LITTLE COAT OF ROSE SILK POPLIN.

quires 2 1/2 yards 36-inch material and 1 yard of silk for the lining.
Make the little lining first by closing the underarm and shoulder seams and hemming the front. For the outer front and back close underarm and shoulder seams as notched, turn hem in right front at notch. Gather lower edge of front and back between double "C" perforations. Arrange on lining, center-backs, front edges and under-arm seams even; stitch lower edges together. Face collar and sew to neck edge as notched.
Gather lower edge of sleeves between double "T" perforations, sew sleeveband to lower edge, notches and seams even, close seam as notched. Close cuff as notched.
Turn hem of skirt at front edge at notches. Close center-back seam. Sew to lower edge of waist, center-fronts and center-backs even.
If the tunic is used turn under upper edge and the right front edge on slot perforations. Form cord shirring, crossing on cross-lines of small "C" perforations; stitch 3-16 inch from folded edges, inserting cord. If made with straight lower edge turn under lower edge 2 1/2 inches. Arrange on skirt, center-backs and front edges even; stitch the upper row of corded shirring along upper edge of skirt and draw cord to fit skirt. If tunic is made frills of taffeta. Four year size re- full length the skirt may be omitted.

Child's Empire coat of rose silk poplin trimmed with frills of taffeta in the same shade.

A light weight wrap to slip on over summer frocks is among the imperative needs of little Miss Fashion's wardrobe also. Lending itself to the vogue for Empire effects is this charming coat in rose colored silk poplin. The short yoke has a lining of silk, while the one-piece sleeves are gathered into cuffs of their own material, finishing along the upper edge with frills of taffeta. Four year size re-

PILING UP SAVINGS

THE CANADIAN SOLDIERS ARE HOARDING THEIR MONEY.

Leave Pay With Canadian Government—Prisoners-of-War Are Also Accumulating a Government Credit.

Ottawa, Aug. 27.—Canadian soldiers at the front, getting those who are now prisoners of war in Germany, are piling up quite a tidy little savings account with the Canadian Government. The pay allowance to the Canadians is in most cases being held to their credit at the London Paymaster's office, as the men at the front have little opportunity to spend money while in the war zone, and prefer to leave all but a small portion of it to their credit in London. According to advice received at the Militia Department from London, a considerable portion of this accumulated pay was recently invested, on the request of the soldiers, in bonds sold by the British Government in connection with the recent war loan.

The Canadian prisoners of war in Germany are also accumulating a Government credit at the rate of about 75 cents per day. The pay allowance of those men from the Government is being continued while they are prisoners, but it is impracticable to forward it to them in Germany, and the monthly amount due them is being credited to their credit, less the shilling per day or $1.75 per week, which is being forwarded through the British War Office through arrangement with the United States Consul-General at Berlin. The War Office is forwarding a shilling per day to British soldiers who are prisoners in Germany, and it was not thought wise to allow a larger sum to the Canadian fellow-prisoners for spending money.

ADVENTRESS SET TRAP

Beautiful Woman is Accused by Rich Pittsburgh Man.

New York, Aug. 27.—Harry E. Shirk, a Brooklyn lawyer, confirms a report that he is getting ready to apply for an indictment, perhaps in New York county, against a ring of blackmailers who have been getting thousands of dollars from millionaires.

A wealthy Pittsburgh resident, who was entrapped into a $250,000 demand, is Mr. Shirk's client, and the leaders of the blackmailers is said to be an Englishman and a woman of French and Spanish extraction and of great beauty.

According to Mr. Shirk, the woman moves in Newport society under an assumed name; she has a record in London and Paris. The Englishman wears a monocle, and the other members of the group are two men and two women.

The woman is the last word in "beautiful adventuressess," according to Mr. Shirk after his return from Atlantic City, where he and Harry V. Dougherty, head of Dougherty's detective agency, were battling her.

The story had it that the Pittsburgh man met the adventuress at a hotel in Lakewood, N.J., in February, 1914; that she had eyes as big as cherries and was all curves and that in April at Atlantic City she threatened to sue for breach of promise unless she got $250,000.

FROM BERLIN TO WARSAW.

Mid-September To See Direct Railway Service.

Berlin, Aug. 26 via London, Aug. 27.—The Minister of Railways announces that direct service with Warsaw will begin about mid-September. The running time from Berlin to the Polish capital will be thirteen hours and better connections for Warsaw are promised than were available in peace time. The north express is running once weekly.

William E. Foster, Editor Dead. Buffalo, Aug. 27.—William E. Foster, for forty-two years editor of the Buffalo Commercial, died here. Mr. Foster was born in New Haven, Conn., in 1829, was graduated from Yale in the class of 1860 and served as an assistant paymaster of the navy during the Civil War. He had not actively engaged in newspaper work since 1911.

Canada's Industrial Toll. Ottawa, Aug. 27.—During July 53 workmen were accidentally killed in Canada and 254 others were injured. The fatalities included nine in mines, seven in agriculture, five on steam railways, five in metal trades. The injured included 63 in steam railways, 45 in metal trades, 30 in mines, and 20 in navigation.

Premier Venizelos is taking energetic steps to prevent trading in contraband which has been going on in Greece in favor of Turkey and Germany. Other measures against German corruption are announced. A general mobilization of Greek forces is believed to be imminent.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

DENONCES BERNSTORFF AS AN ENEMY TO UNITED STATES

Declares United States Should Have Gone To Assistance Of Belgium.—A Very Strong Arraignment.

Plattsburgh, N.Y., Aug. 26.—Theodore Roosevelt in an address at the military instruction camp here, declared that for thirteen months the United States had "played an ignoble part among the nations," in that it had "tamely submitted to seeing the weak, whom we had covenanted to protect, wronged," and "had seen our own men, women and children murdered at the high seas without action on our part."

The former president condemned the Government for having "not taken the smallest step in the way of preparedness to defend our own rights." Germany, he condemned as "utterly brutal and ruthless in its disregard of international morality," and declared that it "would be a base of abandonment of morality" for American manufacturers of munitions of war to refuse to make shipments "for the use of the armies that are striving to restore Belgium to its own people."

Munition makers who refused to make such shipments should be put, he said, on a "roll of dishonor." He added that we may be able to hold our own when the hour of peril comes to us in our turn.

He described Germany as "the most powerful of modern military nations, utterly brutal and ruthless in its disregard of international morality."

"There exists no finer body of American citizens in this country than those citizens of German birth or descent, who are in good faith Americans and nothing else."

The professional German-American has shown himself, within the last twelve months, to be an enemy to this country as well as to humanity. The recent exposures of the way in which these German-Americans have worked together with the emissaries of the German Government—by direct connection—against the integrity of American institutions and against America doing its international duty, should arouse scornful indignation in every American worth calling such.

The leaders among the professional German-Americans have preached and practiced what comes perilously near to treason against the United States.

"Under The Hague convention it was our bounden duty to take whatever action was necessary to prevent and, if not to prevent, then to undo, the hideous wrong that was done to Belgium. We have shirked this duty. We have shown a spirit too abject, that Germany has deemed it safe to kill our women and children on the high seas."

Cotton As Contraband. New York Herald. Will the effect of Great Britain's declaration that cotton is contraband of war? How will it affect our exports of the great Southern staple?

The answer given yesterday by the cotton markets—which presumably reflect the consensus of experts—is that the effect will be negligible. Contracts for future deliveries of the fibre closed slightly higher than on Saturday, before the royal proclamation was known.

Probably some sustaining influence was exerted by the accompanying announcement that the British Government "contemplates the initiation of measures to relieve as far as possible any abnormal depression which might temporarily disturb market conditions." This suggests possible purchases for government account or treasury assistance to British spinners desirous of accumulating a reserve of the staple.

So far as actual exports from this country are concerned the proclamation will probably cause very little change.

Two Pictures. Montreal Star. The latest Zeppelin raid in the south-eastern counties of England tributary to London must be regarded as the most successful of the series, for ten non-combatants were killed and thirty-six injured or wounded, the casualties including twenty women and four children.

"When the captain of the Gudrun (German trawler) saw that it was impossible to escape (a British destroyer) he asked for time to lower his boats in order to save his crew. The British commanding officer thereupon said, 'You can take the whole ship. We will not harm you.'"

These two little pictures, taken at random from the cables of last weekend, help to explain why the German press, busy in the United States has made such a lamentable failure of its task of influencing public opinion in that country in favor of Germany and her Ally. They also help us to understand why the "man on the street" among our southern neighbors is finding it increasingly difficult to be neutral.

Cursing At Large. Montreal Le Devoir.

There is here, as on the battlefields of Europe, a fight of liberty against tyranny, of civilization against barbarism, of respect for our constitution and for our survival as a race. The fight of the Franco-Ontarians is of the same type as that of the Poles, of the Alsatians, of the Danes of Schleswig. It demands the same respect, the same admiration and the same effective union. It is necessary that the thought of "justice to minorities" should be present in all memories, as that of "revenge" was in France. We must revise the famous saying of Gambetta "The Ontario question one must think of it always, and speak of it always." Persecutors and tyrants want nothing better than silence, silence propitious for tyranny and for unnameable poltrooneries. Their desires show us our duty.
