COMING TO THE GRAND.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine"
On Monday
"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," as masterfully dramatized, has proven one of the greatest success of years. The dramatist has faithfully mirrored the delightful scenes of the book. Long runs and the great business of late years greeted this play in Boston, New York and Chicago.

Elaborate stage settings and the strong New York company presenting the play assure it of such success as all would wish the charming June heretofore.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" appears at the Grand Opera House on Monday, Sept. 13th, matinee and night.

"Tribby" All Star Cast.
Du Maurier's "Tribby" is one of the large successes of the year. Striking through the brilliant all-star cast may be in the opulence of its theatrical splendor of names, it is the brightly burning spirit of love and youth in the heart of the play which is the keystone of its triumph. This is not to detract one whit from the minded perfection of the performance. Miss Phyllis Nelson-Terry, Miss Rose Coghlan and the Messrs. Lynn Harding, George MacFarlane, Charles Dalton, Ignacio Marinetti, Paton Gibbs, Regan Hughston and their associates have endowed Du Maurier's English and Latin Quarter folk with moving charm and passion. In especial Miss Nelson-Terry looks the Tribby of the English cartoonists tale to the life. She might have stepped out of one of his unforgettable drawings. So appealing to the fancy is she in the soldier's coat, striped skirt and sabots of the opening scene, and in the exquisite golden empire costume as the singer.

Her young pink-and-white loveliness of face, her splendid figure, her air of trusting innocence all lend themselves to the illusion of the hour and the little world through which she moves, leaving unconsciously many aching hearts behind her. Miss Nelson-Terry's New York triumph in the role was probably the most artistically hit as well as the biggest personal popular success of the year. "Tribby" simply jammed the Shubert Theatre for weeks. It comes to the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, Sept. 16th.

Vaudeville at the Grand.
The excellent programme presented at the Grand last evening was witnessed by a very large audience. The feature photo-play was Elsie Jans, in the comedy play of "Nearly a Lady." The vaudeville act was one in which McCormick and Shannon displayed rare musical ability. On Monday evening there will be no vaudeville entertainment. On Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon and evening will be presented a picture-tization of Belasco's hit, "The Woman." There will be a two-act Universal photo play, a comedy play and the Pathé Films. The vaudeville includes Cullen and Davis in a singing and dancing act.

WAR BULLETINS:

All German drives have failed to seriously break the French lines. The Crown Prince's army was hurled back with heavy losses.

There is no relief so far in the strained relations between the United States and the German allies.

The Allies will raise half a billion dollar loan in the United States or greatly curtail war orders.

Bulgaria will not assist Serbia or the Allies unless all Macedonia is ceded to her.

The Russians have won another success in Galicia.

Latest casualty lists show heavy losses by the British at the Dardanelles.
