

School Suits Are Ready

It's time to be thinking of School Suits again!

Start the boy to school with a good suit.

It will help him along in every way. He will command more respect, have more respect for himself and take more interest in his work than he will if he is made to wear an unsightly, ill fitting suit.

School Suits, double breasted style or Norfolk cut; durable materials, strongly put together, well cut, well tailored.

$4, $4.50, $5, $5.50 up to $8

Dressed in one of these excellent School Suits, the boy will do himself justice.

Livingston's
Brock Street.

A little out of the way, but it will pay you to walk.

PICTURE CASE HEARD ARE PITILESSLY SLAIN

IN THE POLICE COURT ON WEDNESDAY MORNING

And Enlarged For a Day—The Magistrate Said He Was Convinced That Fraud Had Been Committed.

"You may have been an angel and have letters of recommendation from archbishops, bishops and governors-general, and then go wrong, and from the evidence submitted in this court you have gone wrong," were the words of Police Magistrate Farrell, when enlarging the case of John Collins, picture agent, who was charged by Mrs. Mary Hay, Queen street, in police court on Wednesday morning with obtaining money under false pretences.

A. B. Cunningham who appeared on behalf of Collins, asked that the case be enlarged until Thursday morning to allow the accused to get another witness who was present when the agent employed by Collins took the order for the picture in dispute.

Mrs. Hay, the first witness called, told of the agent employed by Collins calling at her home and selling her a picture which he said would be an oil painting. He stated that it was the intention of the company which he represented to open a studio in Kingston in the near future, and for that reason they were making a special offer to the wives and mothers of the soldiers who had gone overseas in the line of an enlarged oil painting.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

Readers of the Whig who are not satisfied with their delivery service will do us a favor by reporting same to this office along with the name of the carrier boy who last served them. The paper should be delivered promptly each day, and any failure in this respect will be immediately attended to when brought to our notice.

ing, 14 by 20 inches. He distinctly stated, she testified, that it was neither chalk, crayon nor ink. He asked the sum of $2.98. He also showed her what it would be like and got her to sign a sheet of paper which, according to the opinion of the Court, was valueless.

"I gave him the photo of my son but the firm never returned it. When asked for the photo Collins stated that it would have to be taken off his dead body."

"The agent who got the order did not return but Collins did," said Mrs. Hay. "He came with the photo in a case with my son's picture on one side of the case and an oil painting on the other. My daughter was with me at the time but Collins was alone."

Mr. Givens who appeared for Mrs. Hay, interjected at this point: "Collins told you that the offer was only for the benefit of soldiers' wives and mothers. A nice patriot he is."

"When he came to the house," continued the witness, "he said that it was only the first proof and that he would get the color of hair and eyes, and the picture would be finished in Toronto, but would have to pay him some money so as to cover the cost of the material."

Mrs. Hay stated that she gave him $2 and got a receipt, and was to pay the rest when the picture was finished. He also signed her up for a frame for the same, which he claimed was worth five dollars but she would give it to her for $4.

"When he came with the finished picture," testified Mrs. Hay, "I informed him that it was not an oil painting and he remarked: 'What do you expect to get for your money?' I refused to take the picture."

Cross-examined by Mr. Cunningham, witness swore that she did not order the frame although she acknowledged that she signed a sheet which the company handed her. She told of holding the man in the house and sending a young girl to call the police, who came to her home.

Mrs. Anson, daughter of the complainant, corroborated the statement of her mother.

Magistrate Farrell, in summing up the complainant's side of the case, said that Collins did not produce the oil painting, which he had agreed to do. The paper which he got the woman to sign was not his. The Magistrate also stated that Collins would have to go a long way to convince him that a fraud was not attempted.

The Court was about to dispose of the case when Mr. Cunningham called Collins to the box. The latter told of only making one picture in Kingston for which he was paid $75. He did not misrepresent the goods.

At this point of the procedure D. A. Givens produced documents which showed that Collins had appeared in the police court in Toronto for obtaining money under false pretences, but had made restitution.

The agent who took the order from Mrs. Hay was then called. He stated that he did take an order for an oil painting. He also took occasion to inform the Court that he had been getting notoriety in the local newspapers which he did not deserve.

The other witness will be in court on Thursday morning and the case will be disposed of.

St. George's Meeting.

This evening, St. George's cathedral congregation is to meet with Dean Starr in St. George's hall to discuss with him his request to be given leave of absence to go overseas as a chaplain. The Dean will offer to arrange for supply during his absence, but the congregation wants to be consulted as to the clergyman who shall look after the cathedral work. It is learned that the Dean's terms are not suitable, and that leave of absence will only be given on the congregation's terms.

ARMENIANS PUT TO SWORD REGARDLESS OF AGE OR SEX.

Turkish Scheme To Exterminate the Entire Race Is Being Ruthlessly Carried Into Effect.

London, Aug. 18.—The Daily News has received from Aneurin Williams, M.P., a copy of a letter from Constantinople, dated July 13th, further describing the terrible plight of Armenians in Turkey. The letter says: "We now know with certainty from a reliable source that Armenians have been deported in a body from all towns and villages to the desert regions south of Alop. Refugees will have to traverse on foot a distance requiring marches of from one to two or even more months. We learn besides that the roads and Euphrates River are strewn with corpses of exiles, and those who survive are doomed to certain death, since they will find neither house, work nor food in the desert. It is a plan to exterminate the whole Armenian nation."

"Court-martials" operate everywhere without cessation. Twelve Armenians were hanged at Caesarea on the charge of having obeyed instructions which they had received from a meeting secretly held at Bucharest by Trochak and Henchak societies. Many have fallen from blows from clubs. Thirteen Armenians were killed in this way at Dairbekir and six at Caesarea. Thirteen others were killed on their way from Chabine Karahissa to Sivas. Priests of the village of Kurk, with their five companions, suffered the same fate on the road of Sou Chehrkivias, although they had their hands bound.

"Hundreds of women, young girls and even children groan in prisons. Churches and convents have been pillaged, defiled and destroyed. Villages around Van and Bitlis have been pillaged and the inhabitants put to the sword. At the beginning of this month all inhabitants of Harahissar were pitilessly massacred."

War Tidings.

Barbers were said to be acting as doctors in Russia. The anti-annexation Germans declared that their country was not fighting for more territory. The Germans have lost 120,000 in recent battles in Poland. The Kaiser's staff is so stunned that it has abandoned the contemplated enveloping movement of the Russian army.

WHERE IS OUR DADDY?

The above wee laddies are George Taylor (on left), aged five and a half years, and Sidney Taylor (on right), aged two and a half years. They are children of Private "Jock" Taylor, 13th Battalion, C. E. F., who has been missing since the battle of Langemarck on April 24th, and live with their mother and grandmother at 224 Montreal street, Kingston. Mrs. Murray, their grandmother, has given all her sons to the cause.

The above children came to the Whig office a few days ago to show the reporters their latest picture. When informed that it would be published, they asked that over the cut the words "Where is Our Daddy?" should appear. The elder lad stood at attention, like a little soldier, and recited the following lines:

The Germans have got my daddy,
My soldier dad,
I don't like to hear my mummy cry,
I don't like to hear my mummy sigh,
I'm going in a big ship
Across the raging main;
I'm going to fight the Germans, I am,
To bring my daddy back again.

George McLeod Has Thrilling Times on Ocean

George D. McLeod, a wireless telegraph operator of Kingston and now on a British Admiralty transport, writes of thrilling times dodging German submarines off the English coast. They were near the SS. Now Is The Time to Buy

Prices have already advanced in the general market, owing to the increased duties, freight and insurance, added to the great scarcity of raw materials, and it is very difficult to obtain delivery of many lines.

We consider ourselves fortunate in being able to place large orders in advance for many lines of goods in time to save the high advance in makers' prices and are able to offer you Hosiery, Underwear, Blankets, Flannels, etc., at much less than the present wholesale prices, and we advise an early selection of any of these goods you may require for
