COL. WATTERSON MAD
AT THE HUNS AND EXPRESSES HIMSELF FORCIBLY

Famous Editor Of Louisville Courier-Journal Says U. S. President Will Be "Heartless As Bengal Tiger" If Germans Fool Too Much.

Toronto Globe.

Col. Henry Watterson dropped in to the Globe office for an hour on Saturday. He left Louisville and the Courier-Journal office a week ago, and after an official visit to Paris in May, was on his way down the St. Lawrence, and on to New York to attend the 50th anniversary of the Manhattan Club.

"Well, the world's got into quite a mess since I was here five years ago," was "Marse" Henry's first remark. "It was plain the war was as great a reality to him as to any Britisher."

"I get mad clear enough every time I think about this 'dam-fool' business Germany has been trying to put over. It takes me back to '01, when some of our Southern Confederates talked the same crazy nonsense we have been getting from the German professors."

"We had fellows who clamored for a place in the sun, only they called it a place in the territories—a place for African slavery. They boasted that our southernners with a corn-stalk could lick daylight out of the best six Yankees that ever walked, just as the Kaiser boasted how he and his war lords could lick Brit-ain and his war lords could lick Brit-ain. And they bragged about their social superiority and their rights to hold down the black man, just as these German apologists brag about their supermen and their 'efficiency' and their 'kultur.'"

The North And The South.

"And our fellows succeeded—for a while. For two years and more we gave the north as much as they gave us. But it was no use. When the moral forces got into play the nerve of the slave-holding autocracy was cut. The thing was doomed as sure as there was a God in heaven. Two years before the Confederacy fell Lee and Johnson knew it could not stand. We were in it because our autocrats led us in. I was a flag man. But when the house of cards collapsed it was a big relief."

"And it will be a relief to thousands of decent Germans when their swashbuckling braggarts get their mock-out. All this aping of the Huns, this 'frightfulness,' this bel-lish barbarism—it's diabolical just now, but it, too, will go down like a house of cards. Every time I think of Belgium and the Lusitania and the Zeppelins I get mad and want to fight as I never fought back in the sixties."

German-Americans Deceived.

"Our German-Americans? Glory, but they were deceived. That whole gang of Embassy men and the professors and the spies—they have been at work on us for twenty years. I could hardly believe it. Here were decent, honorable men, who were my chums all my life, my comrades and companions—why, when I began to see that this war meant civilization against savagery, freedom against despotism, and took sides for civilization and freedom, those lifetime friends went clean crazy, mad and crazy. All right, if that's what they mean, almost any native American will take them at their word. We are no flabby neutrals."

"Want war? No. The man's a fool who wants war. Besides, there is not much of a military kind we could do just now. But if it comes to a showdown with the despots and the 'world-power' war lords and the place-in-the-sun autocrats, by jove we'll be there and do our bit if it takes ten years."

President Wilson's Make-up.

"You had it right in that editorial this morning. I read every word of it. Wilson has the restraint of a cultured scholar, but if they fool with him too much he can be as heartless as a Bengal tiger."

"Don't you worry about our Irish. We have a few professionals whose interest it is to talk about the evictions of a century ago—but our Irish handling of the Irish situation was as sensible to the limit—but our Irish leaders to-day know that a Liberal Government is in power, and that the right of the Irish people to govern themselves is sure to be granted. Our Irish in the States would fight for freedom just as heroically as the last from Dublin and Tipperary are fighting in France and Flanders to-day." And Col. "Marse Henry" Watterson went on his way with a parting shot for Berpstorff and the German spies, and with unreserved enthusiasm for what the Canadians are doing to make the world a siffer place for all nations. "This half-mad Hohenzollern dynasty, with all its wholly barbarian kultur, must first be smashed or there can be no peace for any of us. Good-bye."

GROWS COLOR COTTONS.
Remarkable Results Obtained by S. C. Planter.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 14.—Results remarkable seem about to be achieved by A. W. Brabham, of Olar, S.C., who has succeeded in producing cotton which ranges in color to iron snow white to deep olive green. The planter asserts positively that black cotton, sought for years by spinners and manufacturers, is about to become a reality.

The statements of Brabham are no dream is borne out in concrete fashion by the receipt in Savannah of samples of his color cottons. The exhibit has been framed and hung on the walls of the Cotton Exchange, where it has occasioned general interest and comment. The secret used by Brabham in his experiments are those of the Egyptian staple. He had practised the selection extensively, and in four years had secured in regular order from the Egyptian seed a cream, tan, yellow, green, light brown and olive green. He is sanguine that attainments thus far achieved warrant the assertion that black cotton is coming in the near future.

The samples sent by Brabham to Savannah cannot by any stretch of the imagination be confused with tinges in cotton which might be the result of exposure or weather conditions. Neither is there any suspicion that dyes have been used to produce the colors. It is conceded that Brabham is giving to the world a most valuable discovery, and that as a result the dye manufacturers of Germany, who have for generations had a monopoly of the business throughout the civilized world, and especially in this country, will lose thereby untold millions in trade.

It is the confident belief of Brabham that the spinners and manufacturers will eventually be able to secure cotton in the raw or unmanufactured state in any desired shade or color. The advantages to be derived from such production is obvious.

WHERE NICHOLAS FAILED.
Did Not Press Victories, Says Italian Critic.

Rome, Sept. 14.—"Grand Duke Nicholas lacked sufficient energy to profit from his triumphs when the Russian army was victorious," writes General Corsi, in the Tribune. "He lacked the influence to impress upon the Emperor the fact that the bureau-racy was responsible for the insufficiency of military preparations. During the retreat, however, Grand Duke Nicholas showed a clear mind, capable of formulating precise views and reaching prompt decisions."

"Thus it was that the retreat, which might have been turned into a rout, became through the leadership of Grand Duke Nicholas one of the greatest military successes of history from a strategic standpoint. It is without comparison except for the famous retreat narrated by Xenophon."

AN IMPERIAL MURDERER

ARCHDEACON OF LONDON DENOUNCES BABY-KILLERS

Bodies Of Five Slain Children Taken to One Hospital After "Nursery Became a Slaughter-House"—Terrible Reckoning For the Kaiser.

London, Sept. 14.—The Archdeacon of London, preaching in St. Paul's Cathedral, referred to the recent Zeppelin raid on London.

"I need not go farther back than last Wednesday," said the archdeacon, "to tell you that battle has changed into murder. Speaking with all the restraint that is due from every preacher, as well as from the press, and with the knowledge and consent of the censor, I tell you that to one hospital alone were taken the dead bodies of little children of 15, 10, 7 and 5 years, and one little baby, so that the nursery became a slaughter house."

"Of the imperial murderer who allowed it, if he did not order it, all we can say is, in the words of the psalmist, the most awful punishment given to a man, 'I will set before thee the things thou hast done.'"

MAJOR A. C. LARTER. Promoted to captain's rank, to take charge of the troops supply column at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

REMAKING MAN'S FACE

THE REMARKABLE DEVICES OF A PARIS SURGEON.

He Built a Nose, Lips and Cheek On a French Soldier Who Had Been Horribly Wounded.

London Daily Mail.

If a man has neither nose to smell with, nor lips to drink with, nor a cheek to chew in, is he or can he become a man? Not without a miracle perhaps.

But there are surgeons, and among them Drs. Morestin and Tullier, of the Rothschild Hospital in Paris, who perform the miracle, the miracle of reconstructing a man from his own ruins.

M. Cristiani, a correspondent of the 'Journal des Debats' of Paris, was admitted recently to the Rothschild Hospital to see for himself the miracle in question. An attendant asked him to look at the photograph of a man wounded in the French trenches who had been admitted to the hospital. It was a terrible picture. The face lacked the left cheek, the left eye, the left lip and the nose. Could that be a man? I could not help thinking of Victor Hugo's description. "His marrow was no more in his bones nor his life in his gut-let. Had he ever possessed an eye, and if so where was it?"

While the correspondent was looking at this appalling picture the hospital assistant made a sign to one of the patients of the hospital who was just going to spend an afternoon at a cinematograph performance.

Here is our man, said the assistant. The correspondent started uncomprehending, but the assistant added with a smile, "Yes, I assure you this is the patient whose photograph you have in your hand; the man who was brought into hospital without cheek, without eye, without chin, without lips, without nose."

The correspondent at first thought the assistant was "pulling his leg." For the patient who was just going out bore no signs of the terrible wounds indicated in the photograph. His left cheek was the twin brother of the right cheek; he had an excellent chin, lips that just opened in a genial smile, and nose with an irreproachable contour. His face only bore the rapidly vanishing traces of some cuts and a few white marks of surgical sewing. The patient himself proceeded to confirm the assistant's assertions, talking in the slang of the French infantryman: "Yes, it's myself, 'twasn't any good the Boches spoiling my portrait; the doctor tricked them after all. As you see, he had manufactured for me a very decent face. For myself, I think he's improved it, and I believe they'll find me more of a knut when I get back into the country." Then he lit a cigarette and went off to his cinematograph while the assistant continued the story of the miracle.

"The great point," he said, "was that the vital organs were still intact. After a few days of continued washing and antiseptic treatment,

WAR BULLETINS.

Athens reports indicate numerous plots in all sections of the Turkish Army and it is believed the Dardanelles must soon surrender.

German airships on Monday night made their sixth raid on Britain in one week. No serious damage was done. Admiral Sir Percy Scott has been placed in charge of defence of London against Zeppelin attacks.

In making reprisals, French aeroplanes bombarded and seriously damaged several important German cities on Monday.

The Germans have reached the railway to Petrograd but are falling back in the south.

The second Canadian division is now all in France.

British workmen are to visit the trenches and see the need of munitions.

COST OF LIVING.
Department Of Labor Index Number Is Highest On Record

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—The Department of Labor index number for August is announced as 147.6, which is 1.5 higher than in July, and 11.3 higher than for August last year. This month's index number is the highest since 1890, when calculations on the cost of living in Canada were begun on this basis. There were price changes during the month on miscellaneous groceries, woollens and fute, oil cloths, sewing twine, drugs and chemicals.

The fall in grain lowered the price of flour, and in some places of break as well. Cattle, sheep, eggs, fruit, vegetables, tin, copper, and a few minor articles were cheaper.

Probs.: Fair and warmer until Wednesday evening.

Don't Use Soap On Your Hair

When you wash your hair, don't use soap. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain purified coconut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.
