Letters To Editor

Pretty Small Pay, To Be Sure.

Kingston, Sept. 27.—(To the Editor:—)Recently, at the special request of Inspector Timmerman, (representing the garbage committee), I passed up a good job I had in view, so as to lend a hand in clearing away the present garbage collection difficulty.

On the question of wages, the Inspector informed me that I would receive $2.50 a day of ten hours, for the use of my horse and harness, (the city to furnish the wagon), and $1.50 a day for my services, making a total of $4.00 a day, which I agreed to accept.

Imagine my surprise upon reporting for duty on Monday morning upon being informed that the garbage committee had instructed the inspector to only pay $2.50 a day, for the use of the horse and harness, including my own time and services. Aldermen Wright and Litton, the apparent chief-pusher on the committee, (both public contractors,) are compelled to pay $2.25 a day of eight hours to hod-carriers and laborers, while the average earnings of a man with a horse and dump cart are $4.00 a day.

How then in view of the present cost of living, and buying and maintaining a horse and harness, can a man resist and do the work on $2.50 a day? As a taxpayer and contributor to the cost of this new fangled incinerator and garbage collection system, I want these two worthies to kindly explain.

Seeking Information.

Ald. Nickle is seeking information about the money the city has paid to the Hydro-Electric Commission for engineering advice. It seems that a bill of over $600 has recently been paid by the Council, and Ald. Nickle thinks the aldermen should know just what the Hydro-Electric Commission's engineering service is costing Kingston.

CITY COUNCIL SESSION

ON MONDAY EVENING FOR PASSAGE OF BY-LAWS.

Grant Of $100 Made To the Kingston Industrial Fair—Free Light Asked for Soldiers Club in St. Andrew's Hall.

The City Council held a special session on Monday evening for the purpose of passing by-laws which were on the budget of the meeting of September 15th, but which had to be held over owing to the lack of a sufficient number of members being present around the hour of 2.30 a.m. of the 16th inst. The Council chamber was of such a temperature as to put a damper upon the ardor of some aldermen to drift into any lengthy heated discussion, and the Council session concluded at 10.30 o'clock.

A by-law was passed fixing the license fees for carters and cabmen, the increased fees not taking effect until January 1st 1916.

By-laws were passed for the construction of twelve concrete sidewalks; but one presented for the construction of a macadam roadway with concrete curb and gutter on Brock street from Barrie to Alfred street failed to carry.

A by-law to amend the by-law regarding the fire limits and prevention of fires, so as to allow the storage of twelve, instead of two barrels of gasoline, was referred to the Fire and Light Committee.

These recommendations of the Finance Committee were passed: that the account of Smith Elliott for $150 for collecting city garbage from Sept. 14th to 20th be paid; that $100 be granted to the Kingston Industrial Fair.

On motion of Ald. Nickle the Council decided to give free light and water for any building in which overseas troops are quartered during the winter. The buildings at present in view are the artillery barracks, Cereal building and the City Hall.

Ald. Couper moved seconded by Ald. Graham that Brock street, from Barrie to Alfred be repaired the same as on the same street between Sagot and Barrie. The motion was carried.

Communications Read.

These communications were referred to committees:

Registrar Queen's University notifying Council that the Old Collegiate Institute Building will be placed at the disposal of the Militia Department.

Secretary of the Board of Trade asking Council to vote $200 to the Kingston Industrial Exhibition.

City Auditor regarding resolution of Council concerning payment of car of tarvia.

Remission of taxes on military convalescent home; further appropriation of $700 to City Property and Markets, and regarding the salary of William McCann.

Miss Mary Ogden Strange, Secretary-Treasurer of the Soldier's Club in St. Andrew's Hall, asking for free light. Granted.

John Morris asking to install a five-barrel underground gasoline tank.

Matthew Walsh asking to have a verandah erected in front of the house at the corner of Sydenham and Queen Streets.

Secretary Khaki Club expressing appreciation for free use of light and water.

In attendance at the meeting were Mayor Sutherland and Aids. Bews, Couper, Graham, Gardiner, Gillespie, Hanley, Hughes, Kent, McCann, Newman, Nickle, O'Connor, Stroud, Wright, White, and Wormworth.

Three of the aldermen present were in khaki—Majors Gardiner, Gillespie and Stroud.

IN MARINE CIRCLES.

Movements of Vessels Reported Along The Harbor.

The schooner Julia B. Merrill cleared for Oswego, to load coal for Bay of Quinte ports.

M. T. Co's Bulletin—Tug Bronson arrived from Montreal, light, will clear for Montreal with one coal and one grain barge; steamer India passed down last night, with grain from Port Colborne for Montreal.

The steamer Hamilton passed down p. m. Monday; Acadia down 4 p. m. Monday; Ames down 8 p. m. Monday; Calgarion, down 4.30 a. m. Tuesday; Halifax, down 9.20 a. m. Tuesday; Haddington is due up 2 p. m. Tuesday.

The Dundurn exists no longer as a steamer. A Whig reporter was one of the first to tramp the deck since it has been converted into a barge, shortly after the old freighter arrived in port on Tuesday morning as a consort of the steam barge Water Lily. For over a year the Dundurn has been undergoing repairs at Picton and the entire upper cabin containing the state rooms has been torn away leaving nothing but a bare deck with hatchways for storing freight within the hold. The machinery has also been taken out and the barge Dundurn is expected to be one of the best carriers along the lakes. The barge was taken to Port Dalhousie on Tuesday afternoon to be loaded.

Some Fine Samples.

S. Irish, Catarqui, has shown the Whig some very fine samples of second-growth raspberries, which were picked on his farm last Sunday. In fact, he was able to secure a quart or more for table use. It is seldom that second-growth berries are found as plentiful as this.

Beautiful New Stock to Choose.

Prevost, Brock street, has this year an extra fine assortment of tweeds, chevrets and serges for his order clothing department. His ready-made clothing and gents' furnishing departments are well assorted with new goods.

Pleased With Visit.

The 59th Battalion bugle band was one of the attractions at the Lindsay Fair. The band is an excellent organization, and a credit to the 59th Battalion, says the Post. The boys were most generous in supplying music, and were great favorites with the crowds that greeted them.

QUARTERS FOR TROOPS

NO INFANTRY ALLOCATED TO KINGSTON FOR WINTER.

Only Three Batteries Mentioned—However, Kingston May Get a New Battalion That Col. Hemming Will Soon Ask For.

An Ottawa despatch says: "Troops in training in Canada this winter will be quartered in the Third Division as follows: "One battalion and 400 Engineers in Ottawa; three batteries in Kingston; two companies each at Peterboro and Belleville, and one company each at Lindsay, Cobourg, Picton and Napanee."

From the above it would appear that Kingston was not to have any infantry quartered here for the winter. It was expected that the 59th would remain here. However, the above allocation may not be final. It may be that the 59th will be sent overseas before the snow flies.

Col. Hemming told the Whig this morning that he intended in a very short time to ask for permission to mobilize another battalion here, and Kingston may get it for the winter. This city has ample accommodation for a battalion of infantry and three batteries.

RETURNING SOLDIERS.

Several sons of the Limestone City have returned from the seat of war wounded and ill, and no attention has been paid them by the City Council, when they deserved some kind of civic welcome home after doing their "bit" at the front. The Mayor and the Aldermen to recognize the wounded home-comers, and not allow them to pass to their homes without a word of cheer. Some means should be found to keep the Mayor and Aldermen posted as to the time of the arrival of Kingston's wounded.

A FIGHTING FAMILY.

Sergt.-Major Kerrison's Male Relatives All in Uniform.

Sergt.-Major Kerrison, of the Royal Military College staff, has the satisfaction of knowing that every male member of both of his own and his wife's family is wearing the King's uniform, being either at the front or in training to go and fight the Germans. He has two brothers, one a sergeant with the 21st Battalion in France, and one at Barriehill with the 80th Battalion.

Mrs. Kerrison has a brother in the 59th Battalion and a sister's husband is in the S.M.R., which leaves for the front in a few days. Two brothers-in-law of Mrs. Kerrison are at the front with the British Expeditionary force. Sergt. Major Kerrison also has three cousins in uniform.

NEW EQUIPMENT ISSUED.

To the 21st Battalion Before It Left England.

Bugler Frederick White, 21st Battalion, in a letter dated September 13th, to Bandman Smith, R. C. H. A., states that the battalion has received new equipment. The letter reads in part as follows: "Our new equipment is more comfortable on the back, as it is all webbing, which is convenient for marching. We carry the entrenching tools, one end is the shovel and the other the pick. It is a nice, neat idea, and is packed under the pack. The ball pouches carry 200 rounds. We have the respirator, the field dressing and the identification disc, which is carried around the neck. It is the size of a 50-cent piece. All of the battalion had a hand photograph taken yesterday. To-day is the day of sports, and to-morrow we leave England for France. Everything is kept secret as regards the movement of troops. There has been thousands of British troops rushed out of England this month, so it looks as if there is going to be a drive before the winter sets in."
