Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local application, as it cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness results, and unless the inflammation is taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases of deafness caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars to E. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. This is not a quack remedy. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

THE WELL-DRESSED MAN

Tendency to Revert to Styles of a Hundred Years Ago.

When is a man well dressed? The question is answered exhaustively in an article in Pearson's Magazine, the rights and wrongs of what to wear and what not to wear being illustrated and explained. Incidentally, the writer makes the interesting suggestion that the next few years will witness a return to the fashions of Georgian days.

"The morning coat, like the lounge jacket, has changed a good deal," he says, "and has, in fact, entirely superseded the frock coat. Its long, rolling lapels, and the curved line from the neck to the tails, indicates a reversion to the clothes of the Georgian period, when the frock coat was a single button, or lined, and an outside breast pocket is correct with this as with all other coats at the moment."

"The tendency towards the styles of our great grandfathers is no passing fancy, and further developments in the 'direction' may be confidently predicted. The Georgian period appeals both to the tailor and the artist. A return to the frocks and laces of the Stuart times would be unthinkable and ridiculous, because such fussy, perishable garments are quite incompatible with modern life; but the clothes of a hundred or so years ago are both picturesque and serviceable. The next step—a slow step, possibly—will probably prove to be the wearing of tight trousers strapped beneath the boots; and the noblest of the Georgian appearance makes him a conspicuous figure wherever he is seen, will awake to find himself in the height of fashion."

SIGNS OF RAIN

Plenty Of Ways Of Telling When A Shower Is Due.

Rollin L. Hart in The Woman's Home Companion.

There are plenty of soundly scientific weather signs that are right before our eyes and vouches for by the best meteorologists. For instance, the "ring around the moon," which is produced by a thin, filmy cloud made up of minute particles of ice—a state of things not built to last. Either some unlooked for commotion will put a stop to it in a different manner or it will pour "cats and dogs" within three days, at most. In eighty-six cases out of a hundred the rule holds good. A still better sign is the "ring around the sun."

This is science, pure and simple, and so is the old maxim: "The farther the sight, the nearer the rain." It is not pessimism that makes people along the coast predict a downpour when they can pick out the separate houses on a far-away island, or come to the mountains in the distance call it "fog or mist"; when a distant peak, generally visible, comes into view. They are shrewd meteorologists in making these predictions, and also in declaring that sounds carry better when a rainstorm is brewing.

MEN'S SUITS TO BE TIGHTER.

Fall Fashions For 1915 Will Follow the "Natural Lines."

New York Mail.

Padless shoulders, snug waists, abbreviated sack coats, tight trousers, and shortened overcoats mark the new clothes edict for men issued recently by the crack designers of the Western World to take effect this fall and winter.

The style experts who make up the Clothing Designers' Association of America held their sessions at the Hotel Martingale. The order is to emphasize the "natural lines" more than ever.

Daniel E. Ryan, an honorary member of the association and a veteran designer, said during the meeting the general tendency would be to follow the "natural lines" more closely than ever before.

"No padding whatever will be used in any of the coats. The waists will be cut snug and there is a tendency among young men to have an extra cut that will accentuate the chest. The sack coats will be slightly shorter than last year, twenty-nine inches being the average length. The sleeves have been trimmed down at the elbows, and there will be less fullness all around."

It is the things we do not do that may speak the loudest against us as good citizens.

It may be for the best that we all try to cover up and conceal the evil in our natures.

Hope rides over a seemingly lot of unmountable difficulties in this old world.

Artificial Avalanches.

The artificial production of real avalanches, either for tourist entertainment or moving pictures, is a curious Swiss industry that the war has interrupted. Explosive cartridges are buried deeply in the snow of lofty ridges, and by means of electric fuses are fired when desired by pressing a button at the station in the valley. The great masses of snow released lack none of the impressive features of the natural slide.
