JOHN MILLER AT REST

THE LIFE OF A KINDLY MAN AT AN END.

Had Lived in Harmony With the Theme of a Grand Old Hymn—He Was Born at Perth Road and Had Many Frontenac Friends.

The wreath of the "Grim Reaper" has once more flowered and John Miller, Delisle, Sask., has gone from us. His illness lasting only a few days, prepared his family to many friends but ill for the going out on Wednesday, Sept. 22nd, of the life of the kindly man whom all loved, and the grief of Mrs. Miller, her two sons Clifford and Ross, and her three daughters Romona, Lillian and Vivian is shared in heavy measure by the sorrowing community.

The funeral service was held at the Union Church, in Delisle, on Friday, September the 24th, and in spite of a steady drizzle of rain, there was hardly a family in the town and vicinity not represented. The anthem "Does Jesus Care," was sung by the choir. The hymns were "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Amen in Jesus," and "Sun of My Soul," the last a favorite with John Miller from boyhood and the thought must have struck those who had been near to him that he who had passed through the Valley of the Shadow had lived in harmony with the theme of the grand old hymn and "the soft dew" had found him ready for the sweetness of eternal rest.

Rev. J. I. Thorne, who, assisted by Rev. W. A. Macdonell, conducted the service, took as the text of his sermon: "The Eternal God is thy refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms." (Deut. xxxiii., 27), which, while echoing the sympathy which lay deep in the hearts of all, brought a ray of comfort when the bereaved ones were reminded that "God has marked each sorrowing day."

Floral emblems from the High School, T. R. Shepherd, A. M. Lee, the Ladies' Aid, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Donaldson, and E. M. Fallens, combined with those of the family to make the casket beautiful.

W. A. Edwards, undertaker from Saskatoon, had charge of the funeral, and the remains were taken to their last resting place in Delisle cemetery, followed by a long procession of cars and carriages of friends.

The pallbearers were Messrs. J. Loucks, W. J. Loucks, James Gordon, R. Rossay, R. I. Keeler and J. I. Macphail.

John Miller was born at Perth Road, Ontario, in 1859. It was there he spent his boyhood, and made his home until about four years ago. In 1911 he came west and settled on the farm on which he lived until death claimed him.

The strong personality of the man, who said little but who kept within the depths of a true manhood, a noble earnestness, a deep tenderness, and a real fellow feeling for others, touched for good each life with which he came in contact, and our grief is mingled with gratitude for the legacy of the plain but beautiful career of John Miller, whose life was an inspiration, whose memory a benediction.

Australia's Great Offer.

It is good to learn that the Commonwealth Government of Australia is taking action with a view to settling ex-soldiers on the land of Australia when the war is over. Of the total area of the Commonwealth, only about half is held or occupied, and only a very small portion has been actually disposed of by the State. All that is needed to bring immense areas of new country into profitable use, making home for thousands of families, seems to be the systematic construction of railways to serve the settlers, and the giving of State assistance and advice to enable the new settlers to acquire the land and overcome the initial difficulties. This, we understand, is ready, and the settlers, too, will be at hand when Tommy comes marching home. Thousands of men, at the conclusion of the war, will not desire to return to their former indoor occupations, but, having lived and worked out-of-doors for a year or more, will seek opportunities for following healthy open-air employment. This applies not only to the soldiers from the United Kingdom, but to many from the Overseas Dominions.

The Fall in Appointments.

In the list of officers for the 85th Battalion of Nova Scotia Highlanders, announced on Saturday, appears the name of Joseph Hays, organizer of the Conservative party in Nova Scotia, who has been appointed chief medical officer of the regiment, with the rank—and of course the pay—of Lieutenant-colonel. The appointment of Mr. Hays to this important position, in which he will have entire charge of the health of the regiment, and the bestowal upon him of the rank of Lieutenant-colonel, will furnish a good many people in Nova Scotia. What his medical qualifications are we do not know. All that we do know is that he is not engaged in the practice of medicine, but that, on the contrary, for a number of years he has been a salaried official—the secretary and organizer of the Tory party in this province—and that his whole time and energies, so far as the public are aware, have been employed in fighting the Liberal party in Nova Scotia.

Knew His Value.

There is an illustration in Chicago which has lately been so besieged with orders for work of various sorts that he has felt obliged to enlist the aid of collaborators.

One young artist with whom he was negotiating asked:

"How much will you pay me a week to work for you?"

"I pay every man what he is worth," was the short reply.

The artist scratched his head reflectively. Then he picked up his hat to go. "No old top," said he.

"I can't work that cheap."

continue popular, and this one-piece frock is in brown and green check, trimmed with changeable taffeta.

The one-piece frock has been called the first-aid to the well-dressed man's wardrobe, and certainly it finds a conspicuous place among the mode for Fall. Checks and small plaid patterns are the most popular for these dresses, with trimmings of plain silk and velvet to enhance their distinction. The touch of novelty which this model boasts is achieved through the vest which is continued down onto the skirt in a pointed section and trimmed with buttons of velvet. The front gored of the three-piece skirt are perforated to be cut away for the insertion of this pointed section, but if preferred, the front lap may be continued in a straight line to the top of the skirt, and the pointed section cut away from the vest.

In medium size the model calls for 3/4 yards 54-inch material with 3/4 yard 40-inch silk for the collar, belt, cuffs and buttons.

The back gore is placed on the fold of material first, in cutting the dress and, contrariwise to usual custom, the lower edge of the gored is placed nearest the crosswise edge of the goods—that is, at the very beginning after the material has been folded in half. The front gore reverses this position and has the waist-line pointing to the left of the cutter and the lower edge to the right. The front is laid near the lengthwise fold, but not on the edge, and to the right of this is the back, followed by the collar and belt, all on the fold of the material.

To the right of the front gore, and on a lengthwise thread is the sleeve, with the side-front coming after the sleeve.

There are not any startling changes in the lines of one-piece frocks, but there is a growing tendency to favor more fitting lines, with a slight curve at the waist-line and, of course, a greater fulness in the skirt.

Belts of suede and velvet are to figure conspicuously in the trimming of plain frocks, regardless of the material used.
