To Put on Flesh And Increase Weight

A Physician's Advice.

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase weight one ounce, while others eat less than half the amount and gain weight. It is all a matter of the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

This folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a necessary amount of health and strength. Nothing won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they are eliminated from the body as waste. What will prepare these fatty food elements so that they can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something, too, that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power?

For such a condition I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe, a patented drug, but is a scientific combination of six of the most effective and powerful "fat-building" elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective and sets very lightly upon the stomach. A single tablet wonderfully increases the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by all good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.
