exchange experts declared that the market was not without support. In that respect it differed from Thursday's market, which seemed to have been left entirely to its own resources. In the middle of the afternoon an important private banking house came in and bought about $5,000,000 of exchange on London. That strengthened the tone for the time being, but the weakness returned. The delay of Great Britain in establishing a credit here was ascribed to the vast problem involved.

"Great Britain is virtually financing all the Allies," said the head of one national bank. "The British bankers want to solve the puzzle properly. They do not want to try any hedge podge financing. They realize it will require about $750,000,000 to restore conditions in the exchange market, and they do not want to try to meet that situation with a $50,000,000 or $100,000,000 credit."

"The basis of their credit undoubtedly will be American securities, of which more than $2,000,000,000 are held in England. If the owners will not lend them to the government voluntarily on guarantee of interest something will be done to compel them to do so or to sell them. That could be accomplished by taxation."

CONSCIENCE MARRIAGE.

A Short Cut to Individualism and Material Achievements.

Pictorial Review, September, 1915. Scandinavia has originated the "conscience marriage." It is without any legal tie. There is simply an announcement in the newspapers that this man and this woman take each other for husband and wife.

Fru Anna Wiksell, who studied law and got her degree when her grown son received his at the University of Lund, of which her husband is the rector, may not be interfered with in the practice of law. For she is not under the "guardianship" of her husband. It was at an international convention that a group of women were discussing: "What is perfect happiness? No one could tell exactly. Only Anna Wiksell answered smilingly: 'I have found it.' She had just celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of her "conscience marriage." This marital freedom has come in Scandinavia, as it always must, through economic freedom.

Opportunities for hard manual labor, it is true, have seldom been closed to her. But the professions have been more exclusive. The way into these is through the higher institutions of learning. The universities were opened to women in Scandinavia in the sixties.

IMPORTS TO CANADA

HAVE BEEN GREATLY CURTAILED BY THE WAR

There Was a Decrease Of Nearly Thirty Per Cent For The Year Ending With May.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The effect of the war in curtailing Canadian imports of luxuries and things other than the actual necessities of life is evident in the figures of importation for the twelve months ending with May last, as just published by the Department of Trade and Commerce. The imports of carriages, carts, cars, etc., were more than eleven million less for the twelve months that they were for the preceding twelve months, the totals being $7,420,000, as compared with $18,560,000. Importations of silks fell off by two millions; of tobacco by more than a million; of precious stones by $1,300,000; of watches by $600,000; of books, periodicals, etc., by more than a million; of electric apparatus by three millions; of fancy goods by $2,800,000; of furs by $1,300,000; of fruits by $2,500,000; and of manufacturers of iron and steel by nearly fifty millions, or over 45 per cent.

The total imports of merchandise for the twelve months amounted to $436,159,167, as compared with $591,240,962 for the twelve months preceding, a decrease of a little over $155,000,000 or nearly 26 per cent.

More Tea, Less Liquors.

It is interesting to note that the trade figures show that Canadians are now drinking more tea and less ale, beer and other liquors than formerly. The importations of tea for the twelve months ending with May last amounted to $7,551,350, or an increase of a little more than a million dollars, as compared with the preceding twelve months. On the other hand, the importations of ale, beer and porter amounted to only $7,159, as compared with $7,275,570 for the previous year. A part of this reduction, of course, is due to the fact that German beers, ales, etc., are now out of fashion at all patriotic bars.

U. S. and British Trade.

Another effect of the war on trade currents is seen in the fact that for the twelve months Canada imported from the United States goods to the value of $420,000,000, or twenty-nine millions more than in the preceding year, while from Great Britain the total was $84,628,000, or forty millions less than for the preceding year. On the credit side of the account Canada exported to the United States goods to the value of $220,000,000, or fourteen millions more than for the preceding twelve months, while exports to Great Britain totalled $234,000,000, an increase of eighteen millions.

OFF DAYS FOR CANADIANS.

Not Very Much Fighting Going On Just Now.

London, Aug. 18.—"A group of McGill and Saskatchewan University men who enlisted as reinforcements to the Princess Patricia's have been under fire," a corporal from Regina writes from France, saying: "We were billeted in a house about three miles behind the trenches, and we were in the firing line from Monday to Friday night. We go to the trenches, then out for four. Since leaving England we have been nine days in the rest camp, five in the bivouacking camp with the other Pats. The trenches we go to are well built and more comfortable than most. They are 300 to 400 yards from the Germans. Very little is doing now. Shells fall each day behind our lines."
