THREE MEMORIALS WERE DEDICATED ON SUNDAY

Bishop Bidwell Confirmed Twenty Candidates and Preached a Sermon On Choosing Whom We Shall Serve.

A service of much impressiveness was held in St. Luke's Anglican Church Sunday morning, with the Bishop of Kingston officiating. The first part of the service was devoted to dedicating the memorials in loving memory of three departed members of the congregation. The first of these took the form of a brass alms' basin, the contribution of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church, in memory of the late Jessie A. Forneri, who was the faithful helpmate of the highly esteemed rector of the parish. The second memorial was also donated by the Women's Auxiliary in memory of the late Mrs. Harriet J. Simpson. It took the form of a handsome cedula. The third memorial was a brass lectern, donated by Mrs. J. W. Stewart, Ottawa, in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Lasher.

Bishop Bidwell offered apologies for having delayed the memorial service, which should have been held last Sunday. A confirmation service in the country had compelled his absence from the city. Bishop Bidwell delivered a sermon based upon Joshua xxiv: 15: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve. His Lordship urged that we exert our utmost energies in our vows to God. "We should test our vows and see how we are carrying them out." Twenty candidates were confirmed by the Bishop.

Congregational Church Hard Hit Dr. W. T. Gunn, Toronto, denominational secretary for the Congregational Union of Canada delivered a forcible sermon in the First Congregational Church Sunday evening. The text selected by the speaker was Ephesians vi: 13, "Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand."

In these troubled times, declared Dr. Gunn, with the oppression cast upon business directly through the effect of this terrible war, matters do not look any too bright for various enterprises. The Congregational Church in some quarters has been hard hit, while in others it has held its own. The good accruing from the latter in itself is a consolation, because when the time arrives to advance, the workers will be there just as the soldiers, who have held the line in France since the battle of the Marne Valley for almost twelve months, dashed forward upon the command to break through and better conditions. Standing is really the hardest, stated Dr. Gunn, but when the time is not opportune, if the church can only hold its own without dropping away, victory is inevitable.

Our churches in the West have suffered greatly, said the speaker. The church in Calgary has been compelled to sell its former site. Out in Vancouver things are worse than one can imagine; liabilities to the extent of $18,000 have heaped up. Five influential men on the governing board have been necessitated to go to other quarters to get their daily bread. It is also a shame how another one of our little branches in the west has been ruined through the lack of judgment, stated Dr. Gunn. This is at a German settlement, but the truth of the matter is the inhabitants originally migrated here from Southern Russia. Because they are out in Canada and cannot speak the English, the people turned them down. Two of the young men, who wished to go across the border were thrown into prison for several weeks because the officials could not read Russian declared Dr. Gunn. Nevertheless the church is standing the strain admirably. Those that stand faithfully will receive the word to advance shortly after these hard days are over.

The war is going to bring to men liberty, power and joy, and in the meantime, said the speaker, let every true Christian grip the word of God. The latter at first will not have much taste in it especially to those persons who have cheated or lied to their fellow-men. There is no bitterness like it to such men.

Archbishop Worrell in St. George's, Kingston, formerly of Kingston, was in the city over the week-end, and spoke on

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mother can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other drug.

Sunday morning in St. Mark's Church, Barriefield, and in the evening in St. George's Cathedral. In the evening the Archbishop preached from Acts iv, 12: "There is no other name under whereby we may be saved," and after explaining the circumstances which led up to the statement, he showed what the apostle meant by being saved. People naturally thought of being saved from physical ills. The Jews at that time thought the Messiah when He came would save them from Roman oppression. He then compared the state of the empire to-day with the condition of the world at the time of Christ's coming, and said there was danger of our losing the real lessons of the war and slipping into an attitude similar to that of the Jews. They did not understand that Christ came to save the people from sin, which is the root of all suffering and oppression.

When He went over Jerusalem it was because they would not come to Him, casting off the indifference and formalism and worldliness of their lives and following Him in truth and purity of life. His warning to them was that their city should be left to them desolate. Shall Macaulay's vision ever be realized of one from another country sitting on the ruins of London bridge and looking down upon a desolated city and telling of the past glories of the British Empire? Is there a Briton who will not answer, "No! The thing is impossible. But if it is to be prevented there must be not only a determined effort on the part of every one to give their money and lives, if need be, to stem the tide of the crushing enemy? There must also be a determined effort to make the nation free from the evils that had been seizing it. This is the work of the Church, to which it has been addressing itself. The character of a nation depends upon the character of the individuals who compose it, and until personal religion marks the lives of the individuals the nation cannot rise to such a position that it may expect God to go forth with its armies. Then, and not till then, will the real strength of the nation be developed.

At Cooke's Church. Rev. D. W. Best, Galt, a graduate of Queen's University, preached at both services in Cooke's Church on Sunday, and delivered inspiring sermons. In the evening the musical programme included a fine duet by Miss Agnes Lemmon and Allan Lemmon.

Daily Day Services. There were 41 present on Rally Day Sunday in Queen Street Methodist Sunday school. And they had a good time together. The songs were heartily rendered, the words being thrown on a screen. Dr. Coleman gave a bright address, making comparisons between the soldier and the Christian. Both to obey, to endure, and to fight. There are twenty-nine men from the school and church who are in the army, and seventeen of these had their profiles thrown on the screen. Nearly all were to the scholars, and they manifested their pleasure by clapping their hands. The school room is undergoing improvements which will make it bright and cheery. Mr. Campbell spoke on "The Church in the Sunday School" at the morning service, and "The Sunday School in the Church" at night. He handled the subjects in an apt way. Mrs. (Dr.) Coleman was the evening soloist, rendering two selections, "Abide With Me" and "Oh How He Loves." The congregations were large.

HOW GERMANY WAITED

AND WATCHED FOR WAR TOLD BY PROF. W. G. JORDAN

Who Spoke Before American Club of Toronto—Kaiser Wanted World Power in Place Of Bismarck's German Union.

The Toronto Star Weekly says: How the overwhelming confederation of Europe arose so irresistibly and in so amazingly brief a time from what the ordinary observer would appear a trifling spark was lucidly explained in an informal lecture given Saturday evening by Prof. W. G. Jordan of Queen's University, Kingston, before the members of the American Club of Toronto. Prof. Jordan took as his subject, "The Triple Alliance and the Triple Entente."

"During the negotiations," said Prof. Jordan, "Sir Edward Grey expressed his aversion to the thought of England being drawn into war by the clash between Austria and Serbia. A few days after he made this statement the thing he feared had taken place. It simply means that this small but tragic incident of the murder in Austria set in motion the complex machinery that has been busy up in the course of many years. The doctrine of the 'Balance of Power' was held firmly by the majority of the British people. In the Napoleonic war they had fought many years to prevent Europe from being dominated by one great military power. A century later men had begun to fear that Germany was pushing herself into the position that France had occupied a century before. Germany was the largest military and commercial power on the Continent. She held Austria in a firm alliance; had managed to subject the Turkish Government to her will, and had a treaty of alliance with Italy.

"The Triple Alliance—that is, Germany, Austria, and Italy, with Germany as the leading power—was the work of Bismarck. Bismarck was born just a century ago at the time when the Napoleonic wars were brought to a close. He died 20 years ago. For 30 years he dictated the foreign policy of Prussia and Germany. When Austria was defeated by Prussia in 1866 and Bismarck refused to push the victory to extremes because he desired the alliance with Austria, he also drew in Italy as a balance against France and British in the Mediterranean."

Bismarck Was Satisfied. "But he took the position that the Prussian war policy had fulfilled its mission in uniting the various parts of Germany into one empire under the leadership of Prussia. He encouraged the colonial policy of France thinking that it would divert her attention from her lost provinces. He also formed the 'Reinsure Treaty' with Russia so that the danger from the east might be lessened and that Germany would not be likely to have to wage war on two fronts. In other words, he wished to avoid the situation which has actually occurred."

"But the man who followed Bismarck did not accept his view that Germany was satisfied. The young Kaiser dropped the pilot Bismarck and gave his own interpretation to history and policy. World power was the place of German union as the objective desired. It was declared that Germany's future was on the water and that nothing great must take place in the world without her sanction. "We must now turn our attention to the other side; to the origin of the diplomatic group called the 'Triple Entente.' France was practically isolated after the defeat of 1870. The nation was depressed and heart-broken. Owing to the folly of her leaders she had received no help in the hour of her greatest struggle. Later when she began to recover her strength what was regarded by many as a strange alliance—that with Russia—sprang from France's need of sympathy and support and Russia's need of financial assistance.

King Edward's Work. "About the time the Russian alliance was dropped by Germany, some fifteen years ago, Britain stood in what is called splendid isolation, but it began to be evident that that position was untenable by a world empire. By the action of King Edward and Lord Lansdowne, the way was paved for a friendly understanding with France. Later on the growth of the German navy and the domineering spirit of the German military party forced the British to an understanding with Russia, especially with regard to Persia. "In 1905 Germany insulted France by practically demanding the dismissal of the Foreign Minister Declasse, and it was seen that Germany was prepared to use her power in a dictatorial manner. Similarly in 1908 when Russia protested against the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Emperor, to use his own phrase, appeared in shining armor, as Russia was not ready for war, he gained a diplomatic victory. In 1911 the Kaiser tested the Entente by sending the Panther to Agadir. He found that Britain was prepared to stand by France and the military party, not quite ready for war, received a diplomatic defeat. "Since then her energies have evidently been spent in preparing for the conflict which was regarded by her as inevitable."

Professor Jordan then spoke in a more detailed manner as to the precise way in which the war began, going back further into the history, showing how Russia gained her position and how the German people had failed to get the voice of the nation's affairs which was exercised by the free people of Britain and France.
