GARDENING OUTFIT.

The Summer Girl Wears Becoming Clothes When She Works.

GINGHAM GOWN AND CAP.

The summer girl is following the example of her English sister and goes in for gardening. Not "any old thing" will do for this business. Mildly must be clothed in natty, becoming and up to the minute garments. So gingham gowns and caps are shown in the shops which just meet her requirements. And one outfit is shown here built of striped gingham.

WIDER DISTINCTION IN GLOVES AMONG WELL-DRESSED WOMEN

More Attention Is Paid Than Formerly to Article for Various Occasions Many New and Striking Effects Predicted.

While the well dressed woman has always paid special attention to the fit and the color of her gloves, she has been content until quite recently to relegate these essential accessories to two classes—day gloves and evening gloves, long and short. A wider distinction is made nowadays. Gloves are not merely long or short, white, brown or black. There is the reception glove, the glove for the dance and the tallieur glove, and the effect of the costume is marred a bit in the gloves worn with it have not been carefully chosen.

Opinion On Silk Gloves.

Some women, whose taste in dress is unimpeachable, even go further and declare that the silk glove should always be worn with the afternoon or evening frock and the kid glove reserved for the tallieur. Whatever may be the general opinion on this subject, the adaptability of the glove for the summer weather is universally admitted.

Delightful Effect.

A trio of new gloves includes a reception glove in white silk—with a series of tufts stitched in black, extending up the entire arm. The effect is delightful, carrying out, if it does, the black and white stripe idea now so popular. The pointing is in black not too heavy to accord well with the daintiest afternoon costume.

Another novelty which promises to be as popular as the quaint ruffled costumes for which it was designed is a silk glove of white, the novel feature being the plaited frill running up the arm from the wrist to the glove top. This frill comes in black or in all white. This makes an excellent airy complement to the fingerie dress or the popular taffeta gown.

The third glove is an example of the fad for black and white which has seized the fashion makers. Never has a season promised such devotion to a style or color as this season offers in black and white. This silk glove is designed for the travelling gown, the shopping costume or the tallieur. It is of white with black wrist frill and fine black pointing.

The Queen Elizabeth.

The Queen, Elizabeth, as it is termed, also comes in all white, in putty, sand and the fashionable neutral tints. It already has attained a pronounced vogue among up-to-date women.

There are many new ideas shown in the stitching and pointing on silk gloves. An example is the combination of black and white stitching, giving a mottled effect. This appears on both long and short silk gloves and is a detail worth noting.

Hints For Busy Housekeepers.

A dessert to be successful, must be attractive to the eye.

Beans and peas are too much alike to be used at the same meal.

Pearl tapioca makes a delicate and excellent thickening for soups.

Don't use sooty pans and kettles in cooking—they take longer to heat.

Apple sauce should always be eaten to counterbalance sausage and pork.

Prunes hidden in a meringue, the meringue browned in the oven, make a delicious dessert.

After scrubbing thoroughly, make a few slits in the skins of potatoes that are to be baked.

Common soap, rubbed on the hinges of a creaking door, will do away with the trouble.

Toilet Hints.

Rosewater, eight ounces, and tincture of benzoin, two drams, make one of the best skin tonics and whiteners.

For a severe headache a towel wrung out of hot water and applied to the back of the neck will often give instant relief.

Of the 1,345 blind females ten years of age and over, as reported at the last census, 167, or 12.4 per cent, were returned as musicians or teachers.

As farmers, 132, or 9.4 per cent, as knitters, 86, or 6.4 per cent, as fancy workers, and 56, or 4.2 per cent, as professors, school principals and teachers.

An easy name to remember. A hard tea to forget.

WINDSOR, N.S., Aug. 25.—A gigantic figure 7 was seen all last night in the sky between here and Hantsport. Later it turned slowly into a question mark. All Hants County is on trail of that 7th point. Public mass meeting called for this afternoon at fair grounds.

What?

A man is more apt to love a woman in spite of her faults than because of her virtues. When an old man courts a young woman he soon realizes that all the world loves to laugh at a lover.

Rivals Her Daughter in Youthful Beauty

A well-known society matron whose youthful beauty is so well preserved that she is regarded as her daughter's rival in this respect—though she does not pose as such—attributes her girlish complexion chiefly to two things. She says:

"I am convinced that many complexion, by overloading the skin and pores, tend to age the complexion. Mercurochrome wax has just the opposite effect. It keeps the pores clean, permitting them to breathe, and removes dead particles of cuticle which are constantly appearing and which give the complexion that faded look. Whenever my skin begins to get the least bit ofered, I apply this nightly, like cold cream, for a week or so, washing it off mornings. This is what keeps my complexion so fresh, white and velvety, even during the trying days of summer."

The absence of wrinkles and sabbiness I owe to the use of a simple face bath prepared by dissolving one ounce of powdered asanin in a half pint which hasel. This keeps the skin tight and firm.—Social Register.

Baby and Summer Colic

See that it is pure—proof against sourness and infection by flies, etc. See that it is nourishing, digestible, and suited to baby's age, growth and digestive powers.

A LATE SUMMER SUGGESTION

Chints as a Fabric For Dresses is Meeting With Much Favor.

Now we are quite used to chints as a fabric for home decoration, and most of us are well acquainted with the beauties of this dainty fabric. But only a clever woman would think of dressing herself in the same fabric in which she decorates her furniture and windows. And yet chints as a dress material is altogether delightful, having cheapness as well as beauty to recommend it.

A chint chosen for a gown is in one of the new Foret designs, with a white background, upon which black lines in check design are drawn. A tiny red and a tiny purple flower fills the white squares. The skirt is made quite plain like a tennis model and comfortably full, so that walking in it is easy. Its only ornamentations are two huge gathered pockets, which are placed on either side of the hip, a little above the knee.

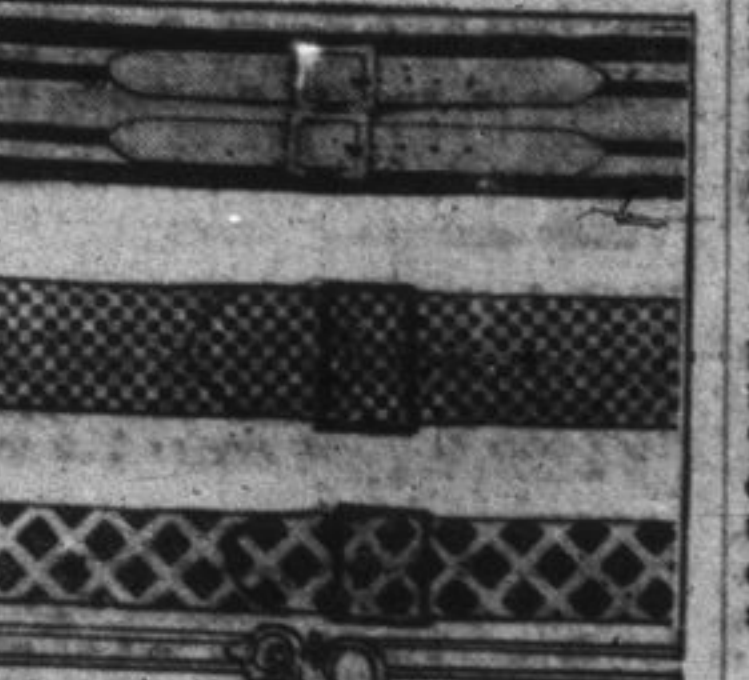

A dainty white shirt waist, ornamented with a chint collar and cuffs, completes this effective costume.

Chints of a very charming and new pattern can be purchased for 35 cents a yard, and three yards will be quite enough to make the entire costume. This makes the actual cost come to about a dollar. A good skirt pattern can be bought for 10 cents, and this will make things easy. From the scraps left after the skirt is cut out and made collars and cuffs for a last year's shirt waist can be devised. This will give the blouse a new air and will make it correspond with the chint skirt. If you have a last year's straw hat that looks quite hopelessly old cover it with the same chint and edge it with ball furniture fringe, which is 5 cents a yard. The result will be as smart an outfit as could be desired for a sum which will not exceed $1.50.

NEW AND NATTY BELTS.

Black and White Has Invaded the Domain of Beltdom.

The lower two belts shown in this illustration are made of white kid and are stamped in black in a checker-board or block design. They come in various patterns and in several widths.

THREE DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

The third or top belt is a striking white kid belt, decorated with narrow stitched bands of black suede in two widths. Two stitched straps of the white kid with covered buckle ends form the fastening.

Hint For Buttonholes.
When working buttonholes on bias material, or goods which ravel, first stretch the material stiff and then stretch the material will then neither stretch nor ravel.

Don't Tell All You Know.

The little daughter of the hostess looked long and inquiringly at the guest who she had been told was a very learned man and a professor. During a lull in the conversation she spoke up. "What do you do in college, please, sir?" "I am a professor, my dear," was the reply. "I impart my knowledge to the students."

Then if you keep on that way," she said soberly, "pretty soon you won't know anything yourself, will you?"

Ladies' Home Journal.

He Lived as a Woman.

John, alias Elizabeth Russell, died at Stratford in April, 1772, at the age of 104. Early in life Russell associated himself with the gipsies and went wandering over the continent. Returning to England, dressed as a woman, he set up at Stratford as a female doctor and fortune teller, and among other things was "an excellent sempstress and celebrated for making a good shirt." Among his acquaintances was Dr. Johnson, who, finding the supposed woman shrewd and sensible, was fond of conversing with "her." Russell died suddenly, when his sex was discovered, "to the extreme amazement of the neighborhood."—London Spectator.

Vice of Earth Eating.

In certain parts of tropical America the natives are much addicted to geophagy, or earth eating. The injurious habit of earth eating is formed almost from the hour of their birth, and mothers, to quiet a squalling child, will give it a lump of clay pulled from the wall of their hut. As the children grow up the longing increases, and to gratify the yearning they will barter their very souls for a lump of white clay, beside which delicate spirits and tobacco are reckoned of no account. This vice is, in the long run, fatal, producing dropsy in the young and dysentery in the middle aged. Those thoroughly in its grip are judged worthless as servants.—Parson's.

Dictates of Fashion.

Foulard seems never to be out of fashion. All white is quite as fashionable as black. Bordered chiffons are revived for this summer. Black and white stripes compose many blouses. Some navy gabardine suits have tan buttonholes. Gathered skirts frequently have shirred waist lines. Many blouses are of pierced gill or oxidized silver. Wings on hats are sometimes cut into curious designs.
