Give the Man a Chance

World of truth into a word capsule.

A man in ill-fitting clothes is like a badly bound hymn book, between the covers, the very best, no doubt, but you don't feel like picking him up.

Then you have the whole philosophy of correct dress. Again we say, give the man a chance.

Buy the best. What line equals 20th Century and Fashion Craft? We know of none.

Prices as reasonable as good clothes can be sold for.

TWO KINGSTON SOLDIERS RETURN FROM THE FRONT

STRUCK BY SHRAPNEL

WAS NOT ALLOWED TO RETURN TO FRONT.

Pte. Edmund Montgomery Still Suffers From Gas Poisoning—He Had a German Helmet But It Was Stolen.

Private Edmund Montgomery and Gunner William Mackney, two Kingstons, arrived in the city on Sunday, but were not officially received, owing to the day of their arrival not being known.

Pte. Montgomery was too weak to say anything but Gunner Mackney, who lost his right eye, did not hesitate to tell the Whig reporter on Monday that the officials in Kingston were asleep. More hospitality was shown to them by outsiders than by the citizens of Kingston, where he was brought up.

Gunner Mackney went to the front with the Kingston Field Artillery and during the early engagements of April was struck in the eye with a piece of flying shrapnel that severed the member. A long gash protruding from the eye down his cheek for a couple of inches was also inflicted, besides bad wounds about the scalp.

When he recovered and had a glass eye inserted, he wished to go back to the front but the War Office would not permit him. He was offered a place doing home guard duty but turned it down and received his discharge papers.

Mr. Mackney was furnished with a button to wear on the lapel of his coat showing that he had done his duty at the front for his country. The button takes the form of a medal, one inch in diameter and bears the Union Jack in natural colors. About the edge of the medal are the words: "For active service, 1915."

Speaking about Red Cross work, Gunner Mackney said that many soldiers would die in the trenches were it not for some of their comrades who carried them back to the hospitals.

Pte. Montgomery still ill. Pte. Edmund Montgomery could not be seen by the Whig reporter. His nerves are entirely gone. He was one of the Canadians who underwent that gruelling German gas raid and from the effects of it he has not recovered. His appetite is gone and sickness follows all the attempts to eat a hearty meal. The authorities would not discharge him and he is obliged to undergo treatment in the newly-opened convalescent home.

The gas poisoning coupled with the atrocities Pte. Montgomery has seen at the front, has completely shattered his constitution. Beside him in the trench comrades were shot to death sometimes seeing them blown to atoms. Pte. Montgomery also was one who witnessed a Canadian soldier nailed to a door with bayonet wounds all about the body.

Often times, he stated to his mother, who imparted the news to the Whig representative, he prayed not knowing what moment would be his last.

On one occasion Pte. Montgomery was able to obtain a helmet from the dead body of a German and took it to the hospital with him. When he had partially recovered and able to sit up the helmet was stolen by one of the attendants, and Pte. Montgomery had to return home without his trophy. He will not be able to return to the front.

$4 Saved Two Fingers. While at work in the St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery, J. V. Besnard, of 339 Craig Street E., Montreal, had his hand badly crushed by the falling of an iron beam. Two fingers, particularly, were so badly crushed that the doctors, who were called to attend him, said they must be amputated.

Mr. Besnard, however, had heard of the wonderful healing properties of Zam-Buk, and he refused to have the fingers taken off. Instead he had the fingers and the crushed hand dressed with Zam-Buk. This, he says, stopped the bleeding, eased the pain, and put the wounded members on the way to recovery. Every day he had the Zam-Buk dressing replaced, and by the time he had used eight boxes of Zam-Buk the fingers were completely healed, he could use them as before the injury, and his hand, too, was quite restored.

Just think what this really meant! Think what it means to go through the world with a maimed hand, and minus two fingers! Practically a cripple! Ordinary treatment would have meant just that to Mr. Besnard. The Zam-Buk way saved him from it! By a trivial expenditure of $4 in Zam-Buk, the world's greatest balm, he saved himself from disablement for life!

Take the lesson to heart! If you have any injury, blood-poison, or any diseased tissue, old wound, or suppurating sore, apply Zam-Buk. Don't waste time! Zam-Buk builds up new tissue, heals wounds, cuts, burns and bruises, ends eczema and eruptions, heals cold cracks, cures piles, and is the most useful and most effective balm known to present-day science. All druggists and stores sell at 50c box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse harmful imitations and substitutes. Get the real thing and see the name on the box before purchasing. Imitations and substitutes of Zam-Buk would not have saved Mr. Besnard's fingers and will not save yours!

Any man knows that all there is to homekeeping is broiling a steak or boiling a few potatoes and occasionally taking a turn at the dishpan. And now even the steak is eliminated.

WAR BULLETINS.

The Allied successes continue. All new ground taken is held by the British and the French, and some new territory has also been taken. Official captivation shows 20,000 prisoners taken and seventy guns.

The British offensive near Lens develops rapidly. It is expected that town will be taken from the Germans to-day.

German papers intimate that the Crown Prince may be relieved of his command because of foolhardy orders.

Operations in the Dardanelles have settled into a state of siege for the time being.

Russians score new successes on the eastern front.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Vaudeville And Picture Bill Of Great Merit.

A most delightful programme of high class vaudeville and pictures was presented at the Grand Opera House last night before a large audience. The feature picture "The Puppet Crown," with Ina Claire in the leading role assisted by Carlyle Blackwell.

The vaudeville consisted of James Beano in an eccentric contortion and aerial act. Mr. Beano does some very clever work on a trapeze and his contortion work is also good.

MISS PEGGY WORTH, Singing comedienne, at the Grand to-night and on Wednesday.

Specialty his doubling up inside of a small box. The other act consisted of Percy Worth in a comedy singing act that won much favor from the large audience. Miss Worth was formerly a moving picture actress three years with the Lubin and Keystone Film Firms. She is extremely pretty and has a voice full of beauty.

The same bill will be presented to-night and on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Guy Brothers Minstrels

For the past thirty-nine years Guy Brothers' great minstrels, have been continuously on the road and playing to crowded houses and pleasing hundreds of people every night, a record that no other company can claim. George R. Guy, the proprietor and manager of this company, is always assured of good business, as the theatre-going people are sure to witness a clean wholesome and refined production. Guy Brothers' minstrels always please. Thirty-five people are carried. The band and orchestra has always attained the very highest standard and is without a doubt the best on the road to-day. They will parade at noon on the day of the attraction. At the Grand on Friday, Oct. 1st.

FOR FAILURE AT VILNA.

Many Changes Rumored in German Commands.

London, Sept. 28.—Owing to the failure of the Teutonic forces to surround the Russian army at Vilna, there have been many changes in the German command, says a despatch from Petrograd to Reuter's Telegram Co. Even Gen. von Eichorn's name is mentioned as being among those in disfavor, according to statements made by German prisoners.

Captured Germans also say, the message adds, that an appeal has been issued to the German armies before the Russian town of Dvinsk, calling attention to the importance of the capture of this point in order to protect their comrades on the Sventany front.

Help The Sailors, Too.

The Marine Hospital at Greenwich, near London, has been placed at the disposal of the Admiralty, and large numbers of sailors and soldiers are being received from the Dardanelles. Lord Devonport has issued a stirring notice, asking for further equipment for this hospital, as it is open to receive sailors from all parts of the world at all times. In many places in Canada enquirers have asked, Can we do anything for the sailors? The council of the National Ladies' Guild have already sent a matter up, and have already sent a first contribution of help. Lady Wilson has consented to receive contributions at 19 Elmley Place, Toronto, and the council will be glad of all the help that can be sent by the friends and admirers of our gallant bluejackets. Official receipts will be issued for all gifts, through the post.

ARE NOT WELL PLEASED

WITH HENRY FORD'S ATTITUDE IN PRESENT WAR

A Wave Of Resentment Will Sweep Over the Country When It Becomes Known That His Feelings Are Not Very Helpful.

Canadians who have purchased Ford automobiles to the extent of thousands of machines, and who have helped materially to build up Mr. Ford's colossal fortune, have not been any too well pleased with his attitude towards the present war. Doubtless, a wave of resentment will sweep over the country when they learn that Ford has threatened to withdraw his money from any bank that may take part in the proposed loan to England and France. The following is quoted from the Sunday World American:

Henry Ford's threat to withdraw his millions from any bank with which he has connections that aids in the proposed great war loan to the Allies has caused a deep impression in the financial circles where the loan is being negotiated.

Mr. Ford, who has given $10,000,000 to finance the peace propaganda in this country, stated his position on the loan before going to Boston with W. H. Vantine, the architect, who is building for him a mansion worth several millions, at Dearborn, Mich. After declaring that if he had his way he would "tie a can to this Anglo-French commission and chase it back to Europe," Mr. Ford said:

"If I find any of the banks in which my company or myself have deposits taking part in the loan I will immediately close our accounts. I won't have any part of my personal funds, or the Ford Company funds directly or indirectly, siding the looting of this loan."

Added interest was given to the manufacturer's threat to withdraw his deposits from the fact that his company is regarded as the largest bank depositor in the country holding accounts subject to check. The accounts on deposit in the various financial institutions subject to check are estimated as high as $30,000,000.

In Chicago this large checking account scared several banks, it is said, and forced them to give up the business with the Ford Company, as they were not sure and could not over a minute he would send in a check calling for a million in cash.

Mr. Ford insisted that he was very serious in antagonizing the mission of the loan commission.

"Why, you know who is back of this loan proposition, and making every effort to win its favor with the American people," he said. "It is the militarist. He sees big profits in the scheme. The New York newspapers are favoring the loan because they are controlled by the militarists."

Mr. Ford was asked to explain the motives that prompted him to take so strong a position against the big loan. He answered quickly:

"One of my strong objections to this loan is that the foreign commissioners are trying to put over a huge loan without putting up real security. They might have some sort of an excuse if they had brought over with them a batch of American securities and then proceeded to the business of borrowing our money."

RECRUITING SLACKENS.

Information Should Be Given About Hughes' Statement.

Toronto, Sept. 28.—The number of recruits attested in Toronto last week was 450, the lowest total established since the Recruiting Depot was established. The opinion is held that in view of the statement of Sir Sam Hughes that Canada has authority to enlist only 150,000 men, and that soldiers are greatly in excess of that number at the present time, a further official declaration of the number of troops that Kitchener wants from Canada would be opportune and helpful to recruiting.
