ON BARRIEFIELD HEIGHTS WITH THE OVERSEAS TROOPS

Col. T. D. R. Hemming announces that the 3rd Division will furnish five hundred men for reinforcements for the Overseas forces now in France and England. Of these 250 men will be picked from the 59th Battalion now at Barriefield Camp and the 77th Battalion stationed at Ottawa. The commanding officer is not sure when the men will leave, but it is expected it will be in about two weeks.

Col. Hemming is not sure what officers from the 59th will go, as the commanding officer of that unit had not submitted the list. It is thought that about one hundred men from the base company will be selected as a part of the draft. Lieut. Percy d'Esterre is in command of that company.

Capt. A. W. Gray of the 59th is so anxious to go that he had decided to drop his captaincy in the unit and go over with the draft with the rank of lieutenant.

Capt. Gray is well known in Kingston having graduated from Queen's University. While attending the university he acted as County Engineer.

Since the 59th Battalion went into camp at Barriefield, 250 men have left for overseas, and now 250 more are to proceed to England to complete training before going to the front.

It is expected that in the course of a few weeks the batteries which were recently mobilized at Barriefield will be called upon to furnish men to reinforce the batteries in France. A short time ago the officers in command of the batteries received letters from headquarters asking that they be ready to supply reinforcements at any time.

The system of sending drafts from the battalions is not liked by the officers and men who claim that men who enlisted to fight are being held for an indefinite period and with the chance of not getting overseas for months to come. The officers of the different battalions may never see service at the front, unless the battalion goes as a unit. Drafting hinders recruiting.

Col. Hemming, when asked if any arrangements had been made about the quartering of overseas troops in Kingston during the winter months, stated that nothing definite had been decided upon as far as he knew. He was almost sure that one battalion (likely the 59th) would be kept here and perhaps a couple of batteries. The Militia Department at Ottawa has a big job ahead of it when it attempts to decide where the soldiers will be quartered for the winter. The heads of the department have been asked by reports of all the towns and cities to allow some soldiers to be kept there during the winter.

Six or seven of the Kingston men who opened canteens along the Barriefield road on the way to the camp ground have been compelled to close up on account of lack of business. Although the soldiers are spending lots of money they evidently appear to spend it at their own canteens as the profits on all sales are used for battalion funds. The 59th Battalion canteen is probably the busiest one on the grounds. The Whig was informed that one day last week three hundred dozen soft drinks were sold there.

EARLY CLOSING ON RIDEAU. Will Help in the Causeway Steel Erection.

There is some probability that navigation will close on the Rideau entirely much earlier this season than for some years. All summer it has been none too brisk. It is true the water level has risen somewhat in the neighborhood of half a foot, but those boats that tied up during the summer on account of the low water have not or do not intend to run any more this season. The few that are left plying the Rideau are not over-burdened with cargoes, and they will soon be pulled off to go into winter quarters.

It may, however, be all for the best, and enable the Hamilton Bridge Company to go ahead earlier than it expected with the lift-span erection over the central waterway of the new causeway. The span near the Barriefield shore is rapidly nearing completion, and in a few days the steel builders will move across to the city shore and erect the second span. The central span will be the hardest to build, and if an early start can be made before the real frosty weather sets in it will delight the men, who at the best of times expose themselves to considerable danger hoisting the heavy steel girders.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," To-night.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," Eugene Walter's greatest play appears at the Grand Opera House to-night. A Southern romantic play of great power and charm, by Eugene Walter, from the book of the same name by John Fox, Jr., the author of "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come," the production has been rendered most vivid in motion and color by a gorgeous scenic embellishment to catch and reproduce the spirit of the great story. A splendid cast of New York players will be seen. The production is a massive one.

"Tribly" All Star Cast.

Joseph Brooks' eight star restoration of De Maurier's "Tribly" is easily one of the most interesting theatrical productions of the year. In the nightly storm centre of applause which swirls around, its tense and rapturous telling are grouped Phyllis Nielson-Terry, Lyn Harding, George MacFarlane, Charles Dalton, Ignacio Martinetti, Paton Gibbs, Regan Hughston and Rose Coghlan. Miss Terry's song of "Oh! Don't you Remember Sweet Alice, Bent Bolt," occasions a furore. And George MacFarlane's Scotch songs evoke Harry Lauderdale's enthusiasm. "Tribly" fresh from its ten weeks' New York triumph is due here at the Grand Opera House on Thursday evening, Sept. 16th.

Tuesday at the Grand.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening the management has secured that most powerful screen drama, "The Woman." It is a Beasop production, which is evidence of its calibre and the cast is headed by Theodore Roberts, America's famous character delineator. There will be a Universal two-reel photo play and a comedy play. The other films will introduce the Pathe Weekly and Pathe Pictorials. The vaudeville includes Cullen and Davis in a song and dance act.

Made Presentation.

A meeting of the officers of the 14th P.W.O.R. was held in the Armories Friday night when various questions of interest were discussed including matters pertaining to the band and qualifying classes.

Afterwards, a presentation was made to Lieut. D. Wightman, of a beautiful mahogany chime-clock.

Lieut. Wightman is to be married next Wednesday.
