Give the Man a Chance

World of truth into a word capsule.

A man in ill-fitting clothes is like a badly bound hymn book, between the covers, but the very best, no doubt, but you don't feel like picking him up.

Then you have the whole philosophy of correct dress. Again we say, give the man a chance.

Buy the best. What line equals 20th Century and Fashion Craft? We know of none.

Prices as reasonable as good clothes can be sold for.

BOARD OF EDUCATION CONVICT WILL HANG GASOLINE SUBMARINES

FOR A MURDER COMMITTED NEAR SIMCOE.

Emerson Shelley, Who Was Taken From Portsmouth Penitentiary, Was Found Guilty on Thursday.

Emerson Shelley, the convict who was taken from Portsmouth penitentiary last Saturday to Simcoe to answer to a charge of murdering Christian Shoup, a farmer, near there last May, was found guilty on Thursday afternoon, and the judge sentenced him to be hanged on December 11th.

Shelley tried to prove an alibi, but the evidence presented by the Crown was too strong. A Simcoe despatch says: "The identification of a knife owned by Christian Shoup, and taken from Emerson Shelley in Woodstock, in the crevices of which knife dust still clings; the production of a letter written on paper given to Shelley on Wednesday, May 12th, and dated by him 'Tuesday, May 11th'; the production of a revolver which had been in the accused man's possession, five chambers of which were loaded, and the fact that the distance between the scene of the murder and the city of Woodstock, nearly forty miles, could be walked in less than twelve hours, were all matters of great interest brought out in the case for the Crown."

Chief Killing and Constables Bickley and Robley, all of Woodstock, gave evidence as to the arrest and the searching of defendant in Woodstock the next day. Eight dollars in bills were taken from him, and in Mrs. Shoup's evidence she said she thought her husband was carrying about nine or ten dollars that day. These bills were produced in court.

Stephen Tree, a wine clerk in Woodstock, testified that on Wednesday morning he sold Shelley a bottle of brandy, and that he asked him to keep a revolver and cartridges for him until night. This weapon was loaded in five chambers, and there were four additional cartridges.

Other witnesses told of Shelley's whereabouts on the day previous to that morning. Mrs. John Carr and her husband testified that he stayed at their place that night, and that he left at one o'clock on Thursday, with one hour or two of the crime, and he was then going toward a road which would lead him to Shoup's farm.

Shelley was sentenced at Norwich in June to three years in penitentiary for burglary.

WAR BULLETINS.

It is estimated that 800,000 Teutons are ready to invade Serbia. Russians retreating from Vilna seem to have made their escape secure. Heavy firing in the North Sea seems to indicate a big battle.

Take Up Question Later.

London, Sept. 24.—The omission of Reginald McKenna, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, to propose any additional taxes on beer and spirits in placing the new budget before Parliament, was due, according to the daily Telegraph, to the fact that the Government intends to deal comprehensively with the entire drink question later in the session.

American papers demand that Dumba, Von Pagen and also Bernstorff be packed off home without more delay. For smuggling letters into Holland, three Belgians have been sentenced to death and thirty-three others to long terms in jail.

HENRY FORD IS MAKING A DEMONSTRATION.

Detroit Manufacturer Undertakes to Prove Their Feasibility To U.S. Navy Department—Would Use Gasoline In Aeroplanes, Too.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, has undertaken to demonstrate to the Navy Department that gasoline is available as a motive power for submarines.

Mr. Ford began his work-or-behalf of the Government yesterday morning at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, where he made a descent in a submarine by arrangements perfected for him by Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

In addition to his efforts to adopt gasoline as a motive power for the undersea boats, Mr. Ford it was stated, has evolved a scheme by which aeroplanes without passengers may be directed and used by wireless as practically self-acting engines of war.

Mr. Ford's theories and plans were discussed by him to-day with President Wilson, Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Admiral Dewey, President of the General Naval Board, and the chiefs of the bureaus of the Navy Department. Mr. Ford first visited the Navy Department, and then called on the President at the White House.

Mr. Ford's idea is that gasoline can be used even under water. The problem, in the opinion of experts, is to dispose of the exhaust. It has been hinted to them that Mr. Ford has in mind some chemical application by which the exhaust will become absorbable in water.

If gasoline could be used instead of stored electricity for submarines when submerged it would add immensely to the radius of action of the underwater craft. At present a submarine which may be able to haul 3,000 miles on the surface by using petrol can only accumulate and store sufficient electricity to carry it 200 miles under water without rising to the surface.

Confiscated Cargoes.

Rochester, N. Y., Post-Express. The British prize court having confiscated certain cargoes consigned to Continental neutrals, the shippers have decided to carry their case to higher courts of the realm. There seems to be no hopeful prospect that the decision will be reversed as to shipments misleadingly invoiced to Switzerland as gum. But the packers whose meats were held up have a somewhat better case. There was no conclusive testimony that these cargoes consigned to neutrals were intended for a belligerent, though the presumption is that they were. The neutrals receiving them were already so over supplied with meats beyond their normal needs that these cargoes must have spoiled on the hands of the consignees. The inference is inescapable that the neutrals were to be forwarded to Germany, neutrals that have been marketed at a profit; but inference is not a legal proof. Pending decision of the cases on appeal, Americans may congratulate themselves that no allegation appears to have been made, as during our war with Spain, that the meats were spoiled and unfit for human consumption like the canned stuffs said to have been unloaded on our government for use of its troops.

Canada's Contribution.

Toronto Globe. The proportion of Canadian troops despatched to the seat of war and actually at the front is lower than that of any other overseas Dominion, and very much below the percentage of men sent out from Great Britain. In Canada up to the present time the total enlistment has been about 1 1/2 per cent. of the population. In Great Britain there are under arms about 600,000 regulars and territorials enlisted prior to the outbreak of hostilities, 250,000 men in the navy, and almost three million men recruited since war began. This vast array represented almost eight per cent. of the population of the United Kingdom. A similar proportion of Canada's population would involve the raising of over 640,000 men in the Dominion. That could be done only by conscription. Yet General Hughes, with the irresponsibility of a school-boy, talks loftily about obtaining a million men whenever he wants them.

Hard Hit By New Taxation.

London, Sept. 24.—Rich American men and women who live in England will have to pay more than $2,400,000 to the British Government under the terms of the new super-income tax which is included in the budget introduced in the House of Commons on Tuesday. The hardest hit is William Waldorf Astor, who, according to the new rate, will have to pay approximately $1,250,000 annually. It is estimated that there are nearly twenty thousand Americans living in England, all of whom fall under the provisions of the new income tax.
